P
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1879

SECRETARY'S REPORT. No. IV.

Commencement,
1890.

LIBRARY
MAR 14 1938
UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

Harvard College Library.

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

http://www.archive.org/details/n4secretarysre1879harvuoft

HELIOTYPE PRINTING CO., BOSTON

THE NEW GATE.

HARVARD COLLEGE.

CLASS OF 1879.

Secretary's Report. No. IV.

1890.

349085
6. 4. 38.

PRESS OF
BIGELOW PRINTING AND PUBLISHING CO.,
BUFFALO, N. Y.

CLASS COMMITTEE.

THOMAS WEBB PRESTON.

FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE.

FREDERICK GARDINER PERRY.

ISAAC TUCKER BURR.

JAMES ANDERSON WRIGHT.

Class Secretary.

FRANCIS ALMY.

SIGILLVM ✦ ACADEMIÆ HARVARDIANÆ IN NOVANG
CHRISTO ET ECCLESIÆ

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

To the Class of 1879:

I must preface my report with an expression of regret that it was not ready in time for Commencement. Class Reports of late years have been appearing at all seasons, and yet Commencement is our proper dating point, and I am sorry to have not quite reached it. Advance sheets of the report were in our class-room on Commencement day, but they were incomplete, and in large part were first proof, unread.

I must also at once thank those of the class who have so promptly answered my circulars, and especially those who have given me information concerning men who have not answered for themselves In very many cases I greatly wished to reply to letters received, with thanks for trouble taken, or for kindly personal expressions, but the letters came in such quantities and the time I was willing to give to this work was so limited, that I soon gave it up, and make only this general acknowledgment.

I have, as a rule, printed each man's account in his own words, exactly as received, striking out only what was too irrelevant, unimportant or uninteresting. I have this year sent no proof to the different men, save where especially asked, and many will doubtless find in print here words which they would have chosen more carefully had they expected them to take permanent form. The report is for private circulation only, however, and this should be borne in mind by the unfortunate ones

As for those who have not answered, I regard them with mixed feelings. I understand perfectly a dislike to furnish material concerning one's private or public life and doings for publication anywhere, and such dislike, when expressed, I should of course respect; but I do not understand the indifference which admits of receiving three circulars and an autograph letter from a classmate without even an acknowledgment. In such cases I have felt at liberty to print any hearsay information received, from any source.

We have lost four members in the last five years, Evans, Tarbell, Somerby and W. E. Smith. We have gained two, J. A. Brown and Rindge, who received merited A. B.'s as of 1879 in 1888 and 1890, respectively. Our graduate membership is now 194, and I think that all who look through the pages following will feel that these 194 lives are powerful factors for good in various directions throughout the community. It is worthy of note that among our number we have for five years included the President of one of our older colleges—the youngest college President in the country.

Several topics have come up since 1885, which should be recorded here. In 1886 our classmate Taussig was appointed Assistant Professor of Political Economy, a signal honor for so young a man, the next to the youngest in the class. In April of that year a movement was started in the class to raise funds to equip a special library and reading-room for the Political Economy department of the college, the money to be used under Taussig's direction. Six hundred and seventy-five dollars and seventy cents was raised and formally presented to the President and Fellows of Harvard College, and gratefully accepted by them.

The names of the subscribers are as follows, the subscriptions ranging from one to one hundred dollars: Almy, Andrews, Amen, Baily, Baylies, Bissell, Brooks, Burr, Carey, Cary, Churchill, R. W.

Ellis, Evans, Felton, Gilbert, Hale, S. H. Hill, Hoadly, Holmes, Hubbard, Hudson, Hyde, Keene, Kidder, C. J. Mason, McLennan, Rindge, Sheldon, Somerby, St. John, H. Stetson, Taussig, Thorp, Trimble, Urquhart, Warren, Wright.

In June, 1887, Taussig furnished the following account of the way the money had been used and the practical working of the room :

"Of the sum contributed by members of the class ($675.70), about $400 has so far been expended for books. We have gone slowly in buying books, as needs change from time to time and better selection was likely to be got by buying when a want arose, rather than by anticipating wants. A considerable number of books will probably be added next year, but even as it stands, the collection is fairly complete for certain courses, and is exceedingly useful. It contains the works of the classic economists, like Adam Smith, Ricardo, Malthus, most of them in duplicate ; and also the works of the leading economists of more recent times, such as Cairnes, Sidgwick, Marshall, Jevon, Rogers, Walker, among English writers ; Wagner, Cohn and Schoenberg, among German ; and Bastiat and Leroi-Beaulieu among French. Many of these also are duplicated. There is a good working collection on tariff and financial matters for the United States, on railroads and on economic history in general. A considerable number of dictionaries and books of reference have been put in, such as 'Lalor's Political Science Cyclopædia,' the French 'Dictionnaire d'Economie Politique,' McCulloch's 'Commercial Dictionary,' Kolb's 'Condition of Nations.'

"In addition there are a number of government publications, which are by no means the least useful part of the library. Besides the statistical abstracts of the United States, England and France, there are sets of United States Census Reports (including a full set of the census of 1880), Massachusetts Census Reports, the Finance Reports (U. S.) since 1870, Reports of the Comptroller of the Currency since 1876, the Statutes at Large, a full set of the Massachusetts Labor Reports, documents and reports on railroads and tariff legislation, and important foreign documents, such as the well-known British Reports on the Depreciation of Silver (1876) and on Railroads (1881). Among the periodicals kept on file are the Financial Chronicle, The Railroad Gazette, The Political Science Quarterly and our own Journal of Economics.

"The library has undoubtedly been of great service to instructors and students. It has been very freely used by the latter, and it has been a frequent and pleasant experience to hear their expressions of acknowledgment of the aid and pleasure it has given them.

"It is interesting and significant that a similar plan is to be put in operation next year in the department of American History and Politics. A Working Library is to be provided, and will probably be put in the room now used for the Political Economy Library, so that the two will be used together. The money comes in a way from our class, being given in memory of our classmate, Glendower Evans, whose death last year made so sad a gap in our ranks."

Each volume bears a neat book plate stating that it is given by members of the Class of 1870 to the Political Economy Department.

In the spring of 1886 the following circular was sent to all the candidates for nomination as Overseer:

CIRCULAR SENT TO THE CANDIDATES FOR OVERSEERS.

"Dear Sir: The Alumni of Classes that have recently graduated often find it difficult to vote intelligently on the annual nominations for Overseers of Harvard College. They are anxious to exercise the franchise entrusted to them, and to exercise it for the University's best interests, but many of the names of the candidates are merely names to them, and they know little or nothing of the general standing of the men, or of their opinions on and interest in matters affecting the University. The Secretary of the Classes of 1878, 1879, 1880 and 1881 join in writing you this letter that they may obtain from you some expression of opinion on College interests, which they may submit to the graduates of their respective classes to guide them in their votes. We ask that you will kindly write a brief statement of what are to you the important questions affecting the College to-day, and that you will say in what ways you would especially strive for its advancement, should you be elected

Please give your general views on such points, for instance, as making attendance at morning prayers voluntary, making it possible to enter Harvard without the knowledge of Greek, the ultimate admission of women to the Medical School or the other professional schools, the abolition of the marking system, etc. Your reply to this letter, with the replies of other candidates, will be printed and sent to the members of our classes, prefaced by a brief statement showing your present occupation and the main circumstances of your public life, etc.

"Please understand rightly our motive in this movement. We do not wish to hamper you by committing you in advance to any definite line of action on questions that you have never considered and on which you have formed no definite opinion. We recognize, indeed, that the main point to be considered is not whether one's views vary from our own on this or that subject, but whether a man is suitable for the place, liberal, energetic and thoroughly interested in the support and progress of our Alma Mater. For those of our classmates who know you, no words from you are necessary. But the others, living perhaps at a distance, men who retain an active interest in the College, who have decided opinions on some of the questions mentioned, and who desire to use their influence toward the decision of these questions, would be grateful for something to guide them in their choice.

"Please let your reply be received on or before April 10. If no answer is received by that date, it will be assumed that you decline to furnish one. Yours respectfully,

JOSEPH C. WHITNEY, Boston, Mass.,
Secretary of the Class of 1878.
FRANCIS ALMY,* Buffalo, N. Y.
Secretary of the Class of 1879.
FREDERIC ALMY, Buffalo, N. Y.,
Secretary of the Class of 1880.
CHARLES R. SANGER, Cambridge, Mass.,
Secretary of the Class of 1881.

Cambridge, Mass., April 1, 1886."

The replies received were very full and interesting, and furnished valuable assistance to the Class in voting intelligently. Similar circulars were sent in 1887 and 1888, the classes of 1882 and 1883 successively joining in the movement. At Commencement, 1888, the Nominating Committee were instructed by the Association of the Alumni henceforward to send to all the Alumni, with the ballots, a brief statement of the residence, occupation, public record, previous terms of service, or other valuable data, of each of the candidates for nomination as Overseer.

*To whom replies should be addressed.

At Commencement, 1889, the vexed question of whether or not to furnish rum-punch as well as claret-punch at our Commencement entertainments came up again, and, by a vote among those present of 30 to 9, it was decided that the subject be once more brought before the whole Class, for vote by mail. The previous votes of the class upon the question had been as follows:

June 14, 1880.—Is it your opinion that nothing stronger than claret-punch should be furnished the Class on Commencement Day? Yes, 142 ; no, 28.

January 1, 1882.—Are you in favor of having a small amount of rum-punch provided at our Commencement meetings, for the benefit of those who desire it for themselves or for others? Yes, 50; no, 70.

A circular was sent out by the Secretary in August, 1889. When the first circular to collect information for this report was sent out, March 30, 1890, the vote stood 65 for rum-punch to 56 against, and it was so stated in a foot-note to the circular. This statement stirred up the opponents of rum-punch, and on the first of May a powerful circular was sent out to the Class, signed by Goddard, Hale, Hyde, Taussig, Thorp and Wright, calling for votes against rum-punch, and urging that it was for the interest of the University that the use of rum-punch on Commencement Day be discouraged. The circular changed but three votes, but brought in several laggards on both sides not previously heard from, with result such that the vote now stands 75 to 68 against rum.

In accordance with this vote, nothing stronger than claret-punch was furnished this year. A more hearty luncheon than usual was provided, however, including salads, cold meat, strawberries, etc., with three efficient waiters and appetizing service. The introduction of a cider cup proved also very acceptable, and there seems to have been a general satisfaction with and acquiescence in the result. Those who strongly desire that all the classes should give up rum-punch on this day (and a movement to this effect will soon be started), feel especially thankful that a retrograde step has not been taken by our Class, the first to move in the matter.

We have had two Class dinners since 1885: One on November 5, 1886, at Young's Hotel, to celebrate the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the College, 105 members being present, and Wright presiding; and one upon our decennial anniversary, June 25, 1889, at Young's Hotel, 89 members being present, and J. T. Bowen presiding. Both were unusually pleasant Our next dinners come in 1892 and 1894.

Our frontispiece this year shows the new gates between Harvard and Massachusetts Halls. The following article from the New York Nation, of December 12, 1889, gives so perfect an idea of their structure and general effect that I quote it here in full:

"When the procession of alumni and invited guests at the 250th anniversary of Harvard College, one of the greatest gatherings of American notables of modern years, entered the yard, it saw on either side of the road a small post of Quincy granite terminating the plain rail fence which surrounds the yard, and an insignificant cast-iron gate swung back out of the way.

This was the western entrance to Harvard College, through which for years the Commencement Day processions, headed by the Boston Lancers, had passed, and it was but little more distinguished than the first rail fence that marked the early clearing in which stood Harvard and Massachusetts Halls. Regret for the poverty of such an approach to the first of American universities may often have been felt by the alumni; but no one is known to have remarked upon it till, on the day in question, Mr. Samuel Johnston, of the Class of 1855, was overheard to express himself very emphatically on this point. The event proved that a resolution was taken then and there, for when Mr. Johnston died, a few months later, his will was found to contain a bequest of $10,000 for the erection of a gateway to Harvard College.

"It is perfectly safe to say that the news of this bequest was a source of pain rather than pleasure to nearly every Harvard man who heard of it. The University's modern architecture was so largely bad, so out of keeping with the quiet character and good proportion of the Colonial Halls, that the erection of another monstrosity seemed worse than a waste of $10,000, which might have gone towards lighting the Library or some other practical need, especially when the site dedicated to the new structure lay between the two best of the Provincial buildings, with a vista of old church and graveyard beyond, dear to every Harvard memory. The idea of a marble Arc de Triomphe—of bronze lions—of Gothic buttresses—insulting the repose of that spot, seemed very like desecration.

"The success of the experiment, which is now so near completion as to make a description of it possible, seems nearly triumphant, in view of the not inconsiderable difficulties confronting the designers; for, leaving out of the question what might have been, the new gateway is a great artistic addition to the College, and a permanent one. That it is so is due to the sound æsthetic judgment of the architects, Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, who looked for their inspiration to the adjoining elder buildings, and aimed from the first to erect a monument which should emphasize their ancient beauty, and not assert its own individuality.

"The result can best be described by the passing traveler's impressions. As he comes down North Avenue, he sees opposite the old Unitarian Church two great brick gate-posts, the center of the design, rising solidly to the dignified height of some twenty feet, and connected by a heavy crossbar of iron, with graceful, curving lines, surmounted by a delicate wrought-iron canopy, adding much to the loftiness of the effect. Beneath this crossbar are swung open the great gates of the new era. The gate-posts are about five feet square. Rising from a course of warm Conway granite, they are made up of brick carefully selected for the purpose from various Boston brick-yards, laid in symmetrical, though apparently unstudied, pattern, and varying from the over-baked black to the under-baked buff brick; the courses being the alternate "headers" and "stretchers" of the Flemish bond used in the older buildings. The bricks are a trifle irregular in shape; and their blended color, the slight irregularity of their surfaces, and the broad mortar setting give an effect of freedom and distinction quite remarkable. A sunk panel of brick relieves the lower half of the post from stiffness, while the upper half takes a different color from a corresponding panel of Yorkshire sandstone set upon the post, and separated from the lower panel by several courses of brick and a plain piece of sandstone to mark the change in the color-motive. There are four of these panels, and carved upon them are the shields of the state, college, city, and an emblem to the donor and the nation. Of these, the first and the last are the best, the fine old Indian of the Massachusetts shield and the national eagle being carved with great vigor. I pass over the appropriate inscriptions, which are cut in bold Roman capitals. The gate-posts, in which some have detected a resemblance to the famous ones at St. Augustine, are surmounted with caps of Yorkshire stone, terminating each in an acorn-shaped finial, which gives a surprising effect of lightness to such weighty erections.

"The gates themselves are magnificent pieces of iron work, probably the finest ever made in this country. They are seven feet broad each, and sixteen feet high, making a most imposing appearance whether open or closed. They are made of hand-forged iron, which, like their brick setting, has a freedom of outline which machine-wrought material would lack; and their slender vertical bars, lifting the eye to the crowning point above them, are relieved from monotony by two central panels of more elaborate work, two converging horizontal panels above, and two massive locks with handles of heavy wrought-iron, which are firmly screwed on at about three feet from the ground. All the iron work is painted black, save the gilded dates, 1636 and 1889, in the canopy. The initials A. A. M., barely discernible, are said to stand for a munificent anonymous donor to the gate fund.

"The gate-posts are set back some twenty-five feet from the main street, the entrance to the yard curving gently in between granite curbs, and leaving a large space on the sidewalk. At each side of the gate-posts a brick wall, about ten feet in height, and capped with Yorkshire stone, runs some fifteen feet north and south, terminating in a smaller brick post, three feet square and twelve feet in height, surmounted by a square cap and a huge sphere of the soft yellow stone; the abruptness of the wall's departure being taken away by a scroll-shaped console springing from the larger posts. From these smaller posts two other walls project at right angles some fifteen feet westward towards the street, ending in two more of the smaller posts, paneled in relief with brick, like the larger ones. This brings the design out to the old fence-line: the central part of the scheme forming three sides of a rectangle, some fifteen feet by fifty. On the street side of the first wall, close against the string-course of Conway granite, is a low, heavy bench of the same stone, resting on two carved claws; at the opposite side of the way a great elm rises from the corner to droop its limbs over the whole, and furnishes a natural relief to the severity of the wall. The space about it and in front of the seat is to be well turfed. On the rear of the two walls are two niches, sunk in the brick, surmounted by a shell cut in stone. One has a shallow basin of the sandstone, beneath which is a larger basin of granite; into this a small bronze mask will soon emit a fine jet of water. The other niche will have no fountain, but in front of it, set at a little distance from the wall, is another granite bench like the first, making a beautiful resting-place in the summer.

"The walls on the left and right as one enters the gates are unbroken, except for two large panels of sandstone, on which are inscribed the first history of the College, number one containing the succinct votes of the old Colonial Court: 'By the General

Court of Massachusetts Bay: 28 October, 1636, agreed to give 400£ towards a schoale or colledge, whearof 200£ to bee paid the next yeare, & 200£ when the worke is finished, & the next Court to appoint wheare & wt building: 15 November, 1637, The Colledg is ordered to bee at Newetowne: 2 May, 1638, It is ordered, that Newetowne shall henceforward be called Cambrige: 13 March, 1638–9, It is ordered, that the Colledge agreed upon formerly to bee built at Cambridg shalbee called Harvard Colledge.' All those early years of endeavor and self-sacrifice are thus summarized in the quaint memoranda of the fathers; but the purpose of the first 'schoale' is more clearly gathered from the delightful little quotation from 'New England's First Fruits' on the opposite panel: 'After God had carried us safe to New-England, and wee had builded our houses, provided necessaries for our liveli-hood, rear'd convenient places for God's worship, and setled the Civill Government: One of the next things we longed for, and looked after, was to advance Learning and perpetuate it to Posterity; dreading to leave an illiterate Ministery to the Churches, when our present Ministers shall lie in the Dust.'

"The rest of the design is of the same refinement and simplicity. Two smaller iron gates flank the main one, and lead to paths within; they too are crowned with elaborate canopies and with arabesque glass lanterns. Continuing north or south from these gates, and rising from the string-course of Conway granite, is an iron fence, of the same beautiful detail as the other iron-work, and having its center strengthened by a very heavy filigreed panel, much higher than the rest. From the end posts on the street there is a return of iron work, terminating in a post, which leaves an open space between it and the opposite hall. These gaps will probably ultimately be filled. The whole construction is now thrown into perspective by six granite posts (or fenders, in Italian fashion), set across the sidewalk, one opposite each of the smaller brick posts.

"This is the new gate of Harvard College. From the day its first bricks were laid it seemed a fitting part of the place—so much so that one barbarian remarked mournfully, "Now, I suppose, we shall never have any decent buildings to take the place of these old ones"; and several Freshmen were convinced that an old building was coming down, not a new one going up. In remarks like these the architects must have found a reward for their striving."

Our report issued in 1882 contained an account by Taussig of the changes in the University in the three years after our graduation. There is an admirable account of the changes since that date in the '82 Class Report just issued, written by George Lyman Kittredge, of that class, Instructor in Anglo-Saxon and Old English Literature, which I take the liberty of quoting almost verbatim:

HARVARD COLLEGE. 1882-90.

"A comparison of the 1881–82 Catalogue with that for 1889–90, shows the very great change that eight years have made in the personnel of the Faculty. In 1882 the instructors in the College (I leave the other departments of the University out of account) numbered seventy-four, fifty-five of whom were members of the Faculty. This year the whole number is one hundred and two, of whom sixty-six are members of the Faculty.* In spite of this increase, the last Catalogue lacks many familiar names. Professor Francis Bowen, in our day very active in his duties, but since last year an Emeritus, has just died. His death, though one could hardly call it unexpected, was sudden, and almost to the last his well-known figure could be seen any day in the library or crossing the college yard. Professor Sophocles and Assistant Professor Jacquinot died in 1883, Professor Eustis in 1885, Professor Gurney in 1886, Professor Asa Gray in 1888. Professor Ernest Young, whom we knew as Instructor in History and Roman Law, died in the same year, shortly after his promotion to the Chair of History.

"Resignations, promotions and new appointments have all done their part to make the present roll of the Faculty unfamiliar to '82 eyes. Professor Lovering, after an unprecedented term of service —fifty years as full professor—resigned in 1888. His chair is filled by Professor B. O. Peirce, in our day Instructor in Mathematics. Dr. Gibbs, the Rumford Professor, has also resigned, and Professor Trowbridge has taken his place. Neither Professor Lovering nor Professor Gibbs has disappeared from the Catalogue,

*It will be remembered that by the statutes, all instructors appointed for more than a year belong to the Faculty. Annually appointed instructors do not.

however; for both have been honored with the title of Emeritus by the Corporation. The resignation of Professor Torrey and of Professor James Russell Lowell followed hard upon the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the College. Both still appear in the Catalogue with the title of Emeritus. Mr. Macvane, whom we knew as Instructor in History, has succeeded to the McLean Professorship; but the chair left vacant by Professor Lowell has not yet been filled. Dr. F. G. Peabody has succeeded Dr. A. P. Peabody, now an Emeritus, in the Plummer Professorship of Christian Morals.

"Several names familiar to us as belonging to instructors or Assistant Professors are now followed by a higher title. Among these are Professors Greenough, Smith, C. J. White, J. W. White, Palmer (who has succeeded to the Alford Professorship, left vacant by the resignation of Professor Bowen), James, Emerton (now Winn Professor of Ecclesiastical History), Mark (now Hersey Professor of Anatomy). The Greek department has been strengthened by the appointment of Professor Wright, formerly of the Johns Hopkins University, but has lost Assistant Professors Dyer and Croswell, who resigned in 1887—the former to devote himself to literary work, the latter to take charge of a large school in New York City. The French department has three new Assistant Professors—Messrs. Cohn, Sanderson and Sumichrast; the German department, two—Drs. Francke and von Jagemann; the English department two—Messrs. Briggs (who taught some of us the Odyssey in our Freshman year) and Wendell; the History department two—Drs. Channing and Hart; the Philosophical department one—Dr. Royce; the Physical department one—Dr. Hall; the Political Economy department one—Dr. Taussig. Mr. Sheldon, in our day Instructor in Modern Languages, has for five years been Assistant Professor of Romance Philology. Mr. Davis, in 1882 Instructor in Geology, is now Assistant Professor of Physical Geography. Mr. W. S. Chaplin, the present Professor of Engineering, was appointed soon after the death of Professor Eustis, in 1885.

"The great increase in the number of students since 1882 has often been the subject of remark. The catalogue of 1882 showed 182 Seniors, 207 Juniors, 217 Sophomores, 217 Freshmen, and 34 unmatriculated students; in all, 857. The last catalogue shows 278 Seniors, 244 Juniors, 282 Sophomores, 323 Freshmen, and 144 special students, a total of 1,271. (The present number in all departments of the University is 2,079.) The class of special students corresponds in general to the old class of unmatriculated students, but it is held to a much stricter account. A special student must now do his work and pass his examinations like anybody else; and his selection of courses of study is made under the direction of a committee of the Faculty.

"The curriculum has broadened amazingly since 1882. It then included 67 three-hour courses, 25 two-hour courses, and 12 one-hour courses—104 in all. At present the Faculty offers 212 elective courses, classified as full courses (144), half courses (60), and courses that may be taken as either (8) The elective system has been extended to the work of the Freshman year.* The only studies now required of all candidates for the degree of A. B. are Rhetoric and English Composition (Freshman year), French or German (of such Freshmen as did not present both languages at the admission examinations), twelve Sophomore themes eight forensics (four in the Junior and four in the Senior year), and a few lectures on Chemistry and Physics (the same that we were required to attend when Freshmen).†

"The principle of election, as is well known, has also been applied to the examinations for admission. The scheme of these examinations is now very complicated on paper, though simple enough in practice. An impression once prevailed among the thoughtless that the new method, by allowing the omission of Greek, made it easier than before to enter Harvard College, but this was altogether a mistake. The equivalent demanded is quite as hard as Greek—to many men harder. In fact, only 6.42 per cent. of the candidates for admission last June and September omitted Greek altogether.

"There is a greater attempt made at present than in our day, it seems to me, to bring instructors and students together in informal ways. 'Seminaries,' conferences, societies that meet sometimes at the houses of instructors, sometimes in the rooms of students, and various other means tend directly to bring about such inter-

*Freshmen are assisted in making their choices by a committee of the Faculty known as the Freshmen Advisers; but the Advisers have no power to dictate a student's course.

†The Lawrence Scientific School still maintains a prescribed curriculum.

course. And, in fact, the freedom with which students now consult their instructors, in the lecture-room or elsewhere, without any absurd fear of being regarded by their classmates as currying favor, is one of the pleasantest signs of the times. I can conceive nothing healthier than the present relations of instructors and students in the college.

"The Law School moved in 1883 from its wretchedly insufficient quarters to Austin Hall, the splendid gift of Edward Austin, Esq., of Boston. This building, which is one of the finest belonging to the University, cost $135,000. It stands in part on the site of the old Holmes house. The magnificent reading-room of Austin Hall is the envy of every department of the University. Dane Hall is now chiefly devoted to the uses of the Co-operative Society, which has had a continuous and generally prosperous career from its foundation in, I think, 1880 to the present time. The large down-stairs lecture-room, formerly the law library and reading-room, is, however, retained for lectures on music and morals.

"In the same year the Medical School took possession of its new building on Boylston Street, which cost—land included—above $300,000. The old medical building is now occupied by the Dental School.

"The new building for the Divinity Library stands below Divinity Hall on the same side of the avenue. It was built in 1887, with funds raised by subscription, and contains, besides the fire-proof book-stack, a reading-room and lecture-rooms.

"The department of physics, which, when we were undergraduates, was packed away in various inconvenient corners in Harvard Hall and elsewhere, has now a commodious and thoroughly equipped building erected in 1884—the Jefferson Physical Laboratory—the gift of T. Jefferson Coolidge, Esq. This laboratory, which cost $115,000, and which is supported by a fund of $75,000 raised by subscription, stands back of Lawrence Hall. A sufficient description of it may be found in the last Catalogue, a copy of which was mailed to all graduates of the College whose addresses were known.

"The great University Museum, of which the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy formed in our time the most considerable part, has assumed almost stupendous proportions 'Advances made by the Corporation within two years secured the completion of one section of the Oxford Street front of the University Museum. The subscription raised by Professor Goodale was sufficient for two-thirds of the remainder of the front, and the subscription raised by Professor Cooke suffices for the rest. Accordingly, the whole Oxford Street front is now built as far as the southwestern corner-block, and it is probable that a large part of this new structure will be occupied within the current year. Thus about three-quarters of the great quadrangle planned by Professor Agassiz in 1859, with what seemed to many a visionary enthusiasm, are already built. The floor area of the natural history portion of the museum, not including the Peabody Museum of Archæology, is four acres.'* This space is distributed among the deparments of geology, zoölogy, botany and mineralogy in due proportion, not quite three-tenths being devoted to exhibition-rooms open to the public. The main entrance to the museum on Oxford Street is admirably simple and massive in design. The southwest corner-piece will eventually connect the building with the Peabody Museum, which, in its turn, has recently been enlarged by an addition fifty feet square and five stories high. A small portion of the building will be assigned to the Semitic Museum, for the establishment of which $10,000 has just been given by Mr. Jacob Schiff, of New York A stroll down Divinity Avenue would, I think, effectually startle an alumnus who had not seen Cambridge for five years.

"Walter Hastings Hall, built with $250,000 bequeathed for that purpose by Walter Hastings, Esq., of Boston, stands on North Avenue, with Holmes Field behind it. The building was occupied for the first time this year. Its appearance has won praise even from the captious American Architect. The design is simple and dignified. 'The finishing of details is especially noteworthy, and the iron stairs and red brick walls and tiled floors of the hallways are a delight to the eye.'† The hall is built of Amboy brick of a peculiar brownish color.

"The bronze statue of John Harvard in the Delta, a little east of Memorial Hall, is the gift of Samuel J. Bridge. The statue—necessarily ideal—is a dignified sitting figure, the design of Daniel C. French.

---

* President's Report for 1888-89, p. 33.

† Advocate, January 17, 1890.

"To the College Library some 90,000 volumes have been added since 1882, but this growth does not represent the whole increase in the usefulness of the library. The catalogue, which some of us remember as a hopeless puzzle, has been gradually brought into a condition approaching perfection, and various minor improvements, though in the aggregate considerable, have shown the library to be one of the best managed departments of the University. Unhappily, the building is altogether too small. The reading-room and the stack are both quite inadequate, and the pleasure one feels in seeing men at work, and so many of them, in Gore Hall is diminished by the knowledge that they are breathing bad air and injuring their eyes. The Divinity Library has been increased by the very valuable collection of Professor Ezra Abbot, generously given to the school by his widow. The Law Library has been enriched by a considerable book-fund, $20,000 of which came from Mr. Henry Villard.

"Among the large gifts which the University has received since 1882 may be mentioned $111,000 from the estate of George B. Dorr; $100,000 from the Eben Wright fund; $164,000 from the estate of Robert Treat Paine (for the Observatory); $113,000 from the bequest of Francis E. Parker; $158,000 from the estate of Mr and Mrs Gurney; $237,000 for the Observatory from the Boyden fund; $80,000 from H. T. Morgan; $50,000 from the estate of J. S. Wheeler; $40,000 from the estate of John A. Lowell; $90,000 for the Law School from an anonymous benefactor; $50,000 for a telescope from Miss Bruce, of New York. The largest gift has been the bequest of E Price Greenleaf, of Boston. This amounted to about $700,000, part of which is to be applied to scholarships and other pecuniary aid, the rest to the uses of the library. 'The private outlays of Mr. Alexander Agassiz for the benefit of the Museum [have amounted], with his public gifts to the Museum fund and to other departments of the University, to more than half a million dollars during the past thirteen years.' (Treasurer's Statement, 1884). Besides Professor Gurney, two other instructors have taken their places among the benefactors of the University—Professor Sophocles, who left the college about $25,000 for the purchase of Greek, Latin and Arabic books, and Professor Asa Gray, whose legacy consisted of his valuable copyrights. Large amounts for various purposes have been raised by subscription. Of special interest is the gift of $200,000 just received from an unnamed benefactor, to serve as the nucleus of a retiring fund for professors.

"Two publishing funds have been established, one of $15,000 by John E. Thayer, '85, for the Quarterly Journal of Economics; the other of $6,000 by the Class of 1856 for the Harvard Studies in Classical Philology. In 1885 Professor Tyndall, out of the proceeds of his lectures delivered in America in 1872, gave the college $10,800 to found a Fellowship for the study of Physics.

"The marking system has been materially modified since 1882. Instead of definite percentages, the student now receives in each course one of five marks, A, B, C, D, E. E indicates failure, and B puts a man on the rank-list. E in two and a half full courses, or less than C in more than three full courses, drops a man. The new system works well, and I doubt if either instructors or students would contemplate with patience a return to the old.

"The experiment of voluntary prayers, begun in 1886, has proved highly successful. The number of students who choose to go to chapel in the morning is very considerable, and the Thursday vesper services are surprisingly well attended. The undergraduates appreciate the advantages of the present system of University preachers, and the gentlemen who consent to serve in that capacity see no reason to regret the abandonment of the old principle of compulsory attendance.

"Of the college papers, the Advocate and the Lampoon are alone left in their original shape. The Crimson is now a daily newspaper, having consolidated with the Herald. The Harvard Monthly, a forty-two page magazine, established in 1885, 'is intended,' in the language of its prospectus, 'first of all, to serve as a medium for the publication of the best literary work that is produced by the students of the University.' In addition, 'each number [contains] an article from some prominent alumnus.' The Harvard Law Review, a publication in every way creditable to the University, was founded in 1887.

"The multiplication of student societies still continues. The last Index contains the following names unknown eight years ago. The Classical Club (founded in 1885), La Conférénce Française (in '86), Deutscher Verein (in '86), English Club (in '89) Boylston Chemical Club (in '87), Electrical Club (in '88), Free Wool Club, Total Abstinence League (in '88), Camera Club (in '88), Banjo Club (in '86), Guitar and Mandolin Club (in '87), Sparring Association (in '87), 'Varsity Club (in '86), Canoe Club (in '84), Andover Club (in '88), Exeter Club (in '89), Southern Club (in '88), Minnesota Club (in '88), Connecticut Club (in '88), Graduate Club (in '89), Phi Delta Phi (Choate Chapter, '86). The Harvard Law School Association was founded in 1886.

"The Foxcroft Club, established in 1889, occupies by a grant from the Corporation the ground floor of Foxcroft House, a large dwelling-house on the corner of Oxford and Kirkland Streets, recently purchased by the College for use as a dormitory. The club has three large studies, or reading-rooms, which are primarily of use to students who live out of Cambridge, and a dining-room, in which it furnishes plain, well-cooked meals, of good quality. Each member pays for what he eats and for no more. This plan enables a man to fix his board at a price that suits his pocket. The average is not far from $2.75 a week.

"The Athletic Committee requires a word, not only for its importance, but because of the many misconceptions that prevails as to its purpose, functions and powers. This committee, established by the Corporation in 1888, consists of three members of the College Faculty and three graduates (all six appointed by the Corporation) and of three undergraduates elected by the presidents of the three upper classes, and by a representative from each of the athletic organizations. With such a membership, all sides must get a hearing. 'This committee,' in the language of the vote which established it, has 'entire supervision and control of all athletic exercises within and without the precincts of the University.' In the management of athletic sports, the determination of what games shall be played, and where and with whom, the regulations concerning trainers, etc., the committee acts independently of the Faculty. It is a common mistake to say that the Faculty has decreed thus and thus with respect to athletics. The decrees come from the Committee on the Regulation of Athletics, and are neither suggested by the Faculty nor revised by them. The relations between the committee and the undergraduates are of the most cordial kind. To the graduate treasurer appointed by the committee the undergraduate treasurers of the various organizations are responsible. This business-like arrangement, entered into by general consent, is found to work well.

"Various measures have been taken to promote the physical welfare of the students. Two new ball-fields have been provided to the eastward of Divinity Hall. The new building containing fives-courts, etc., for the use of the Nine, will be ready this spring. It is the gift of Mr. H. R. A. Carey, formerly a special student, and will cost $30,000. It stands on the northern edge of Holmes Field.

"One of the most promising gifts in the direction of physical training is the new boat-house, just presented (March 24) to the students by Mr. George W. Weld, '60. This stands on the river front about half a mile above the old boat-house, very near the Allston Bridge. It has shower baths, broad piazzas, and ample room for lockers, of which about two hundred have already been put in. The number of boats at present provided, ranging from four oars, suitable for racing, to ordinary boats of heavier or less expensive build, is sufficient to float seventy men at a time. More will be added: and there is room besides for the storage of a great number of private boats or canoes."

"It is the purpose of Mr. Weld to encourage rowing as a form of healthful exercise among students not members of any crew. The property is held by five graduate trustees, but is managed by an undergraduate committee."

A new and very handsome bridge from Cambridge to Boston will interest many.

The following article from the Boston Post of June 23, 1890, gives the most correct statement that I have seen of the proposal to render it possible for an ambitious and zealous worker to obtain a Harvard A. B. in less than four years:

"The question of shortening the College course at Harvard so as to enable a student to graduate in less than four years, which has recently been brought forward in public discussion, has been agitating the College authorities for the last four years. That the project is hurrying toward completion, and that something more than mere opinion will soon be forthcoming, the history of the discussion shows. In June, 1886, the Medical Faculty, who have been the prime movers in the whole enterprise, laid before the Academic Council plans for shortening the College course by abolishing either the Senior or Freshman year. The proposals were referred to a committee, who reported November, 1887:

"'That with a view to lower the average age at which Bachelors of Arts of Harvard College can enter the professional schools and the Graduate Department, the College Faculty be requested to consider the expediency of a reduction of the College course.'

"The Council, by accepting this report, transferred the question to the Faculty, who have been considering it since then. More pressing business deferred their decision for several years, but the whole of this winter has been occupied with details on this subject. On March 26 final action was taken in the form of the following communication, sent to the corporation together with the scheme for reorganizing the College and Graduate Department, which has already gone into effect:

. . . . . "'The Faculty desires to modify its present regulations in accordance with the following propositions:

"'1. That the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Arts to be expressed, under suitable regulations with regard to length of residence and distribution of work, in terms of courses of study satisfactorily accomplished.

"'2. That the number of courses required for the degree be sixteen.

"'3. That when a student enters college there shall be placed to his credit, towards satisfying the foregoing requirement of sixteen courses, (a) any advanced studies on which he passed in his admission examination beyond the number required for admission, and (b) any other college studies which he has anticipated.

"'4. That a student may be recommended for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in the middle as well as at the end of the academic year.'

"In case the measures here proposed should be adopted, it is the purpose of the Faculty to encourage the anticipation of college studies by students at the time of their admission, and to facilitate the attainment of the degree of Bachelor of Arts in less than four years. The faculty further proposes to advise parents and teachers that eighteen years is a suitable age for entering Harvard College.

"On April 14 the corparation approved of these proposals and transmitted them to the Overseers for the final action, which is now awaited. On April 16 the communication was referred to a special committee, consisting of Dr. R. M. Hodges, Henry W. Putnam and Roger Wolcott, and at their last meeting the Overseers, on the recommendation of this committee, passed the following vote:

"'That in the opinion of the Board of Overseers the present average age of admission to the Freshman Class—about nineteen years—is undeniably high; and that the normal age of admission might with advantage be reduced so that for the great majority of the class it should be between seventeen and eighteen years.'

"At present the matter rests here, but this vote points to some decisive action in the near future. The effect of the Faculty's suggestion would be to reduce the amount of work required for an A. B. by just two courses, or half a year's work, and to allow men to anticipate part of the regular college work by passing extra admission examinations. Men taking the prescribed amount of work in the same number of courses a year as now required, would finish in the middle of their Senior years; but probably most students would either do enough extra work in their first three years to earn a degree in that time, or take enough in their Senior year to keep them busy till the end."

The idea seems to be to substitute piece work for time work, so to speak, and to award an A. B. whenever the requisite amount of work is satisfactorily accomplished, whether that time be three years or five.

I have given a good deal of room to these changes in the methods and surroundings of the University, knowing that many of our number living at a distance from Cambridge will be glad to have just this detailed information.

I shall be glad to be advised of any corrections to be made in this report. Our next report appears in 1895.

Right truly,

FRANCIS ALMY,

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 15, 1890. Class Secretary.

ADDENDA.

[Received too late for insertion in their proper places.]

HORACE CHAPIN ALGER.

(Sheridan, Wy., June 16.)—"My present occupation is that of cashier of the Bank of Sheridan, at Sheridan, Wyoming. I have held this position, and been one of its Directors, since the bank organized in November, 1886, which date also closed my career as a cattle-man. During the year 1889-90, I was Sheridan's Mayor. I am Treasurer of the Sheridan Loan and Trust Company, and am Trustee and Treasurer of both the Sheridan Savings Loan and Building Association and Sheridan County Agricultural Society. Have united since last report with the Rocky Mountain Harvard Club, and am Chancellor-Commander of Sheridan Lodge, K. of P."

HARLAN PAGE AMEN.

(Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 25.)—"I am still at work in the educational field, and am enjoying my labor exceedingly. My energy has been spent chiefly in the school [Riverview Academy, Poughkeepsie]. We have grown from thirty-two boys in 1878-79, to eighty-seven in 1884-85, and to one hundred and eighty-two (182) in 1889-90. Our work is developing rapidly in the college and university preparatory direction. The number of college candidates has increased from two in 1879-80, to fifty-three in 1889-90, who are preparing either for college or the scientific and professional schools.

"Within the last few years, our boys have entered without condition, and in several instances with honors, at Harvard, Yale, Johns Hopkins, Princeton, Bowdoin, Williams, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, University of Michigan, University of the City of New York, New York Homeopathic Medical College,

United States Military Academy at West Point, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Rensselaer (Troy) Polytechnic, Sheffield Scientific, etc. In four of these institutions, Riverview boys are leading their classes.

"We are doing our best to build up here, along the Hudson, a school which, in the quality of its work, will rank with Phillips Exeter Academy, Boston Latin School, and Phillips Academy at Andover. We are sparing no effort to accomplish our purpose. We have three Harvard men in our corps of instructors.

"On the 17th of last May, Joseph B. Bisbee and I purchased the entire academy property from his father's estate, and on July 1st we shall come into full possession, each having a half interest in the proprietorship and management of the school.

"I haven't written any books, pamphlets or magazine articles. Am a member of the Vassar Institute, a literary and scientific society of Poughkeepsie; was given the degree of M.A. by Williams College in 1886; and was elected an honorary member of the American Whig Society of Princeton College in 1888.

"Since the last report, two children have been born to us: Elizabeth Wheeler, on July 9, 1885; Rachel Perne, on November 1, 1887."

WILLIAM BANCROFT HILL.

(Poughkeepsie, N.Y., June 25.)—He was called to the Second Reformed Church of Poughkeepsie in February, 1890, accepted the call, and set out a week later on a journey to Egypt, Palestine, Turkey, Greece, Germany, etc., and will sail for home on July 2d.

JESSE ROWLAND NORTON.

Is reported as having moved his shovel works from Ironton, O., to Anniston, Ala., in 1886.

FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE.

I am advised that it was not an island in Boston Harbor that Rindge gave to the city of Boston, but the use of an island in Salem Harbor, near Marblehead, formerly known as "Lowell Island," and now called Children's Island, for a summer home for sick and poor children.

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD.

(Boston, June 25.)—"Since the fall of 1885, has been practicing law in Boston. In February, 1886, was appointed Instructor in Torts in the Harvard Law School, and has been re-appointed every year to the present. Last year was appointed Instructor in Roman Law in College, and is re-appointed for 1890. Teaching is only incidental work, and he intends to follow the active practice of the law, which has all along been the main part of his work. Was active, with others, in organizing the Harvard Law School Association, which is proving a magnificent success, and elected a member of the council. Is not married."

*SAMUEL ELLSWORTH SOMERBY.

Died June 19, 1890, at Boston, Mass.

The following resolutions were drawn up by a committee of the class appointed Commencement Day, 1890:

Resolved, That we learn of the death of our classmate, Samuel Ellsworth Somerby, with sorrow and deep regret at the loss of a companion and friend whose genial, unselfish nature endeared him to all who knew him.

Resolved, That we express to his mother our heartfelt sympathy in her grief, and our trust that strength may be given her in bearing her bereavement.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to her and to the immediate relatives of our classmate, and that a copy be spread upon the records of our class.

JOHN S. MITCHELL,
EDWARD HALE,
CLEMENT W. ANDREWS,
For the Class.

*WILLARD EVERETT SMITH.

Died July 13, 1890, at Boston, Mass., of inflammation of the bowels.

A detailed sketch will appear in the next Report.

CLASS OF 1879.

[The names of those who have died are denoted by the asterisk (*).]

Albert Clinton Aldrich, M. D. 1883.

Horace Chapin Alger.

Francis Almy, A. M. 1880.

Harlan Page Amen, A.M., Williams 1886.

Clement Walker Andrews, A.M. 1880.

Francis Wayland Anthony, M.D. 1888.

Harrison Otis Apthorp, A. M. 1880.

Edward Herbert Atherton.

William Russell Austin, LL.B. 1882.

George David Ayers, LL.B. 1882.

Charles William Bacon.

Henry Baily, A. B. Haverford 1878, A.M. 1880.

Peter Townsend Barlow, LL.B. Columb. 1881.

Waldron Bates, LL. B. Bost. Univ. 1882.

Edmund Lincoln Baylies, LL.B. 1882, LL. B. Columb. 1882.

Samuel Crocker Bennett, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1882.

Amos Binney, S. B., Mass. Inst. Tech. 1881.

George Ashton Black, LL.B. Columb. 1888, Ph.D. Columb. 1890.

Charles Hiram Blood.

Allyn Hanabergh Bowen.

John Templeton Bowen, M. D. 1884.

Albert Simon Brandeis, LL. B. Louisville 1882, LL. B. Columb. 1883.

Charles Osmyn Brewster, LL.B. Columb. 1881.

Frank Brewster, A. M. 1883, LL. B. 1883.

Frederic Melancthon Briggs, M.D. 1883.

Arthur Anderson Brooks, A.M. 1884, S. T. B. 1884.

Arthur Clarence Brown, LL. B. Columb. 1882.

Howard Kinmonth Brown.

John Augustus Brown, 1888.

Charles Culp, Burlingham, LL. B. Columb. 1881.

Isaac Tucker Burr.

George Henry Burrill, Union Theol. Sem. N. Y. 1884.

Middleton Shoolbred Burrill, LL. B. Columb. 1881.

Harry Butler.

*Warren Cushing Cadwell. *1881

Arthur Astor Carey.

Walter Cary, A. M. 1880.

William Beltran de las Casas, LL. B. 1884.

William Warren Case.

Herman Chapin.

John Maitland Brewer Churchill.

Robert Parker Clapp, LL. B. 1882.

Joseph Pettee Cobb, M. D. Hahnemann 1883.

William Merritt Conant, M. D. 1884.

George Frederick Cook.

John Templeman Coolidge.

William Williamson Coolidge.

George Todd Coverly.

John Elliot Cowdin.

Wilmot Townsend Cox, LL. B. Columb. 1881.

Frank Lindsay Crawford, LL.B. Columb. 1882.

Alvah Crocker.

Charles Sumner Crosman, A.B. Haverford, 1878, LL. B Columb. Univ. Wash. 1884.

Francis George Curtis, M. D. Columb. 1883.

Livingston Cushing, LL.B. 1882. LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1882.

John Whitney Dalzell.

Frank Herbert Daniels, A.M. 1884, M. D. 1884.

*George Herbert Davis. *1882

Samuel Delano, M. D. 1883.

Walter Denis Denègre, LL. B. Univ. of La. 1881.

*George Lyman Dolloff. *1882

Frank Donaldson, M. D. Univ. Md. 1883.

Herbert Beeman Dow, A. M. Dart. 1884.

Francis De Maurice Dunn.

Moses Grant Edmands.

Frederick Hamant Ellis.

Ralph Waterbury Ellis.

*Glendower Evans. *1886

George Faunce, B.S. Mass. Inst. Tech. 1882.

Edgar Conway Felton.

James Arthur Gage, A.M. 1880, M. D. 1885.

Charles William Galloupe, M.D. 1883.

Warren Norton Goddard.

Hermon Wheaton Grannis.

Edward Hale, S. T. B. 1886.

Charles Stedman Hanks, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1881.

Lewis Branch Harding.

William Burt Harlow, A.M. and Ph. D. Syracuse, 1883,

Richard Heard.

Samuel H. Hill, Haverford, 1878.

William Brancroft Hill.

George Hoadly, LL. B. 1882.

Andrew Hall Hodgdon, M. D. 1883.

George Clarendon Hodges.

Jabish Holmes, LL. B. Columb. 1881.

Thomas Johnston Homer, LL.B. 1882.

Abram Duane Hopkins.

Samuel Howland Hoppin, LL.B. Columb. 1881.

Edward Lovell Houghton, A.M. 1880, Andover Theol. Sem. 1883.

Francis Augustine Houston, LL.B. 1882.

William DeCreet Howard.

William Hammond Hubbard.

Woodward Hudson, LL.B. 1882.

Austin Parks Huntington.

William Everett Hutchins.

William DeWitt Hyde, Andover Theol. Sem. 1882, D.D. 1886, Pres. Bowd. Coll.

David Otis Ives.

George West Jackson, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1881.

Martin Reiley Jacobs, 1881,

LL.B. Columb. 1882.
Henry Warren Johnson, M.D. Bost. Univ. 1888.
Webster Kelley.
Prescott Keyes.
Charles Archbald Kidder.
Edward Phipps Kingsbury.
Henry Nason Kinney, Andover Theol. Sem. 1882.
Walter Moody Lancaster, 1881.
William Badger Lawrence. LL. B. 1882.
Arthur Howard Lee.
Thomas Lee.
Frederick Moses Leonard, LL. B. Univ. Penn. 1882.
Herman Stewart LeRoy.
Frank Virgil McDonald, A .B. Yale, 1878.
Wallace Macfarlane.
Charles Samuel Mack, M. D. Columb. 1883.
Francis McLennan, B. C. L. McGill, 1884.
Henry Edgar Madden.
Francis Coffin Martin, M. D. 1883.
Atherton Perry Mason, M. D. 1882.
Charles Jeremiah Mason, Grad. Berkeley Div. Sch. 1883.
Henry Chapman Mercer.
George von Lengerke Meyer.
George Norton Miller, M. D. 1882.
James William Mitchell.
William Ingalls Monroe, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1882.
John Gavin Morris, M. D. 1882.
George Storer Motley.
Henry Coolidge Mulligan.
Herbert William Newhall, A.M 1884, M. D. 1884.
John Loring Nichols.
Jesse Rowland Norton.
Charles Pierce Nunn.
Charles Nathan Osgood.
Francis Bartlett Patten, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1883.
Edward Clifford Perkins.
Frederick Gardiner Perry.
Albert Poor, LL.B. 1882.
Frank Leslie Porter.
Harford Willing Hare Powel.
Wallace Preble, M.D. 1883.
Walter Conway Prescott.
Thomas Webb Preston.
Earl Bill Putnam.
Benjamin Rand, A. B Acadia, N.S. 1875, A.M. Acadia 1879, A.M. 1880, Ph.D. 1885.
William Minard Richardson, LL.B. 1882.
Frederick Hastings Rindge, 1890.
Edward Robinson.
Edward Abbot Robinson.
Hiram Holbrook Rose.
Thomas Russell, LL.B. 1882.
Charles Elliott St. John, A.M. 1883, S. T. B. 1883.
Henry Rufus Sargent, B. D., Genl. Theol. Sem., N.Y., 1886.
William Schofield, A.M. 1883, LL.B. 1883.
Edward Weston Shannon.
William Sheafe.
George Rumsey Sheldon.
Henry Augustus Shute.
Frank Ernest Simpson.
Frederic Warren Smith.

*Willard Everett Smith, M.D. 1882. *1890

Samuel Snelling, S. T. B. Cam. Episc. Theol. Sch. 1882.

*Samuel Ellsworth Somerby. *1890

Charles Franklin Sprague, 1880.

Hayward Stetson, M.D. 1882.

Marion Wainwright Story, LL.B. 1882.

Francis Joseph Swayze, A.M. 1880.

Jireh Swift.

William Henry Sylvester.

Herbert Tappan.

*William Croswell Tarbell, LL. B. 1882. *1886

Frank William Taussig, A.M. 1883, Ph.D. 1883, LL.B. 1886. Instr. and Asst. Prof. Pol. Econ.; Fellow Am. Acad.

Frederic Henry Temple.

John Alden Thayer, LL. B. Columb. 1889.

James Eames Thomas.

Washington Butcher Thomas.

John James Thompson.

Joseph Gilbert Thorp, LL.B. 1882.

*Willett Losee Titus. *1879

John Joseph Townsend.

Walter Trimble, LL.B. Columb. 1881.

Larkin Thorndike Trull.

Alfred Stuart Tubbs.

William Greene Twombley.

Henry Oliver Underwood.

David Urquhart.

William Bayard Van Rensselaer.

John Vaughn, LL. B. 1888.

Henry Clarke Warren.

Charles Luke Wells, S. T. B. Cam. Episc. Theol. Sch. 1882.

John Walter Wells.

Charles Hoover Whiting.

Richard Thomas Wilton, S.T.B. 1881.

John Eliot Wolff, A. M. 1889, Ph. D. 1889. Instr. Petrography.

Stephen Blake Wood.

James Anderson Wright.

*8+186=194

NON-GRADUATE MEMBERS.

[The names of those who have contributed to our Class Fund are denoted by the sign † before the line.]

Francis Willis Adams.
John Stewart Alley.
Edmund Aldous Arnold.* *1885
Benjamin Francis Bailey.
Rollin Carroll Baldwin.* *1878
†Herbert Porter Bissell, A.B. 1880.
†Benjamin Seaver Blanchard, M.D. 1882.
John Ellingwood Bonner.
†Clifford Brigham, A.B. 1880.
Nat Maynard Brigham, A.B. 1880.
†Henry Willis Bryant.
†George Minot Butler, A.B. 1880.
Benjamin Frederic Carver.
†Frederick Emerson Chandler.
James Francis Conlan.* *1883
William Baxter Cushman, M.D.
†George Chalmers Cutler.
Thomas Chadwick Day.
†Pickering Dodge.
Charles Driver.
James Herbert Dwinell.
†George Howard Earle.
Pierrepont Edwards.
Alfred Ela.
Edward Everett.
†Henry Banks French.
Thomas Cary Friedlander.
John Parker Gale.
James McDonald Gardiner.
†Joseph Thomas Gilbert.
Patrick Grant.
Herbert Eveleth Greene, A.B. 1881, A.M. 1884
†Charles Merton Haley.
Edward Pritchard Haskell.
Charles Edmund Hayes.
†Harold Gould Henderson, A.B. 1880, LL.B Columb. 1883.
Emerick Benjamin Hewitt.* *1879
Gustavus Arthur Hilton, LL.B. Bost Univ. 1882.
†Mahlon Hutchinson, M.D. Bellevue 1881.
†Clarence Gray James.
Peter Katzenbach.* *1880
Francis Bowler Keene, A.B. 1880.
George Albert Kitfield.
John Franklin Ladd.
Anton Leister.
Archibald LeRoy.
†Samuel Kleighton Lewis.
Charles Sprague Lincoln.
George Abner Littlefield, A.B. 1878.
Leopold Lobsitz.* *1879
Jonas Michael Miles.
†George Stow Miller.
John Singleton Mitchell, M.D.
Edward Leland Morse.

George Osgood.
William Elias Page
Charles Lawrence Perkins
*†Charles Hiram Pew. 1880
William Carroll Price.
Julian Wainwright Robbins.
William Stanton Rogers, LL.B. Bost. Univ. 1882
Leicester Sargent.* 1883
Edward Allen Sawyer, A. B. Amherst 1881, M. D. Univ. City N. Y. 1883, A. M. Amherst 1886.
William Henry Schwartz.
John Cornelius Shea, LL. B. Boston Univ. 1879.
Stewart Shillito.
Edwin Day Sibley.
Parry Kennard Solger.
Robert Church Stetson.
Francis Hathaway Stone.
George Wilkinson Storm.
John Palmer Strong, LL.B. St. Louis 1882.
John Henry Taff.
Arthur Moxen Teschemacher.
William Fitzgerald Towne.
Francis Morgan Ware.
*†William Livingston Watson, A.B. 1880
*†Charles Goddard Weld.
†Edward Stanley Weston. 1882
Silas Merrick Whitcomb, A.B. 1880.
John Howard Willard.
*†Otho Holland Williams, A. B. 1888.

*9+73=82.

RECORD OF THE CLASS.

1885–1890.

The record of the class contained in the following pages was received in reply to these questions:

Present occupation and residence. Changes since 1885.

Marriage, if since 1885, with date and place. Full maiden name of wife—her residence, and her parents' names in full. Names of children in full, with dates and place of birth. Death of wife or children, with dates.

Literary, scientific, political or commercial work. Exact titles and dates of books, pamphlets, magazine articles, etc. Literary, scientific, political, social or other clubs or societies to which you belong, with offices held in them. Any especial interests which occupy you.

College degrees not shown on list herewith.

Any extended or interesting journeys or trips, with dates. Any interesting experiences. Address.

ALBERT CLINTON ALDRICH.

(Somerville, Mass., May 1.)—"My last communication dates from Attleboro, Mass., whither I went in June, 1885. I didn't stay long in that town; seemed to be no chance for advancement, and I left there in November, 1885, and went to my home in Somerville. After remaining until March, 1886, entirely unemployed, I concluded to try here once again, the rapid growth of the city seeming to offer an opportunity for ultimate success. I began practice in Somerville in March, 1886, and, all proverbs concerning prophets and one's own country to the contrary notwithstanding, I have become a fairly successful practitioner. I propose to stay here now, for business seems to warrant a continuance of residence. It's been an uneventful life, steady, careful work, but it has paid better than I had dared hope. No bonanza, but a dead sure thing, with fine prospect for the future.

"I do considerable insurance examination work as well as engaging in general medical practice. Am not in politics and have held no particular office of trust.

"Am a member of the Central Club, of Somerville, and Soley Lodge of F. & A. M.

"Was married December 5, 1888, to Julia Ross, daughter of Hon. Jonathan Ross and Eliza Carpenter, of St. Johnsbury, Vermont. I am happy and contented with my life here as far as I have lived it, and, like all the '79 men, am looking for advancement and improvement as the years go on."

HORACE CHAPIN ALGER.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

FRANCIS ALMY.

(Lake View, N. Y., June 20.)—I continued in the office of the lake Anchor Line, Buffalo, N. Y., until March 1, 1888, when I was given charge of the retail business of W. H. Glenny, Sons & Co., an old and large importing crockery house, handling extensively, also, silver, bronzes and other goods.

Our bachelor housekeeping came to an end in the fall of 1887, when my mother and sister moved to Buffalo, to live with us. We are trying it again this summer, however, as my brother and I have leased for the season a cottage at Lake View, on the shore of Lake Erie, some fourteen miles from Buffalo.

I am a member of the Buffalo Civil Service Reform Association, the Cleveland Democracy, the Charity Organization Society, and the American Branch of the London Society for Psychical Research. I have been especially interested in helping to start and to establish, since October, 1885, the Saturn Club, a social club of 150 members, largely of college men. Am a member, also, of the Thursday Club, a literary club of twenty-five members.

Unmarried.

HARLAN PAGE AMEN.

No answer received. Up to last fall he had a proprietary and managing interest in Riverview Academy, Poughkeepsie, and is presumably still there.

CLEMENT WALKER ANDREWS.

(Boston, April 15.)—"I am still at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as instructor in Organic Chemistry. Since 1887 I have given, also, lectures in theoretical chemistry to the third-year students, and in November last was appointed Librarian of the Institute.

"In June, 1888, Hon. C. S. Fairchild, Secretary of the Treasury, appointed me to assist the Supervising Special Agent in an examination of the methods of polarization and classification of sugars at the ports of Boston, New York and Philadelphia. In this duty I was engaged about three months, and submitted two reports to the department; the more important one was printed in Senate Ex. Doc. 142, 50th Congress, 2d Session, pp. 179-188.

"In 1887 I prepared a 'List of the Scientific Periodicals in the Libraries of the Various Departments of the Institute,' which was published by the Institute as an octavo pamphlet of eight pages. I have written, also:

"Action of Heat on Liquid Paraffins, Amer. Chem. Journal 8, 1886, 1 (with Dr. L. M. Norton).

"Influence of Temperature on the Specific Rotation of Cane Sugar, Technology Quarterly 2, 1889, 367, and Moniteur Scientifique (4) 3, 1366.

"Notes on the Determination of Sugar by the Polariscope, Technology Quarterly 2, 1889. 371.

"I am a member of the German Chemical Society, Society of Chemical Industry, Society of Arts, M. I. T., Channing Club, of Boston, Massachusetts Reform Club, Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, Boston Athletic Association, Longwood Cricket Club, and others."

Unmarried.

FRANCIS WAYLAND ANTHONY.

(Haverhill, Mass., May 22.)—"Since last report I have taken an M. D. at Harvard Medical School (1888), and am busy in practice; have been House Officer at the Haverhill City Hospital; am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Haverhill Medical Club, the Haverhill Medical Book Club, the Kenoza Club, the Bradford School Committee, and am Secretary of the Bradford Board of Health. Enjoy my profession and am meeting with success at it.

"The 'Class Baby' is a big boy of nine years, but wearing clothes of thirteen-year size; busy with his school and play."

Office, 6 and 7 Daggett Building, Haverhill, Mass. Residence, 112 Main Street, Bradford, Mass.

HARRISON OTIS APTHORP.

(Milton, Mass., April 8.)—"I taught at the Roxbury Latin School two years, and then spent a year in Europe and the East with my friend, William R. Thayer, '81. On my return I came to Milton, Mass., where I have been teaching ever since, in a private school called the Milton Academy."

EDWARD HERBERT ATHERTON.

(Roxbury, Mass., April 21.)—"My last report left me in Paris, nearly ready to return home. I reached New York in due time. In the autumn of 1885 I took the High School in Hopkinton, where I taught one year. The next autumn I accepted a call to the Roxbury Latin School, and there I am plodding along at the present date. The requests under the second, third, and fourth heads cannot be meant for me, for I am not married. I have written no books; I have taken no degrees. Nor have I made any interesting journeys, unless one to California in the summer of 1886 can be termed such. I hope others may have a more interesting record. My present address is Roxbury Latin School, Roxbury, Mass."

WILLIAM RUSSELL AUSTIN.

(Boston, April 19.)—"My present address, as you doubtless know, is no longer Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, but Boston, Mass.

"I am still practicing law in Boston, and my office address is No. 4 Pemberton Square."

Unmarried.

GEORGE DAVID AYERS.

(Malden, Mass., June 1.)—"Since last account in the report, I have continued in partnership with Hodges. Have had two children, one still-born, and the other by name David Ayers, born July 3, 1888, a strong, healthy boy. At the time of the last report I was an Independent. Since then, along with many other Independents of Massachusetts, I joined the Democratic party. The only difference between myself and many others was, that previous to 1878, or thereabouts, I considered myself a Democrat, and became an Independent because I did not agree with the then tendencies of the Democratic or Republican parties. I am a Democrat to-day and a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts. I was elected one of the Executive Committee of that club, and have taken an active interest in the state and national campaigns. A year ago last May, however, I was elected President of the Nationalist Club, and although the principles of Nationalism, to my mind, are a direct application of the fundamental principles of Democracy to the peculiar circumstances of the age, nevertheless, the work entailed upon me by that position has caused me to withdraw largely from active politics. The members of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, either for that reason or because they thought my position as a Nationalist made it inexpedient for me to be prominent in their own club, retired me from their Executive Committee at their last election. In February, 1890, our law offices and most valuable records were destroyed by fire in the Sears Building, and the work entailed upon me by that disaster has made it necessary for me to withdraw still more from political matters. I declined a re-election as President of the Nationalist Club, now merely occupying the position of Chairman of the Advisory Committee. So far as public matters are concerned, I can look back and see a steady progression (or retrogression, according to the way you look at it) from more or less partisan to independent politics, and from that to Nationalism, a force in and yet out of politics, a gradual separation from the concrete and fastening to the more abstract. The side of Nationalism which has for me the greatest charm is not agitation for the passage of particular laws, but agitation in favor of the general recognition in our political life of the principle of brotherhood, the underlying principle of Democracy.

"Since 1885 I have been more or less interested in Theosophy, and was a member of the Malden Theosophical Society from the time of its organization, and am now its Vice-President. My interest has gradually increased, and as its first underlying principle is that of the brotherhood of mankind, my interest in Theosophy has gradually absorbed, because it seems to me to include, my interest in all public matters. This brings my life down to date. Have written for the press occasionally; among other things, an article in the Nationalist, entitled 'Nationalism, True Conservatism'."

CHARLES WILLIAM BACON.

(Ironton, Ohio, April 26.)—"In February, 1888, after seven years of law work, during which I made my way mostly by newspaper work, I was employed as assistant editor and editorial writer on the New York Press, which had been started for strictly protectionist principles about three months before. I held this position until August, 1889, when I was offered and took the place of city editor on the Boston Post, where I was employed until about three months ago. I then entered the employment of the New York World as a writer of descriptive articles about growing towns, and am still occupied with that work. I was married on May 29, 1888, at Cambridge, to Leverene Evans Mattis, of Philadelphia, daughter of David and Rebecca Levering Mattis. I have no children. My permanent address is Natick, Mass."

HENRY BAILY.

(Newton, Mass., April 11.)—"I resigned my position in Chauncy-Hall School [Boston], October, 1885. December 31, 1885, I was married to Frances Emerson, at her residence in Nashua, N. H. Between that event and January 1, 1889, we passed the time pleasantly and instructively by traveling in a leisurely way through the United States, staying for shorter or longer periods wherever it suited our fancy to do so. In the course of our extended rambles we met many delightful persons and saw so much fine scenery that it finally became almost monotonous. Among other places, too numerous to mention, we visited Yellowstone Park, Yosemite Valley, Columbia River, Mammoth Cave, Niagara Falls, the wonderful cañons traversed by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, the twin cities of the Northwest and lovely Minnehaha, the vineyards of California, the orange groves of Florida, historic Gettysburg, and our fair capital, Washington. After all this we concluded it would be something like variety to try housekeeping, and having found a house to suit us in the rural city of Newton, we settled there in January, 1889. In the following October I entered the Law School of Boston University, where I am now undergoing the slow but sure process of being changed from an innocent 19th century citizen into a full-fledged 20th century lawyer.

"It is the custom at this seat of learning to give the students a summer vacation of four months, so that they may have time to digest what they have learned during the rest of the year, and forget whatever it may be unnecessary to remember. That vacation I hope to spend in Europe this year, in company with Mrs. Baily."

PETER TOWNSEND BARLOW.

(New York, April 15.)—"Since last report many things have come to me in many ways. I became engaged in the early summer of 1885 to Miss Virginia Louise Matthews, daughter of the late Edward Matthews, of New York, and Virginia Brander Matthews, and I was married in Paris, France, at the English Chapel, rue d'Agnesseau, on May 6, 1886. After a month or more in France and England, we returned to my father's home at Glen Cove, Long Island, for the summer. All that summer and until Thanksgiving was occupied in great part by the renovating, changing and furnishing of my house, No. 55 East Twenty-First Street, where we still live.

"My boy was born in New York, May 12, 1888, and is named Edward Matthews Barlow.

"My journeyings have been: 1885, a month in France in the autumn; 1886, my marriage tour; and in 1889 another European trip. I sailed on July 6 last. On my arrival at Havre I received a cablegram announcing the death of my father, and I immediately returned, to be with my mother, who only survived my father's death until October 21st last. A short three weeks in Canada this winter completes my list of travel. I am a member of the University, Harvard and Tuxedo Clubs and of the Players. I am still practicing law at 35 William Street, New York City."

WALDRON BATES.

(Boston, April 4.)—"Is practicing law in Boston, at 5 Pemberton Square. Is a member of the Puritan Club, the Boston Athletic Association and the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association. In June last he went through the Yellowstone National Park with Frank E. Simpson. His first sight of the cañon of the Yellowstone, he writes, will live with him always; the great cliffs, the grand falls, the river, below and beyond, deep down between the gorgeous colored cliffs, a thread of bright green and brilliant white."

Unmarried.

EDMUND LINCOLN BAYLIES.

(New York, April 2.)—"Since 1885 I have been practicing law, and am connected with the firm of Carter & Ledyard, 54 Wall Street, New York.

"On January 18, 1887, at St. Thomas's Church, in this city, I was married to Louisa Van Rensselaer, daughter of the late Alexander Van Rensselaer and of Louisa Van Rensselaer, of New York. The only trip of especial interest that I have taken since I last wrote was in the summer of 1885. As one of a party of seven I passed six delightful weeks driving on the top of a coach through the most interesting portions of the southern and central counties of England, in which time we drove about 1,000 miles. I continue to be a member of the same clubs and societies as at the time of your last report."

SAMUEL CROCKER BENNETT.

(Boston, April 29.)—"Since last report has been in practice here. Still has an office with Cushing. Member of Puritan Club. September 9, 1885, married in Brookline, Mass., to Amy Reeder Thomas, daughter of Hon. Edward Isaiah Thomas and Henrietta Williams Thomas, of that town. Has legal residence there. Has children, both born there: (1) Edmund Neville, August 31, 1887; (2) Samuel Crocker, Jr., March 18, 1890."

AMOS BINNEY.

(Boston, April 9.)—"I still reside in Walpole, Mass. At the time of our last report I was chemist to the Walpole Dye and Chemical Works. I remained there until January, 1888, when, as a result of a financial 'squeeze,' a re-arrangement of the working force was made, and several of the larger salaried men were dropped, myself among them. I had for some time been looking around for an opening in the same line, or some other, which would enable me to be more my own master. I was offered a very good salaried position in a similar but larger establishment, but preferred to decline it and look for some congenial business where I could take a financial interest. During the summer of 1888 I was interested for myself and others in the settlement of an estate, and as a result of the experience and opening which this matter gave me, I decided to try to develop a real estate business, and accordingly, in November, 1888, hung out my 'shingle' as real estate agent and broker, with an office at 31 Milk Street, Boston. I like the business and think I have reason to be satisfied with the results thus far. I do not think my profits are likely to allow me to retire for a considerable time, but I feel that I have laid a good foundation.

"I am a member of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Board of Boston, a Trustee of the Public Library at Walpole, and have held nearly all the higher offices in the Council of the Royal Arcanum to which I belong. I have served as Treasurer, etc., for our little Episcopal parish for over three years.

My aspirations have not led me into the fields of either literature or politics, and, with the exception of two very interesting trips into Canada (not in the interest of my treasurership), I have quietly stayed at home and led an uneventful life."

GEORGE ASHTON BLACK.

(New York, May 1.)—"Entered the School of Political Science, Columbia, in the fall of 1885. Spent the next summer abroad, visiting Antwerp, The Hague, Amsterdam, Berlin, Dresden, Carlsbad, Prague, Vienna, Munich, Switzerland and the Rhine.

"In October, 1886, entered the Law School, Columbia, and finished the course there, at the same time attending the School of Political Science. Received the degree of LL. B. in 1888, and that of Ph. D., cum laude, 1889, on thesis entitled, 'History of Municipal Land Ownership on Manhattan Island to the Beginning of Sales by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund in 1844.'

"Since July, 1889, has been in the law office of G. H. & F. L. Crawford. Expects to be admitted to the bar in October. Is one of the Board of Trustees of the New York Society for Ethical Culture."

Address, 27 W. 104th Street, New York City, till September 1, then 74 W. 91st Street.

CHARLES HIRAM BLOOD.

(Fitchburg, Mass., April 9.)—"Unmarried. Have done nothing of a literary, scientific, political or commercial character. Took a short trip to California in winter of 1888-9 for two months. Have been general counsel of the Cleveland & Canton Railroad Company of Ohio since June, 1885, with offices in Boston. I also practice in Fitchburg, having two offices."

Practiced as one of the firm of Blood & Stevens until November, 1888; since then alone.

ALLYN HANABERGH BOWEN.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOHN TEMPLETON BOWEN.

(Boston, April 2.)—"I returned from Vienna in September, 1887, and busied myself solely with the practice of Dermatalogy. In May of last year I was appointed Assistant Physician for Skin Diseases at the Massachusetts General Hospital. I am responsible for the following:

"Ueber das Vorkommen pockenähnlicher Gebilde in den Inneren Organen. Vierteljahresschrift f. Derm. und S. Wien, 1887.

"Two Forms of Skin Tuberculosis. Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, August 16, 1888.

"The Epitsichial Layer of the Human Epidermis. Anatomischer Anzieger. Jena, 1889.

ALBERT SIMON BRANDEIS.

(Louisville, May 3.)—"My residence and occupation are unchanged. Having remained unmarried and made no extended journeys, the past five years have exhibited no matters of special interest.

"Present address, Louisville, Kentucky."

[Bright & Brandeis, Attorneys and Counselors at Law.]

FRANK BREWSTER.

(Boston, April 30.)—No change. Is practicing law in Boston.

CHARLES OSMYN BREWSTER.

(New York, June 11.)—"I am still practicing law here. In April, 1888, I moved my office, and since then have occupied a suite with Wallace Macfarlane.

"Single am I, and single I expect to remain.

"I have made no journeys of any importance, unless a cruise on the yacht Ruth for three months in the summer of 1887, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, be such. We went to all points of interest in the gulf, including the coast of lower Labrador and the west coast of Newfoundland. I hope to visit the gulf again this summer in the same way.

My address is 261 Broadway, or the University Club. My room, 80 Washington Square."

FREDERIC MELANCTHON BRIGGS.

(Boston, April 24.)—"I returned from Europe in May, 1886, and began to practice medicine in Boston in June, and have been here since that date. I have not taken up any special branch of medicine. I have an appointment at the Boston Dispensary, and am a member of the Boston Society for Medical Observation."

Unmarried.

ARTHUR ANDERSON BROOKS.

(Greenfield, Mass., April 30.)—"The year 1890 finds me still pastor of the Unitarian Church in Greenfield, Mass. I preach also in the adjoining town of Montague. As to my main interest and work I can only say that I am trying to preach the gospel. To this work I have now devoted six years. Incidentally I have done many things. Chiefly among them I have taken a wife, built a house, and visted foreign lands. Every summer, except 1887, I have spent several weeks on the coast of Maine—in Somerville, Bar Harbor, Isle au Haut and Ogunquit. In the summer of 1886 I traveled in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward's Island. In 1887, I spent the months of July and August in Europe, sailing June 29th on the White Star steamship Germanic. I traveled in England, Belgium, Germany, France and Switzerland. Better than traveling, however, I enjoy a quiet summer rest by the sea. I have built a cottage at Isle au Haut, Maine, and expect to spend my summers there in future.

"In November, 1888, I became engaged. June 6, 1889, I married Miss Louisa Darling Griswold, of Greenfield, daughter of the late Hon. Whiting and Frances Lincoln (Clark) Griswold. We began housekeeping at once—a welcome change after thirteen years of boarding.

"My literary work has been confined wholly to sermons and religious essays. Several of these have been printed. I have been interested in the problems of poverty, of manual training, of tariff reform, of civil service reform, and of education in general. I am a Director of the Greenfield Library Association, and Secretary of the local Ministers' Association.

"At the last town meeting I was elected on the Democratic ticket member of the School Committee for three years, and am now serving as Secretary of that board."

Address, Greenfield, Mass.

HOWARD KINMONTH BROWN.

(Framingham, Mass., April 2.)—"Is practicing law in Boston, at 53 Devonshire street. Admitted to the bar July 10, 1883."

Unmarried.

ARTHUR CLARENCE BROWN.

Has not been heard from since 1885. Address lost and desired by Secretary.

JOHN AUGUSTUS BROWN.

(Exeter, N. H., April 9.)—"Since last report I have lived in Exeter, engaged in teaching. In October, 1887, consulted President Eliot in relation to my degree. He told me I had a good case, but in order to receive it as of the class of '79, the petition to that effect must come from the class, officially, through its Secretary, as it was an unwritten law of the College not to admit any new members to a class after it had been graduated five years, without the class itself had made the desired request. A petition was immediately drawn up, and in a few days the signatures of over forty members of the class, resident in Boston or the near vicinity, were obtained, and after a few more names were added it was forwarded with other necessary papers by the Class Secretary to Cambridge. It had the desired effect, and in June, 1888, the coveted sheep-skin was received, and after long years of waiting I became a full-fledged graduate of '79. I take this means of extending my hearty thanks to those classmates who so willingly assisted me, feeling confident that every member of the class would have been equally ready and eager had the opportunity presented itself. In March, 1886, I was chosen a member of the School Board of Exeter, for a term of three years, and was re-elected for a similar period. In March, 1889, was chosen a Trustee of the Robinson Female Seminary of this town for a term of seven years. In October, 1889, was appointed an instructor in Phillips Exeter Academy, where I still remain. My branches are Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry and some Latin. All of my time outside my official duties is taken up with private pupils. I have been much interested in politics, and for several years past have served as a member of the local Republican Executive Committee. I am a member of several insurance and fraternal societies, Secretary of Concordia Council, No. 114, Home Circle, and Chief Justice of local branch No. 533, Order of the Iron Hall. In June, 1888, on the occasion of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Exeter, I published a 'Handbook of Exeter, 1638–1888,' a pamphlet of eighty pages, giving a concise account of the past and present history of the town. My other literary efforts have been occasional newspaper articles. It may be of interest to some to know that I have been reading the Chautauqua course for several years past, completing the required four years reading, and receiving the diploma of the C. L. S. C. in August, 1889."

CHARLES CULP BURLINGHAM.

(New York, April 2.)—"I am practicing law in New York, chiefly in admiralty.

"I have a daughter, Anne Hoe Burlingham, born in New York, January 7, 1886, and a second son, Robert Burlingham, born in New York, February 29, 1888."

ISAAC TUCKER BURR.

(Boston, April 18.)—"Has continued in the firm of Parkinson & Burr, bankers and brokers, 35 Congress Street, Boston. Has a second child, a daughter, Barbara, born November 1, 1886. Has resigned from the Puritan Club, and joined the Country Club, Somerset Club, Boston Athletic Association and Eastern Yacht Club. Is also a member of the Boston Stock Exchange and the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Went to Dakota in May, 1886, on a railroad expedition, and took family to Florida in March, 1889. Sailed for Europe, with family, April 26, 1890."

GEORGE HENRY BURRILL.

(New Lebanon, N. Y., April 19.)—"Can it be that five years have passed since my last report? The year 1890 finds me still in New Lebanon, N. Y. The most important event to me in these years was my marriage, on the 1st of June, 1887, to Fanny Curtis, daughter of the Rev. Lupton Warner and Almira Deborah Curtis, at her home in Canaan, N. Y.

The event of next importance was the birth to us, on the 11th of February, 1890, of a daughter, Katharine Curtis. I feel now that I have a home; and what could one ask better? As for the rest of my life I will only say that I have been busily at work in my parish; have had some measure of success, I hope, and certainly have been very happy in my labor."

MIDDLETON SHOOLBRED BURRILL.

(New York, April 10.)—"I was married November 17, 1885, to Emilie Neilson, of this city, daughter of William H. Neilson, and we have one child, a daughter, by name, Marie Louise Burrill, born November 6, 1886. No changes since 1885."

One of the firm of Burrill, Zabriskie & Burrill, Counselors at Law, Mills Building, New York.

HARRY BUTLER.

(Portland, Me., May 21.)—"For the past five years I have been Secretary of the Portland Trust Company, which had just begun business at the time of our last report. Am Treasurer of the Sterling Water Company, Sterling, Ill., and of the National Realty Company, of Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Am a member of the Cumberland Club, Portland Yacht Club, and Harvard Club, of Maine, and Secretary of the Portland Fraternity. Have made one extended trip—to the Pacific coast—in the spring of 1889. My marriage to Julia Payson Ives, of Portland, will take place on May 29, 1890."

*WARREN CUSHING CADWELL.

Born October 11, 1858, at New Bedford, Mass.; died December 14, 1881, at New York, N. Y.

See Report II., pp. 48-50.

WALTER CARY.

(New York, May 8.)—"I am a reporter on the Evening Sun, New York, where I have been since February last. In November, 1886, I left the Buffalo Courier to spend a year abroad, during which time I wrote letters from Paris and London to newspapers in this country. In March, 1888, I took a three months' trip to Guatemala, traveling from ocean to ocean (mostly on mule back) and spending a good part of the time on a coffee plantation. I am still a member of the Thursday Club, and of the Buffalo Club, and am also a member of the Buffalo Lawn Tennis Club, and the Buffalo Athletic Club."

Unmarried.

ARTHUR ASTOR CAREY.

(May 5.)—He is at present abroad. Was married October 15, 1889, at Cambridge, Mass., to Miss Agnes Whiteside, of London, England. Has built a country house at Little Harbor, Portsmouth, where he runs a farm.

WILLIAM BELTRAN DE LAS CASAS.

(Boston, April 23.)—"I am still at the law, and have the same office, 40 Water Street, Boston, which I took in January, 1886, with R. P. Clapp. We are not partners, but our association in the same office has been very pleasant, as also that with W. B. Lawrence, who joined us in 1887. The last five years have been eventful, as far as my personal doings are concerned, only in that I went to Europe in January, 1889, for health and pleasure. After ten days in London and a week in Paris, I went to Spain and remained there for about four months. I spent two months at Seville, a few weeks at Madrid, and the rest in a rather hasty visit to most of the other places on the beaten track of travel, and to some aside from it; I also crossed to Tangiers. On my way back I spent a short time in Paris at the Exposition, and in England at Cambridge and Oxford, and reached Boston, on my return, the night of our class dinner.

"I belong to the Union Club, of Boston, and the Kernwood Club, of Malden, the Episcopalian Club, and am a member of other associations. Politically I am still connected with the same Civil Service Reform Associations, and the Massachusetts Reform Club; was elected President of the Malden Tariff Reform Club in 1888; belong to the Massachusetts Reform League, the New York Reform Club, and have gone one step further by joining the Young Men's Democratic Club, in 1889. I am still unmarried and have given up Bar Harbor."

WILLIAM WARREN CASE.

(Chicago, April 29.)—"Since the publication of last class report I have led the uneventful life of a lawyer in Chicago, where I am still engaged in the practice of my profession. I am a member of the University Club, Literary Club and other local associations. As nothing that I have done or suffered during the past five years could possibly be of general interest to the class, I will not enter further into particulars."

Unmarried.

HERMAN CHAPIN.

(Seattle, Wash., April 9.)—"I left Boston in August, 1886, for Washington Ter. (now State.) Since then have lived in Seattle, and find it a very congenial place to live in. I have been to Boston twice since August, 1886. My occupation at present is, General Manager of the Puget Sound Improvement Company, which is a corporation owning improved real estate in the city of Seattle, and I also occupy the position of President of the Boston National Bank of Seattle. I regret to have to report again that I am not married. My address is Seattle, Wash."

JOHN MAITLAND BREWER CHURCHILL.

(Boston, April 18.)—"I have been practicing law in Boston since October, 1885. My address for the next year will be 16 West Cedar Street, Boston. I do not expect ever again to live in Dorchester."

ROBERT PARKER CLAPP.

(Lexington, Mass., May 8.)—"In 1885 my residence was changed from Cambridge to Lexington. Indeed, I do not live now in the same state as then; for in October, 1886, I entered the bonds of matrimony. This, to me the most interesting and most satisfactory event in my career, occurred in Cambridge at my wife's home on North Avenue—the house in front of which I passed as a foot-traveler from Porter's to the Square. The day that I first entered the university town, a sub-freshman in 1875, I walked, a stranger to the place and the inhabitants, not with a three-penny roll under each arm, yet with my arms full of well-known ante-examination equipments, and I presented, I have no doubt, 'a most awkward, ridiculous appearance.' My future wife, too, probably stood in the door and saw me as I passed, but I am sorry to say that I did not see her, and she contends now that she cannot remember the incident.

"We took up our abode in Lexington in November, 1886, where we have since remained and expect to remain. Last year I built a house on a hill overlooking the Common (i. e., the 'birth-place of American Liberty'), and am now writing to you in the room which best commands this view. Of course, I try to catch the inspiration which one should feel in this situation, and take an interest in local affairs. I am a member of the Lexington Historical Society, an organization which investigates especially the events surrounding the famous Nineteenth, and I occasionally 'moderate' a town meeting.

"Until January, 1889, I continued (having taken the position in 1886) to edit the Civil Service Record, writing a good deal for it. Outside of this work, I have not written much. In February, 1888, I read a paper before the Historical Society above named, on 'Early Town Government in Massachusetts,' which cost me some laborious searching among early records.

"In politics I am interested, though too busily engaged in my profession to take any active part. In 1888 I was squarely on the side towards which I had long previously been tending; served on the Democratic Fifth Congressional District Committee; and addressed my fellow citizens once during that campaign. The differences between the two parties on national issues have kept me on the Democratic side, and I am enrolled among the members of the Young Men's Democratic Club, of Massachusetts. Last autumn the state senatorial delegates in this district, which is so overwhelmingly Republican that the office (from the Democratic stand-point) seeks the man, and not vice versa, took advantage of my absence from the convention and nominated me for Senator. Having no chance of an election, and making no effort therefor, I was enabled, of course, to write a very out-spoken, vigorous and explicit letter of acceptance, pronouncing for correct principles. I never figured out the size of the majority against me, but I leave it to your imagination, confident that your guess will not exceed its real magnitude, whatever it may have been. I am just beginning to serve on the 'document committee' of the Young Men's Democratic Club, work which I shall be glad to prosecute as a diversion from my regular pursuits, if the latter will permit.

"My law office remains at 40 Water Street, Boston, where two classmates, Las Casas and Lawrence, are to be seen daily. Most of my business, however, is just now confined to work for the Thomson-Houston Electric Company, whose large and diversified interests require a law department with counsel in constant attendance. I am working hard, living comfortably, and enjoying good health; and, though aims and ideals seem as hard as ever of attainment, I realize a fair measure of contentment, 'a proof,' as Dr. Primrose says, 'that even the humblest Fortune may grant Happiness, which depends, not on circumstances, but constitution.'

"Your direction to write as if telling a classmate, with whom correspondence has been neglected, all about my doings, has, I fear, led me beyond a proper limit."

JOSEPH PETTEE COBB.

(Chicago, April 29.)—"I am still practicing medicine and surgery, with my office at 207 Thirty-First Street. I reside at 3242 Prairie Avenue, Chicago.

"For the past two years I have been lecturing on Physiology in Hahnemann Medical College, of Chicago, with the title of Adj.

Prof. to the chair of Physiology, Histology and Sanitary Science. During the last year I have also served as a clinical assistant to the department of obstetrics in Hahnemann Hospital. I am an examiner for The Bankers' Mutual Insurance Company, of Des Moines, Iowa, for The Royal League, of Chicago (Mut. Ins. Co.), and for the Commercial Travelers' Mutual Insurance Company, of Utica, N. Y.

"In 1886 I took the degrees in Odd Fellowship. I am still affiliated with the order.

"In 1888 was made a Master Mason in Lakeside Lodge, A. F. & A. M. Served as S. D. in 1889, and am now serving as S. W.

"I am a member of the Art Institute, of Chicago. I have published the following articles:

"Poisoning by C. O., Clinique, July, 1885.

"Constipation in Children, Clinique, August, 1886.

"A Lecture Introductory to the Course on Physiology in Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, of Chicago, Clinique, September, 1888."

WILLIAM MERRITT CONANT.

(Boston, June 2.)—"Within the last five years there has been no change in my residence. I am practicing medicine in Boston, as I have done since graduating from the Medical School.

"There have been three children added to my family: Ruth Conant, Boston, September 14, 1885; Edmund Bennett Conant, Boston, December 5, 1886; Ira Merritt Conant, 2d, Bridgewater, August 17, 1888.

"I am a member of the following clubs or societies: Massachusetts Medical Society, Society for Medical Observation, Society of The Medical Sciences, Association of American Anatomists, Episcopalian Club of Massachusetts, Commodore Club, Bostonian Society.

"I hold the following medical positions: Assistant Demonstrator of Anatomy, at the Harvard University Medical School, Surgeon to Boston Dispensary, Out-patient Surgeon to Carney Hospital, Gynæcologist to St. Elizabeth's Hospital."

GEORGE FREDERICK COOK.

Has not been heard from since 1885. Is reported as now in Minneapolis.

JOHN TEMPLEMAN COOLIDGE.

(Boston, May 5.)—"I wrote last report from Paris. In May, 1885, I returned to Boston, to settle. I built a studio in my house, 114 Beacon Street, where I have been occupied, painting, up to the present date. In May, 1886, I bought the Governor Wentworth mansion, an old colonial house, at Little Harbor, Portsmouth, where we now spend six months of the year.

"I belong to the St. Botolph Club, of which I am the Secretary; to the Tavern Club; to the Dedham Farm Club and to the 'India Wharf Rats.'

"I have now four children, two of them already reported to you, the third, Louisa Riché, was born at Portsmouth, on August 19, 1886. The last, John Templeman, 4th, was born at 114 Beacon Street, Boston, on December 27, 1888.

"At Portsmouth, in July, 1888, I was fortunate enough to be rowing near by, when a boat capsized, and I managed to get two women, who were drifting down the rapid current. A month later I had a similar piece of good fortune befall me, in saving a man from drowning. I was also fortunate in having Mr. Francis Parkman report the incidents (and modesty compels me to say that it was done without my knowledge) to the Massachusetts Humane Society. I suspect that he made a good story of it, for they sent me a bronze medal."

WILLIAM WILLIAMSON COOLIDGE.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

GEORGE TODD COVERLY.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOHN ELLIOT COWDIN.

(New York, May 5.)—Is still of the firm of Johnson, Cowdin & Co., manufacturers of silk ribbons, 121 Spring Street, New York.

WILMOT TOWNSEND COX.

(New York, April 16.)—"I left the Corporation Counsel's Office in the autumn of 1888, and am now practicing law at 32 Nassau Street. My home is at Dosoris, Long Island. I am studying for degree of Mus. Bac., under the Faculty of Music, Trinity University, Toronto. The only contact I have with the University is at examinations."

FRANK LINDSAY CRAWFORD.

(New York, April 18.)—"Am still practicing law at 229 Broadway, being a member of the firm of G. H. & F. L. Crawford. I resided continuously in New York until April, 1889, when I removed to Summit, New Jersey, where I now reside.

"I was married December 17, 1885, at New York City, to Genevieve, daughter of Emily W. and the late Rev. R. J. W. Buckland, all of New York. We have three children, as follows: Lesley Buckland, born February 18, 1887; Constance, born January 9, 1889; Dorothy, born April 1, 1890.

"I have published nothing, belong to no club except the Harvard Club, of New York City, and have held no offices, no special interests, no degrees. I have made no journey of note. I spent the entire summer of 1885 in camp in the Adirondack lake region, with great pleasure and benefit. I have been twice to the White Mountains (1886 and 1888), and have climbed many of the principal peaks. For the rest, I have been fully engrossed by my law practice."

ALVAH CROCKER.

Has not been heard from since 1879.

CHARLES SUMNER CROSMAN.

(Haverford College, Pa., May 16.)—"For the past six years I have been Head Master of the Haverford College Grammer School, opening the school with 20 pupils in '84, having now 110 names on the roll. With large new buildings, ample grounds for out-door sports, gymnasium and running track, laboratory and every facility for work, we feel that we have a fine outlook.

"September 1, 1885, I was married to Sarah E. Fuller, daughter of Sylvester B. and Mary C. Fuller, of Lynn, Mass. We have one child, a daughter, Marion Fuller Crosman, born October 29, 1887.

"In January of the year 1890, I started for a trip through France and Italy, making a short run to Athens, returning by Venice, the Italian lakes and the Rhine to England and then home. A summer trip last year over the Canadian Pacific to Victoria, and then down to California, returning by the Northern Pacific through the Yellowstone Park, was a most delightful outing."

FRANCIS GEORGE CURTIS.

(Newton Centre, Mass., May 28.)—"After finishing my hospital work in January, 1885, I returned to my home on Staten Island, where I remained some months. I then removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., where I began the practice of medicine. I remained there until early in1887, when, my health failing, I decided to remove to the country. I finally settled in this place, Newton Center, Mass., where I have been ever since.

"On February 21, 1887, I was married to Ruth Wetherbee Davison, daughter of Edward Francis and Charlotte Sewall (White) Davison, all of New York. We have two children: Francis Shaw, born June 10, 1888, at Newton Center; Margaret Burrill, born April 27, 1890, at the same place. Since I have been here my life has been the usual one of a country practitioner, of very little interest to any one except myself.

"I am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and also one of the attending staff of the Newton Cottage Hospital.

"My address, after July 1st, will be West Newton, Mass."

LIVINGSTON CUSHING.

Since last report has continued to live in Weston, Mass., and to practice law in Boston. Is a member of the Puritan and other clubs. Has recently spent several months abroad. Is expected to return this summer.

JOHN WHITNEY DALZELL.

(Cambridge, April 4.)—"I am still teaching in Boston. Three years ago I helped establish a girls' private school, of which I am part proprietor, at 25 Chestnut Street, Boston. It has at present about forty pupils, and is known as Miss Hersey's School for Girls. Besides this work I have a great deal of private tutoring, chiefly preparation of boys for Harvard. In 1886 I married and settled down to housekeeping in Cambridge, at 15 Appian Way, where I am still living.

"April 7, 1886, married Helen Learoyd Stearns, daughter of George A. and Lucretia K. Stearns, of Waltham, Mass. A daughter, Dorothy, born June 28, 1887.

"I am a member of the Tariff Reform Club, of Boston, and of the Colonial Club, of Cambridge."

FRANK HERBERT DANIELS.

(New York, May 1.)—"In September, 1885, I returned to Boston and spent the time until January, 1886, looking for a suitable place in which to begin practice. After visiting various cities I determined to begin in New York, and, on January 22, 1886, I hung out my sign at 2034 Madison Avenue. In May, 1886, I was appointed Physician to the Out-Patient Department of the Manhattan Hospital, and in April, 1887, I was elected Senior Visiting Physician to the same hospital, and Secretary of the Medical Board, all of which positions I still hold. January 1, 1887, I was elected Curator to the City Hospitals on Randall's Island. This position I held only one year on account of other work.

"I was married on May 11, 1887, to Minnie Bigelow Gay, of Newton, Mass., daughter of Chas. Merrick and Maria Susan Gay, and removed my residence to 126 West 126th Street, where I am still. In January, 1888, I delivered a lecture before the New York Y. M. C. A. on 'Food.' I have also written papers entitled, 'Treatment of Scarlet Fever' and 'Cerebro Spinal Meningitis,' both of which were read before the Harlem Medical Association. I was one of the collaborators of the 'Annual of the Medical Sciences,' published in 1888, and I am at present one of the assistants on the Medical Times and Register, a medical weekly published in New York and Philadelphia. I am a member of the Harvard Club, of New York City, Harlem Club, Hospital Graduates' Club, New York County Medical Society, Harlem Medical Association, German Medical Society, and New York Society of German Physicians."

*GEORGE HERBERT DAVIS.

Born May 7, 1856, at Boston, Mass ; died February 22, 1882, in the same city.

See Report II., pp. 61-63.

SAMUEL DELANO.

(Boston, April 5.)—"Am now engaged in the practice of my profession; my position at the Hospital, where the last report found me, was relinquished in January, 1888."

Office at 9 Park Square, Boston. Unmarried.

WALTER DENIS DENÈGRE.

(New Orleans, La., April 4.)—"Am still practicing law in New Orleans, with my office at No. 35 Carondelet Street, and am unmarried."

*GEORGE LYMAN DOLLOFF.

Born December 19, 1857, at Exeter, N. H.; died September 20, 1882, at the same place.

See Report III., pp. 29-31.

FRANK DONALDSON.

(New York, Albermarle Hotel, May 17.)—"From the time of our last report I lived in Baltimore, practicing medicine on as many unfortunates as came within my reach, but devoting myself more especially to scientific and literary work.

"In September, 1887, I went abroad for study and recreation, returning in May, 1888. I had for a long time found the practice of medicine anything but to my taste, and on my return I decided to leave medicine and Baltimore. I came to New York, and had the good fortune shortly after to be appointed a member of the medical staff of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, with duties in Europe. Accordingly, I sailed with my family in September, 1888. Our home since then has been in Berlin, with the exception of six months spent in St. Petersburg. As some of my friends, when in Europe, may wish to see me, I give my permanent address: Berlin, Behren Strasse 7, where letters will always reach me. My family now consists of two children, Frank Donaldson, 3d, born in 1889, and William Macfarland Donaldson, born in March, 1887.

"Since graduation I have published the following scientific work:

"Intra Cardiac Pressure and the Pneumogastric Nerve, in Foster's Journal of Physiology, Cambridge, August, 1882.

"Observations on a Dog with Open Ductus Arteriosus, in Johns Hopkins Biological Laboratory Reports, May, 1883.

"Experiments on the Isolated Heart of the Dog, with reference to the amount of work done by the heart at a single beat and the amount of blood expelled at a single beat, in the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society, of London. Vol. I., 1884.

"On Carcinoma of the Tonsil, in the New York Medical Record, March, 1884.

"On Hard Chancre of the Tonsil, in the Philadelphia Medical News, August, 1884.

"On Diaphragmatic Pleurisy, an historical and critical essay, in the American Journal of Medical Sciences, July, 1885.

"On the Pneumatic Treatment of the Diseases of the Lungs, in the Maryland Medical Journal, March, 1885.

"Preliminary Experiments on the Changes of Blood Pressure and Pulse Rate in Animals Confined in Rarefied and in Compressed Air, in the Transactions of the American Climatological Society, May, 1886.

"The Function of the Recurrent Laryngeal Nerve, in the American Journal of Medical Sciences, July, 1886.

"On the Causes of Dyspnœa and Cardiac Failure at High Altitudes, in the Philadelphia Medical News, August, 1886.

"On the Treatment of Certain Diseases of the Upper Air Track, in the Virginia Medical Monthly, November, 1886.

"A Case of Paralysis of the Posterior Crico-Arytenoid Muscle of the Larynx, in the New York Medical Journal, March, 1887.

"Further Experiments on the Recurrent Laryngeal Nerve, in the Transactions of the American Laryngological Association, 1887.

"On the Diagnosis and Prognosis of Certain Heart Murmurs, with special reference to the selection of risks for life insurance, in the Philadelphia Medical News, July, 1887.

"Cardiac Dispnœa in High Altitudes, in the Transactions of the American Climatological Association, May, 1887.

"The Effects of Variation of Temperature on the Pulse Rate; Experiments on the Isolated Heart of the Dog (with Prof. Martin), in the Johns Hopkins Biological Laboratory Reports, June, 1887.

"On Prof. Martin's Method of Isolating the Mammalian Heart, in the Transactions of the Berlin Physiological Society December, 1887.

"The Treatment of Diseases of the Lungs by Inhalations, in Buck's Handbook of Medicine, Vol. IV., June, 1887.

"I also published :

"A Narragansett Idyl; Baltimore, Cushings & Bailey, July, 1882.

"Two Comedies; Boston, Cupples & Upham, 1886.

"Dan Miller's Death; the Harvard Monthly, July, 1887.

"I am a member of the American Laryngological and of the American Climatological Associations, in America, and of the Congress für Innere Medicine, in Germany.

HERBERT BEEMAN DOW.

(Woburn, Mass., April 12.)—"My last report was from Andover, N. H., where I was Principal of Proctor Academy. I continued in charge of the school there until July, 1887. I then came to Woburn and took the principalship of the Woburn High School, in my native town. This was the school in which I fitted for college thirteen years before. Since 1887 I have been performing the usual routine of high-school work, and find, upon looking back over the past five years, that I have had nothing startling to record. I have kept sober in spite of rum-punch at commencement, paid my debts and achieved neither notoriety nor fame. February 12, 1889, my wife presented me with an heir, who was properly christened Roland Beeman Dow. My address is 46 Warren Street, Woburn, Mass."

FRANCIS De MAURICE DUNN.

(Needham, Mass., May 25.)—"I am still teaching, and have made but one change of position since the last report. Four years ago I was elected a junior master of the Boston Latin School. I enjoy my work very much. My residence is Needham, Mass., and, like many other men of '79, I have endeavored to do my duty as a citizen by being actively interested in the affairs of the town I live in."

MOSES GRANT EDMANDS.

(Brookline, Mass., May 1.)—"The present year finds me still in the employ of Preston & Merrill, Boston, ing eneral charge of the manufacturing department.

"Brookline has been my home for the last five years. During a temporary residence in Roxbury my family was increased by a second daughter, Rose, born there September 16, 1886. In the fall of the same year we returned to a new house in Brookline on Beacon Street. Scarcely had we become settled before the laying out of the 'Boulevard' broke up our home once more and obliged us to vacate for many months, while the house was being moved and re-located to allow for the widening of the street. Most of this time, as well as every summer since, my family have spent in Westboro, Mass., where our two children have had good country living and pure air, which have proved of lasting benefit to them.

"In addition to my regular business I have endeavored to prevent my mental faculties from running entirely to waste by occasionally contributing short articles to some of our leading religious weeklies. I have also joined a musical organization, the Schumann Club, and find myself on its Board of Directors."

Address, M. Grant Edwards, Beacon Street, Brookline, Mass.

FREDERICK HAMANT ELLIS.

(Framingham, Mass., April 4.)—He was married June 21, 1888, to Eva Lewis, daughter of Abiel S. and Elizabeth D. Lewis, of Framingham, Mass. He has made no change in occupation or residence.

RALPH WATERBURY ELLIS.

(Springfield, Mass., April 27.)—"Since extract taken in 1885 from my log-book, I have only to report continued smooth sailing. A midshipmite came on board September 2, 1887, and is entered on the roll as Theodore Waterbury Ellis. He has long ago put officers and crew in irons and assumed control of the ship.

"Believing that it was about time for the lawyers of '79 to 'come to the front,' I have exchanged a rear office for a front office, as the only way that I could see of doing so myself ; otherwise, neither my profession nor my practice have changed. Being a real estate specialist, most of my work is on 'titles,' but in spite of that I can't give you the titles of any works of mine (as asked for) as I haven't as yet found time to enlighten and dazzle the world with any of my ideas in book form. I haven't been 'going to and fro in the earth' to any great extent in the last half decade, and the most extended trips I have taken have been to Ohio and Virginia on business, and to the Provinces for pleasure.

"As to clubs and societies, the catalogue of ships would not be longer nor less interesting than an enumeration of those I belong to. Just why I belong to some of them is as mysterious as the celebrated curve marking-system adopted by one of our instructors in college used to be. I know why I belong to a Saturday Night Club and a Camera Club, but why a home-haunting family man like myself should be on the lists of the Winthrop Club ; why a near-sighted quill-driver who couldn't tell a fox from a hound at ten rods should be a member of the Western Massachusetts Fox Club ; why a man who is driven with work from breakfast to bed-time, and is trying, in addition to attending to a large law practice, to perform the duties of Treasurer and Collector of the First Parish, Clerk and Trustee of the French Protestant College, Treasurer of the French Evangelical Publishing Society, Trustee of the Springfield Five Cents Savings Bank, Director of the Holyoke Card and Paper Company, of the Massassoit Whip Company and of the New England Spring Bed Company, should be paying dues (odd that the past participle of due is dun,) in a Lawn Tennis Association, an Amateur Athletic Association, Connecticut Valley Congregational Club, Connecticut Valley Historical Association, and innumerable other such things, as Horticultural Societies, Y. M. C. A.'s, Prison Reform Associations, etc., is a mystery.

"I don't think of any 'interesting experience,' but if any of the class have a successful specific which will prevent the angel in charge of enumeration statistics from having a sinecure ten years hence in numbering the hairs of my head, my address is 5 Elm Street, Springfield, Mass."

*GLENDOWER EVANS.

Glendower Evans was born in Philadelphia, March 23, 1856, Died in Boston, March 28, 1886. His mother died when he was born, and his father when he was twelve years old. He was then taken to Europe, and for the three years following was at boarding school in Dresden, and for one winter in Paris. He then returned to Philadelphia, where, for a year, he studied rhetoric and logic with a private tutor. Deciding in 1874 to go to college, in that winter and the following summer he prepared himself, having previously studied little Latin and no Greek; in September, 1875, entered. In college he studied no classics beyond what was required. His favorite studies were English, under Professor Child, Fine Arts, and Political Economy; he took also several scientific courses. He had something of the grind in those days, and was serious beyond his years; too neglectful, perhaps, of the social side of college life. Yet he profited to a rare degree by the liberal culture which it offered, and the University had no more loyal son. After graduation, he spent two years in the Law School. These six years at Cambridge had taught him to love it so well that the thought of leaving the shadow of the University seemed like intellectual exile; and he decided to settle in Boston. In September, 1881, he entered as a student the office of Shattuck & Holmes, and in May, 1882, was admitted to the bar. He also counted his intercourse with Justice Holmes a stimulus and a rare privilege.

On May 18, 1882, he was married to Elizabeth Gardner, of Boston, and the next few months were passed in Europe; his seventh summer of foreign travel Returning to Boston, he intended to practice law, for a time at least, believing that such work might fit him for what would come after; for his real ambitions were always those of a student and a reformer.

In the autumn of 1882 certain decisions regarding the repudiation of the state bonds in Virginia roused questions in his mind concerning the origin and scope of the "writ of mandamus," and the results of his investigations were published in the American Law Review, for July-August, 1885; an admirable piece of work, of which Professor Thayer, of the Law School, wrote an appreciative notice in the Nation of April 8, 1886. He always expected to follow up his investigations on this subject. He was engaged, also, with Mr. David Ogden, of New York, in the preparation of a digest of the decisions of the higher courts of New York, a very large undertaking, on which he entered with characteristic thoroughness.

During the winter of 1884-5, certain discussions of the associated charities called his attention to the non-enforcement of the liquor laws, and from that date until his death, his articles in the Boston Advertiser called frequent attention to the contempt of the liquor dealers for laws whose executions depended upon an elected District Attorney. The evil was, to his mind, but one phase of a larger question–the need of reform in the administration of the law, and the difficulty under present methods of government in making the will of the people effective. In this instance the remedy he suggested was that the elective office of District Attorney should be abolished, and his powers vested in a Solicitor-General—an office already provided for in the Constitution—to be appointed, like the judges, by the Governor. In urging this reform, he co-operated with the Law and Order League, but he did not join that body, thinking it better to act as a free lance. He submitted to the Bar Association an exhaustive paper, urging that body to take steps to secure such a change in the law, and a few weeks before his death he was asked to appear in behalf of the proposed law, before a committee of the Legislature; but he was then already too ill. Almost his last public utterance was a characteristic article in the Harvard Monthly of February 19, 1886, "The Opportunity of the Educated Unemployed." In these last months he was also attempting, in behalf of the Union Boat Club, to secure unimpeded navigation of the Charles River, and on that subject prepared another of his thorough papers, in the form of a petition to the Harbor and Land Commissioners.

His life was more fruitful in promise than in performance. He was by nature a slow worker; and he estimated his own ability very modestly, often doubting if he would succeed in the service to which he aspired. But he never wavered in his ideals, and built solidly for the future. To those who had watched his career, he seemed, when he died at thirty, like a workman just acquiring a mastery of his tools. In social life his courteous manner and delicate humor made him a charming companion. Simple, unostentatious tastes prevented him from being tempted by the money prizes of life, it being his hobby that both how to spend and how to go without were much neglected arts. He had outgrown the slight austerity of his youth; he delighted in out-of-door life; his hospitality was ample; but his chief delights remained those of the intellect, and he never wearied of discussion upon every topic in heaven and on earth. No realm of knowledge was free from his searching inquiries. He was actively interested in the investigations of the Psychical Society; and philosophical speculations, which had always, in some measure, engaged his attention, were beginning to claim him more urgently. But the political and social questions were to him the engrossing ones. His chief charcteristic was his openness of mind. No fact escaped his observations, and his inferences were singularly free from any conventional or partisan bias. Always a keen critic, he was without any touch of fanaticism; he was a fine example of a motto, he often quoted, "Nothing too much."

GEORGE FAUNCE.

(Mansfield, Pa., April 21.) — "No change in my residence and occupation since 1885. I still occupy the position of Assistant Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Lead Company, at Mansfield, Allegheny County, Pa. It may not be amiss to state here that the Pennsylvania Lead Works is one of the large refineries of lead and silver bullion, of which we handle about one tenth of the total output of the United States.

"In the line of literary work I have done nothing; and have ventured into print only once, in a note on 'The Determination of Antimony in Hard Lead by Means of Specific Gravity,' published in the Journal of Chemistry (Easton, Pa.) for January, 1887. An abstract of this article appeared in Wagner's Jahresbericht. I have tried to identify myself with the local interests of the town. I was instrumental in organizing the Mansfield Co-Operative Association, which claims the honor of being the first established in this state under the new and liberal act of Assembly, regarding co-operative enterprises; and which has been in successful operation more than two years. The first year of its existence I held the office of Secretary, and since have been Treasurer. I am serving my third year as a Director of the Anchor Building and Loan Association. I was President of this association last year, but, owing to the pressure of other claims, declined to serve as such this year. I have been for three years Auditor of the Borough, which, by the way, is the only political office I ever aspired to. Prohibition tendencies on my part would effectually bar the way to any political advancement I might crave. I am strongly interested in the temperance cause, and am an honorary member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and one of the Advisory Board, which the local organization as a chartered corporation is obliged to have.

"A few months ago I took a trip (from October 27 to November 16, 1889) through the West, visiting most of the smelting works in Montana, Utah and Colorado. My only other journeys have been my annual visits to Massachusetts.

"I have one child, a daughter named Alice Cushing, born at Mansfield, Pa., June 2, 1888."

EDGAR CONWAY FELTON.

(Steelton, Pa., May 4.)—"Since your last report, I have been living here in Steelton, working for the Pennsylvania Steel Co., as Assistant Superintendent until February, 1889, and since then as Superintendent. I now have general charge of the works of the company here, employing about 4,000 men.

"I am married and have three children, two girls and one boy. My children are: Margaret Felton, born July 15, 1885; Eleanor Felton, born January 29, 1887; Samuel Morse Felton, 3d, born June 12, 1889.

"I have written two papers on scientific subjects; one on 'The Results Obtained from Steel Tested Shortly After Rolling' for the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the other on 'Gas Made from Crude Petroleum as a Substitute for Coal or Natural Gas in Metallurgical Operations' for the American Institute of Mining Engineers. These are my only efforts in a literary or scientific direction.

"I am a member of the Engineers' Club, of New York City; of the Harvard Club, of Philadelphia, and of the Harrisburg Club, of Harrisburg, also of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and of the American Institute of Mining Engineers. I have been for the last eight years a member of the Board of School Directors here, and last year was chosen President of the Board. I am also a director of the Steelton National Bank, of the East Harrisburg Passenger Railway Company, and Secretary and Treasurer of the Steelton Library Association.

"Last fall, being somewhat run down in health, I made a journey to Cuba, and spent a short time on the east end of the island near Santiago de Cuba at the iron ore mines owned by the Pennsylvania Steel Company."

JAMES ARTHUR GAGE.

(Lowell, June 8.)—"I have been practicing my profession (medicine) in Lowell since 1885. In 1888, I was appointed City Physician and ex-officio Member of the Board of Health for three years, and in 1889 was elected surgeon to St. John's Hospital. I find my work both congenial and remunerative. In reply to your second question, I must acknowledge that I still remain single. The only literary work that has engaged my attention has been a magazine article on 'What is Fever?' printed in Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, Vol. CXVIII, pp. 113 to 137, and a report on water analysis made to Lowell Water Board, and printed in their report for 1889, and my official reports. When I contemplate the number of societies to which I belong, I hesitate to fill up your space with the list, yet they may be of some interest to my friends.

"I am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, the Association of Massachusetts Boards of Health, the New England Meteorological Society, and a local Scientific Club. I am socially connected with the American Canoe Association as Vice-Commodore, with the Executive Committee of the Vesper Boat Club, Lowell, and the Yorick Club. My college degrees now include an M. D., 1885."

CHARLES WILLIAM GALLOUPE.

(Lynn, Mass., April 28.)—"The past five years have not been wildly exciting for me. My residence is unchanged, my occupation is unchanged, 'maiden name of wife' is still a mystery for the future to solve. Literary work is of slight importance, political work the same. Clubs and societies in statu quo, except that I have aspired to military knowledge in a small way, and hold the proud position of Assistant Surgeon of the Eighth Infantry, M. V. M., in which capacity I have twice endured the blazing heat, and pelting rain on the muster field of Framingham. My time has been spent wholly in Lynn, in the practice of medicine, with the exception of short vacations at 'The Bungalow,' my summer house on the shore of Lake Winnipisseogee."

WARREN NORTON GODDARD.

(New York, April 2.)—"Still continues in the dry-goods business, as a member of the firm of J. W. Goddard & Sons, in New York. Is a member of the following clubs: Union League, University, Calumet, Rockaway Hunting Club, Harvard Club, of New York, and Riding Club."

Was marrried May 8, 1890, in New York City, to Annie Reboul Larocque, daughter of Joseph Larocque.

HERMAN WHEATON GRANNIS.

(New York, June 2.)—"After several years with Franklin MacVeagh & Co., Chicago, I severed my connection with them, and am now representing the Westinghouse Electric Railway Co., with headquarters at present in New York. I am not married and have nothing of particular interest to relate.

"Present address, care Westinghouse Electric Co., 120 Broadway, New York."

EDWARD HALE.

(Boston, May 8.)—"I graduated at the Divinity School of Harvard University in June, 1886, with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. I spent part of the following summer in France and the Island of Jersey.

"I was ordained October 14, 1886, and at the same time was installed as associate minister of the South Congregational Church, Boston, of which Edward Everett Hale is the minister.

"I was married June 19, 1889, by Dr. Hale, in the South Congregational Church, to Emily Jose Milliken, of Boston, daughter of Emily Motley (Jose) and the late Elias Tarbox Milliken.

"I have been for the last two years assistant in Homiletics in the Divinity School of Harvard University. I am Secretary of the Society for the Relief of Aged and Destitute Clergymen. For three years past I was President of the Benevolent Fraternity of Churches, in the City of Boston, a corporate organization of several of the Boston churches, for the purpose of carrying on mission work in different parts of the city. I am a member of the Boston Athletic Association, the Cambridge Civil Service Reform Association, the Massachusetts Reform Club, and the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, and President of the New England Association of the Alumni of Phillips Exeter Academy.

"My address is, 281 West Chester Park, Boston, Mass."

CHARLES STEDMAN HANKS.

(Boston, April 4.)—"Am still practicing law in Boston, but have changed my residence to Manchester, Mass. Was married May 16, 1888, at Faribault, Minn. My wife's maiden name was Clarina Bartow Shumway, residence New York City. Her father's name, Horatio Gates Shumway; her mother's, Augusta M. Shumway Huntington. We have a son, Stedman Shumway Hanks, born July 17, 1889. Am a member of the Boston Athletic Club, Trade Club, Megantic Fish and Game Club, New England Kennel Club, American Kennel Club, of New York, and Director and Secretary of Boston Newsboys' Reading Rooms. Address, 209 Washington Street, Boston."

LOUIS BRANCH HARDING.

(Stamford, Conn., May 3.)—"The woolen mill in which I was interested was burned in June, 1886. I have since been engaged in wool-dealing, commission and brokerage business with Manger & Avery, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. Have resided a portion of the time in Boston, and a portion in Stamford, Conn. Have two children, Louis Branch Harding, Jr., born June 27, 1885, and Lawrence Jenckes Harding, born September 21, 1889. Am a member of the Union and Apollo Clubs, of Boston."

WILLIAM BURT HARLOW.

(Syracuse, N.Y., April 2.)—"I spent the summer of 1885 at my father's home at Delaware City, Del., a quiet little place on the river, about forty miles below Philadelphia. In 1886, during the months of July and August, my mother, sister, Atherton and myself, made a tour of the Western States. We visited Cleveland, Chicago, Topeka, Denver, Ogden and Salt Lake Cities, and San Francisco, whence we took a ninety-mile stage-ride to Yosemite valley. In all my European travel I never was so nearly disintegrated as during that memorable ride. I would recommend to everybody to wait until a railroad is extended to Yosemite before attempting to visit it; and by all means beware of going in warm weather. We took steamer from San Francisco, and by the non-pacific Pacific, reached Portland, Oregon. Thence by the Northern road we returned through the deserts of Montana and Dakota, stopping at St. Paul to rest, and again through Chicago home to Syracuse. To my eyes the fertile hills and vales of New York State had never looked so fresh as when compared with the western wilderness.

"During the summer of 1887, my mother and I started on a Canadian trip. We went up the Hudson, visited Saratoga, Lakes George and Champlain, thence via Rouse's Point to Montreal, by steamer to Quebec, that charming old city perched on the rock. Thence by the St. Lawrence steamer, the Mirimichi, down the river to Nova Scotia. We spent several days in the sleepy old city of Halifax, and then by Windsor and Annapolis Railroad we reached Grand Pré. By steamer across the Bay of Funday, with its wonderful tides, we reached St. Johns, N. B., and thence by pleasant trip on the Atlantic, we arrived at Boston.

"In the summer of 1888 I made my second trip to Europe. My mother and I united with a party under the guidance of Prof. W. A. Brownell, of my own school. We visited Scotland, England, Ireland and Wales, with a trip on the continent for a week's stay at Paris. For a further account of this trip, should you desire it, I shall refer you to the last selection in my book of Poems, a copy of which I send you with best wishes. 'Songs of Syracuse and other Poems' I have just published (1890), and it seems to have been favorably received. To any of the class, who may care for it, I will send it, post paid, for half a dollar. Wish I could make a present of a copy to each of my old friends.

"The summer of 1889 was again spent in Delaware City, with exception of a short sojourn at Atlantic City, N. J., and a trip to Plymouth, Boston, Portland and York Harbor, Maine, at which places I had the pleasure of my father's and Atherton's company.

"I am still teaching English Literature, Rhetoric and Composition in the Syracuse High School, where, in June, I complete my tenth year as instructor.

"A second Edition of my 'English Literature,' was published in 1889."

RICHARD HEARD.

(London, Eng., April 18.)—"Let me rapidly sketch the events of the past five years, that may be of interest to my friends of the good old class of '79. Immediately following 1885, I settled down to my duties in Boston, which were all more or less of a musical nature. In addition to a certain amount of private study, I carried on some musical correspondence with various papers, and for three years, from 1886 to 1889, I was connected with the Boston Post, as musical editor. In the files of that independent journal may be found some of my views on music, and my opinion of the many performances we heard in Boston during those three years.

"In the autumn of 1888 I was elected a member of the St. Botolph Club, of Boston, a club composed of literary, professional and artistic men.

"Early in 1889 events occurred which induced me to accept an offer to come to London, to act as the representative of Major F. I. Ricardo-Seaver, F. R. S. E., a large financier of London and Paris. I am not only connected with this gentleman, but am also the London correspondent of the Journal des Mines, a French paper, published at 26 rue Cambon, Paris.

"On May 16, 1889, I was married here to Miss Hope Glenn, of London, daughter of John and Sarah Glenn, of Atlanta, Ga.

"My residence is 11 Hinde Street, Manchester Square, London, W., but my permanent London address is 8 Draper's Gardens, E. C."

SAMUEL H. HILL.

(Minneapolis, April 3.)—"At present I am engaged in working for the Minneapolis Trust Company, in the capacity of President. I organized this company July 1, 1889.

"To go back to 1885 is difficult, as our lives here are crowded full, and we can hardly remember events from year to year.

"I was married September 6, 1888, to Mary Hill, daughter of James J. Hill and Mary T. Hill, of St. Paul, Minn. We have one daughter, Mary Mendenhall Hill, born July 3, 1889. We sailed for Europe January 12, 1889, and spent four months traveling in Germany and Italy, returning home by way of Southampton, in the ship Aller of the North German Lloyd line, and had the experience of being in the storm in which the ship Denmark was lost. I sailed for Europe October 29, 1887, in the Gascoigne, and spent that winter at Florence, Italy. I spent the winter of 1886 at Munich and Vienna.

"I am sorry to say that my time for study has been very limited. I managed to acquire a very fair knowledge of the Italian language, during the three winters that I spent in succession across the water, and polished up my French a little. I claim to be the inventor of a new and original method of pursuing the study of a foreign language, viz.: While in Paris I employed a teacher who spoke French and Italian, another who spoke German and Italian, and a third who spoke English and Italian, and took of each instruction for an hour a day; no one of the three knew that I had another teacher. Meanwhile, I 'boned' the grammar and walked the streets with my 'English and Italian' teacher, demanding the name in Italian of every object that I saw. This method can be recommended to those who desire to secure knowledge rapidly.

"I am President of the Duluth City Street Railway Company; Treasurer of the St. Anthony Lumber Company; Vice-President of the St. Paul Boom Company; Secretary of the Mississippi and Rum River Boom Company; and one of the Directors of the Great Falls Town-Site Company; a Director in the Red River Valley Elevator Company; Director in the Minneapolis Union Elevator Company; Director in the Great Northern Railway Company; Secretary and Treasurer of the Minneapolis Western Railway Company; Vice-President of the Minneapolis Athenæum; a Director of the Minneapolis Club; member of the Union League Club, Chicago, and am perfectly willing to be elected an officer in any corporation where there is a reasonable prospect of securing proper emolument.

"I have traveled quite extensively in the United States, and especially in the Northwest; in Montana, Dakota and Idaho. Trips west and east come with such frequency, and in the nature of business, that they hardly merit any description. I was in Cambridge two weeks ago, and expect to be at the Pacific coast two weeks hence. I was sorry to learn when at Cambridge that there was a prospect of cutting down the academical course from four years to three."

WILLIAM BANCROFT HILL.

Is a minister at Athens, N. Y. Is now abroad. Is checked as having sent answer for this report, but the answer cannot be found.

GEORGE HOADLY.

(Cincinnati, Ohio, April 3.)—"I was admitted to the firm of Hoadly, Johnson & Colston, as junior partner, on January 1, 1886, and in March, 1887, that firm was dissolved, the two senior partners withdrawing, and the present firm of Harmon, Colston, Goldsmith & Hoadly formed. This firm is composed of Judson Harmon, formerly a judge of the Superior Court of Cincinnati, and of Edward Colston, A. W. Goldsmith and myself, all of whom were members of the firm of Hoadly, Johnson & Colston prior to its dissolution, which was caused by the removal to New York of the senior members.

"By the removal of my father and his family to New York, I was compelled to enter on a period of bachelor existence, which still continues. My present address for social purposes is Flat 17, Ortiz Building, or University Club, Cincinnati, and my office address is 35 West Fourth Street, Cincinnati.

"I am a member of the following clubs and societies: The University Club, of Cincinnati; the Country Club, of Cincinnati; the Literary Club, of Cincinnati; the Cincinnati Museum Association; the Columbus Club, of Columbus, Ohio; the Harvard Club, of Cincinnati; the Cincinnati Bar Association; the Cincinnati Law Library Association. I am a member of the Committee on Membership of the University Club, and am Treasurer of the Harvard Club.

"I am still very much interested in historical and economical studies and also in the art of horsemanship, and in connection with the last subject, I have agreed to become a member of an incipient riding club, which is in hopes, before many months are over, to have a stable and manège of its own.

"I have published nothing except a few briefs in various causes.

"I have been pretty closely confined to Cincinnati since the date of the last report, except that during the summer of 1888 I made a short tour in England with my father, sailing on July 4 and arriving in the office after my return on August 12, during which tour I had the pleasure of meeting a number of agreeable people."

ANDREW HALL HODGDON.

(Dedham, Mass., April 7.)—"Since coming to Dedham in 1884, I have continued to practice medicine.

"On July 11, 1888, was married to Anna Florence Colburn, daughter of Judge Waldo Colburn and Mary Ellis Gay, all of Dedham. Since my marriage have moved to Maple Place, where my residence now is.

"On August 14, 1889, my son, Waldo Colburn Hodgdon, was born. Otherwise during the past five years my life has been the quiet and busy one of a country physician, abounding in long drives and plenty of work.

"I belong to the Fisher Ames Club of Dedham, to the Dedham Historical Society, to the Clinical Club, the Massachusetts Medical Benevolent Society, the Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society, the Massachusetts Medical Society, and am Medical Examiner for Norfolk County."

GEORGE CLARENDON HODGES.

(Boston, April 2.)—"Is practicing law in Boston, having an office with Ayers, temporarily, at 2 Pemberton Square, during the reconstruction of the Sears Building, which was burned February 2, 1890. No change of occupation or condition."

JABISH HOLMES.

(New York, June 17.)—Is practicing law in New York City, having an office with Ex-Judge Horace Russell at 280 Broadway. Unmarried.

THOMAS JOHNSTON HOMER.

(Boston, April 30.)—"My doings are briefly told. I have continued practicing law in Boston. I have joined the Boston Athletic Association, the Tiffin Club and the Abstract Club. My journeyings have been mostly in a canoe; I have had some great sport on the Susquehanna, Delaware, Housatonic and other rapid rivers.

If you want an exciting week, away from worldly cares, paddle down the Susquehanna from Lackawaxen to Trenton."

ABRAM DUANE HOPKINS.

(Mamaroneck, N. Y., May 7.)—"Excepting one year, my time since the last report has been devoted to teaching. In the spring of 1885, I entered the law office of Cornelius A. Runkle, in New York City, where I had a very active year of valuable experience. At the close of the year I decided to accept a good offer to resume tutoring for a while; and, one engagement leading to another, I am still teaching. Apart from a few months of coaching at Cambridge and a winter in the South, my work has been in New York City and vicinity."

SAMUEL HOWLAND HOPPIN.

(New York, April 3.)—"I am practicing law in New York, but have changed my office to 5 and 7 Nassau Street. My residence is 32 West Twenty-First Street, New York. Am a member of the Union Club and Calumet Club, and am at present Treasurer of the latter."

EDWARD LOVELL HOUGHTON.

(Rockport, Mass., April 23.)—"My life the past five years has seen some changes, and I hope some fruit, though it has not been altogether satisfactory in amount. Five years ago I was just beginning my ministry in the Universalist Church in Arlington, Mass. I was ordained June 25, 1885, as I then expected to be. I passed a very pleasant year there, and one which I have reason to believe has been of profit to the church ever since. At its close I resigned to accept a call to Springfield, Mass., thinking it would be a pleasant settlement, large enough to occupy all my energies and to content me for a term of years. The call was unsought, and professed to be unanimous. I soon found, however, that it was not unanimous, and also discovered several other things, any one of which, had I known it beforehand, would have caused me to decline the call. But being in, there was nothing to do but to make the best of it, which I did as long as it was possible, until the spring of 1888. I then bade adieu to Springfield, and after a short interval settled here on Cape Ann, over the two neighboring parishes of Rockport and Pigeon Cove. I have every reason to believe that my call here was unanimous, as it professed to be. My people are kind-hearted and pleasant. Results are slow, but no one works against me, and I can already see marked improvement in the year and a half I have been at work here. I have found that the care of a parish is well-nigh incompatible with literary work of any amount or consequence, at least it is so with me. For the third time this winter I have delivered a brief course of lectures before the students of Tufts Divinity School—all these lectures on New Testament subjects. These, and an article now and then in the Universalist Quarterly and the Christian Leader, have been the extent of my literary activity, aside from the weekly pulpit work of a pastor. On the whole, you may think of me as working hard,—I preach three times every Sunday in winter, twice in summer,—but reasonably well satisfied with my lot, intending to be happy, and generally succeeding very well."

A daughter, Alcina Burrill Houghton, was born November 25, 1888, at Rockport, Mass.

FRANCIS AUGUSTINE HOUSTON.

(Boston, May 23)—"Am still with the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, as when I last wrote you. During the past five years I have held the positions of Attorney and Assistant General Manager, both of which titles I now hold and enjoy, together with the duties appertaining thereto. On December 28, 1887, I was married to Miss Jennie Righter, of Newark, New Jersey, daughter of Michael and Mary (De Hart) Righter. I now rejoice in two small sons, the first, Francis De Hart, born October 20, 1888; the second, Harold Kingsland, October 5, 1889, both at Boston Highlands. In 1886 I became, and am still, a member of the Puritan Club, of Boston. I am also a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club, of Massachusetts, as are most of our friends in this part of the country.

"Other than as above, my life has been without events of interest, as business and professional duties have required my entire time and attention. I have made no journeys other than those connected with business, and am sorry to say that I cannot yet add anything to your reports in the way of vast achievement or original research.

"I should add that in 1888 I changed my residence from Haverhill to Boston Highlands."

WILLIAM DeCREET HOWARD.

(Exeter, N. H., June 17.)—"My life since leaving college has been the uneventful one of a business man. I have, until recently, been connected with the dry-goods house of James H. Walker & Co., in Chicago. At present I am looking after the interests of my father in New York City.

"I am unmarried, and from the present outlook shall continue so.

"I am afflicted with no acute or chronic disease, and my farm is unencumbered. The other questions I do not deem it necessary to answer. My present address is but a temporary one, but any letter addressed to 1733 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, will always be forwarded to me. I shall spend this summer at Bar Harbor."

WILLIAM HAMMOND HUBBARD.

(Chicago, May 2.)—"My present residence is Chicago, Ill., 28 Astor Street. As to occupation, I cannot say exactly what it is. I am an officer in several corporations, and am interested in a number of different enterprises.

"Since our last book was issued two children have been born to us; the first one, July 22, 1886, was Martha Weare; the second, born January 20, 1889, is Alice Frances.

"I am a member of the University Club, and am Secretary of the Union League Club, filling now the second term in that office. I have been interested with others in the organization of the Chicago Athletic Association, which bids fair to be a very popular and fine club. I am also interested in the Mascoutah Kennel Club."

WOODWARD HUDSON.

(Concord, Mass., May 1.)—"I am still practicing law in Boston and living in Concord,. I left the office of Ropes, Gray & Loring in the summer of 1885, and on the first day of October in that year opened an office at 15 State Street, Boston, with Edmund M. Parker, '77, and Joseph G. Thorp, Jr., '79, under the firm name of Parker, Thorp & Hudson. On October 1, 1887, I accepted a position in the office of Samuel Hoar, '67, the General Counsel of the Boston & Albany Railroad Company, which I still hold. I continued with Parker, Thorp & Hudson, nominally, for a year more, until October 1, 1888, when I gave up that office. I have been continuously, since the last report, a member of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, a fine member of the Concord Artillery, an associate member, and then a member, of the American Society for Psychical Research, until it became the American Branch of the English Society, then a member of that. Have been a member of the Harvard Law School Association since its organization. Was for a time a member of the Massachusetts Reform Club. In March, 1885, I was elected a member of the Concord School Committee, and was re-elected in March, 1888. Since March, 1887, have been chairman of that committee. I have served a term on the Board of Selectmen and Board of Health in Concord, from March, 1889, to March, 1890. My Boston address is, Counsel's Office, B. & A. Railroad Station."

AUSTIN PARKS HUNTINGTON.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

WILLIAM EVERETT HUTCHINS.

(Boston, June 11.)—"I am still practicing law in Boston and continue to reside in Cambridge. I have a second daughter, Helen Walker Hutchins, born at Cambridge, October 12, 1885. Served in the Common Council and Board of Aldermen in Cambridge in 1886 and 1887. Am a member of the Colonial and several other clubs and societies in Cambridge. In February of the present year I was compelled to change my business location by the Sears Building fire, in which I lost a very good library, and, in fact, everything in my office. Have made several business trips west."

WILLIAM DEWITT HYDE.

(Bowdoin, Me., April 3.)—"I was elected President and Stone Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy in Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me., at commencement in 1885. George Palmer Hyde was born April 9, 1887. I received the degree of D.D. from Harvard at the 250th anniversary in 1886.

"I have written articles on 'The Future of the Country College,' in the Atlantic Monthly, December, 1888; 'School Examinations,' in the Forum, May, 1889; 'Discipline in American Colleges,' in the North American Review, July, 1889; 'What is Salvation,' in the Andover Review, April, 1890. I am a member of the Maine Historical Society and a member and Director of the American Economic Association."

DAVID OTIS IVES.

(St. Louis, April 3.)—"I appreciate what you say about the interest others may have in the doings of even the most prosaic of us, and will therefore give you a little more information about myself prior to the last report.

"In the spring of 1880 I went into sheep ranching with Preston, in Middle Park, Colo. I sold out to him in February, 1882, and went East. I went back to Colorado soon after and spent over a year on the plains east of Colorado Springs trying to find an opening, but without success. In the fall of 1883 I went to Montana (stopping a few weeks in Dakota on the way), and there invested in some sheep, which began to die about January 1, and kept it up until May. After closing the eyes of the last one, I worked my way back to Boston, and on June 1 took a combination position of office boy and porter in the chemical factory of Wm. H. Swift & Co., East Boston, Mass. I left there in February, 1887, and went to Chicago with C. S. Tuckerman, '74, and there accepted a position in his office, Treasurer of the A., T. & S. F. I was afterwards cashier of this company at Ft. Madison and Kansas City, and later came back to Chicago and went in with Emmons Blaine, who was General Freight and Passenger Agent of the road at Chicago. I held about every low position on the road, and then went to Keokuk, Iowa, with Howard Elliott, '81, who is General Freight and Passenger Agent of the St. Louis, Keokuk & Northwestern Railroad Company, and Chicago, Burlington & Kansas City Railway Company. I am now Assistant General Freight Agent of these roads at St. Louis.

"I saw Urquhart in St. Louis the other day, and he had had more occupations since 1879 than I, namely, twelve! I have held sixteen different positions, but have only been in four different things—law, stock-raising, manufacturing and railroads."

GEORGE WEST JACKSON.

(Boston, April 2.)—"Returned to Boston in the summer of 1885, and resumed the practice of law at 31 Milk Street. No wife, no children, no books. Address as always, 84 Dudley Street, Boston."

MARTIN REILEY JACOBS.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

HENRY WARREN JOHNSON.

(Berlin Falls, N. H., April 30.)—"Since last report there has been a radical change in my affairs. At that time I was engaged in pursuits pedagogical, being Principal of Gould Academy, located at Bethel, Me. I had followed the profession of teaching for six years, and considerable reflection convinced me that whatever the work might do for other fellows in the way of development, it had done about all for me that it would do, and I was quite conscious that for the two preceding years I had accomplished little or nothing that was of benefit to me. Constant association with boys of seventeen or thereabouts was unfitting me for the society of men of my own age. I even began to feel ill at ease and insignificant when thrown among them. The result was that early in 1885 I decided to study medicine, and in the autumn of that year I entered the Boston University School of Medicine, where the discipline of a college education and of six years' work in teaching made it an easy matter for me to rank high in my class, over a third of which were college graduates like myself. While there I took prominent parts in school affairs, being at different times assistant in histology, assistant demonstrator of anatomy, editor of the Medical Student, a journal published by the students at the institution, besides holding various positions of less account. I graduated in June, 1888, and the title of my thesis was, 'The Civil Obligations of the Medical Profession.'

"Being desirous of obtaining an experience as varied as possible in a short time, I located at Berlin Falls, N. H., in August, 1888, expecting to move to a more congenial town inside of two years, but I am still here, with no notion of leaving at present. This is the largest town in the State north of Laconia, is growing at an extremely rapid rate, and its resources for manufacturing are just developing. Several large lumber and paper mills furnish all the surgical practice one could ask in private work, and while here have performed various amputations, while the number of crushed and lacerated wounds of all degrees of severity is legion. The people are cosmopolitan, as in all new towns, and music and the other fine arts flourish here to an astonishing degree. We have a Choral and Orchestral Society, of which I am conductor, and which expects to give the 'Messiah' next Christmas. There are also an Art Club, numerous literary and social clubs, of which latter the Androscoggin Club takes the lead, and whose Executive Board includes Chas. D. Porter (Harvard, '86) and myself.

"I am not married yet, and my matrimonial sky is still cloudless. I keep 'bachelor's hall' in my office, drive a 'spanking' team, am treated royally by everybody, and have a jolly good time every day in the year. My business is good, few bad debts, and I expect to exist here a while longer.

"My literary work has been confined to essays, etc., in the journal referred to, with an occasional editorial in the local paper here."

WEBSTER KELLEY.

(Boston, April 30.)—"At close of my last report was still in the Law School at Cambridge. Passed Suffolk Bar examination in December, 1887, and practiced law for a short time in the office of Mr. L. L. Scaife, Boston. My health failing, all work came to a pause in the summer of 1888. Am at present at home, with health quite restored. United with Shawmut Congregational Church, Doctor Griffis, pastor, in May, 1886. Was for several months Superintendent of the Sunday-School. Am now studying oriental languages, Hebrew, and, with the assistance of a returned missionary, Chinese, the latter with religious work in view."

Unmarried.

PRESCOTT KEYES.

(Concord, Mass., April 4.)—"I am still practicing law in Boston at 42 Court Street and living at Concord. I am now alone in practice, my partner having been appointed Clerk of the Municipal Court. I have served on various boards of town officers, and have been Chairman of the Selectmen. I am a member of the Social Circle, a club organized in 1782. It makes me feel old to reflect upon the fact that the average age of the twenty-five members is over sixty."

CHARLES ARCHBALD KIDDER.

(Paris, May 28.)—"During the year 1885 I was occupied with my usual business in Boston. In July, 1886, I was admitted to the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., bankers. On October 11, 1888, I married Josephine, eldest daughter of Joseph and Josephine (Cutter) Burnett, at Southboro, Mass. On April 1, 1889, I resigned my position with Kidder, Peabody & Co., and since that time have been traveling in Europe and Egypt. I expect to return to America in the autumn. My address is 120 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. I am a member of the Somerset and Country Clubs, of Boston."

EDWARD PHIPPS KINGSBURY.

(Centralia, Wash., April 19.)—"In the coming Class Report you may insert simply my address. My movements during the last five years would not be of interest to the class generally."

HENRY NASON KINNEY.

(Winsted, Conn., April 29.)—"Since December 30, 1884, I have been pastor of one of the three Congregational Churches in Winchester (borough of Winsted), Conn. My vacation journey last summer, took me to 'Baddeck and that sort of thing.'

"In 1887 I was chosen President of the Connecticut Christian Endeavor Union, having before that been Vice-President. I have written much on topics relating to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, chiefly in its national organ, the Golden Rule, Boston, and have made many addresses before the societies in their conventions, national (Saratoga 1887, Chicago 1888, Philadelphia 1889), state and local (Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New York). In 1887 I addressed the Rhode Island Sunday-School Association on this topic, and in 1888 the Connecticut General Conference of Congregational Churches at their annual meetings.

"A number of articles on other subjects, and of short poems, have been printed in the Christian Union, Sunday-School Times, Religious Herald, Golden Rule and other papers. A hymn of mine is included in 'Hymns of Christian Endeavor,' Boston, 1888. I have lectured once, in the course at Sheffield, Mass. For a part of the time covered by this report I have been a member of the Connecticut Congregational Club (Hartford), of the Conversation Club (local), and of the Executive Committee of the Connecticut Sunday-School Association; in 1889 I was a delegate to the Eighth National Triennial Council of Congregational Churches. To the Connecticut General Conference of Congregational Churches I at present bear this relation: Secretary Standing Committee on Fellowship and Work; member Standing Committee on Sunday-Schools; Delegate to American Home Missionary Society.

"Co-Operating Member Committee of Christian Workers of United States and Canada; member Litchfield North Association of Congregational Ministers, and of Litchfield North East Conference of Churches (Moderator). Life Member (Honorary) of United Society of Christian Endeavor, American Board, American Tract Society, American Missionary Association. In Winsted: Secretary Board of School Visitors; President Choral Union; Chairman People's Course of Instruction and Entertainment: Director Bible Society; Special Examiner for 1890, Examination Department American Institute of Sacred Literature."

WALTER MOODY LANCASTER.

(Worcester, Mass., May 22.)—"In July, 1886, I removed [from Lowell] to Worcester, to become telegraph editor of the Daily Spy, and I remained with that paper, in one capacity or another, till the middle of July, 1888, when I went to New York as a reporter for the Times, through the influence of Mr. John C. Reid, then managing editor, and of Mr. William J. Kenny, manager of the New York City (official) Record, then city editor of the New York Press. A year of ultra-Bohemian life and of excessively active hustling wore me out completely, and I accepted a new call to the Spy, of which I am now news editor.

I have also held a correspondent's relations with various papers, notably the Boston Post. On the New York Times and the Worcester Spy my specialty was music, on which subject I have lectured sometimes, but oftener have written."

Unmarried.

WILLIAM BADGER LAWRENCE.

(Medford, Mass., May 5.)—"Present occupation, attorney at law. Residence, Medford, Mass. Place of business, 40 Water Street, Boston, Mass.

"Have also a son, Samuel Crocker Lawrence, 2d, born September 12, 1888, at Medford, Mass.

"Have written nothing since graduating except an occasional article for newspapers or for a town report. Have spent my spare time in affairs of a comparatively local nature. Have served on various town committees, such as on new school-houses, on additional water supply, on system of local sewers, etc. Was one of the committee of the town in reference to the passage of the Metropolitan Sewage Bill, for a system of sewage disposal for the towns and cities of the Mystic Valley. Have been a delegate to state and congressional conventions. Served the town for two years as Selectman and Overseer of the Poor. At present I hold the office of Clerk of the Eastern Railroad Company and of the Directors, likewise of the Chelsea Beach Railroad Company, and of the South Reading Branch Railroad Company.

"The society in which I have been especially interested has been the Masonic fraternity, in which I have held active office. I have been the presiding officer of three Masonic bodies, and at present hold active office in two others. In the Grand Lodge I am serving my second term as District Deputy Grand Master of the Sixth Masonic District."

ARTHUR HOWARD LEE.

(Scranton, Pa., May 31.)—"I am still residing in Scranton, Pa., and hold the position of Superintendant of the Blast Furnaces of the Lackawanna Iron and Coal Company, with whom I have been for the last ten years.

"On September 24, 1885, I was married to Miss Marie L. Foster, of Scranton, daughter of George Foster, deceased, and Maria L. Foster. We had a son, Arthur H. Lee, Jr., born December 9, 1886, and died August 8, 1887; also another son, Harry F. Lee, born May 8, 1889.

"I am a member of the Society of Mining Engineers, and of the New England Society, of Lackawanna County, and I hold the position of 1st Lieutenant, Company A, 13th Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania."

THOMAS LEE.

(Westport, N. Y., May 5.)—"I shall move at our next meeting that you are allowed to send these tiresome circulars to the rising members of the class only, and that you leave us poor devils who have settled into insignificance alone. I should call myself a gentleman of leisure, were there such a class in this country, but as all are too intent in their scramble for money to allow of this classification, I shall have to accept the less pleasing epithet of loafer. In this latter capacity I shall be found at Westport, Essex County, New York, for the present, where I can show you a beautiful country and give you a good day's bass fishing, or give you an ax and let you chop me a few cords of wood, as you may prefer."

FREDERICK MOSES LEONARD.

(Philadelphia, May 5.)—"Continues practicing law in Philadelphia, devoting most of his time to his work as Assistant Solicitor of the Norfork & Western Railroad, and to allied southern business.

"Was associated with Judge Hare in the preparation of his 'Law of Contracts,' 1887, and 'American Constitutional Law,' 1889, and with the late William Henry Rawle, Esq, in the revision of his 'Covenants for Title,' for its fifth edition, 1887.

Was the Pennsylvania editor of the Central Reporter, and is the Philadelphia editor of the Pennsylvania County Court Reports.

"Is a member of the Art Club, the University Club, the Third Legal Club, the New England Society and the associations mentioned in the last Report.

"Not married."

HERMAN STEWART LEROY.

(New York, April 21.)—No change. Is still in business in New York, as a broker.

FRANK VIRGIL McDONALD.

(San Francisco, May 3.)—"Cashier of the Pacific Bank, San Francisco, Cal. Reside in Berkeley. Am also a director of the Pacific Bank and of the People's Home Savings Bank, both of this city. Have made several changes since 1885, was for a while in Virginia, overseeing the large financial interests there of my father.

"Was married March 19, 1888, in Oakland, Cal., to Ida LeMonde, of Cincinnati, Ohio. We have no children.

"Have written several articles on banking matters, and am a member of several societies and associations, but they are more than I can give attention to, and am now resigning from most in order to devote myself entirely to my business.

"In 1887 was traveling in Europe almost continuously for six months; last summer revisited Yosemite and the southern parts of California; expect this year to go to Alaska and the Yellowstone Park."

FRANCIS McLENNAN.

(Montreal, April 16.)—"I have very little to add to my last report. The years have slipped along quietly and I have no corrections or additions to insert in the marriage and birth list. In 1887 I entered into partnership with John Cassie Hatton, Q. C. In 1886 I was in London for part of the summer, but excepting this trip have been steadily at work, succeeding quite as well as I expected.

"My address is 1724 Notre Dame Street, Montreal, P. Q."

WALLACE MACFARLANE.

Is practicing law at 261 Broadway, New York, having an office with C. O. Brewster.

CHARLES SAMUEL MACK.

(Ann Arbor, Mich., April 22.)—In December, 1885, I went from Cold Spring, N. Y., to Boston, and in October, 1888, to Hyde Park, now a part of Chicago. During the summer of 1889 I accepted a call to the chair of Materia Medica and Therapeutics in the Homeopathic Medical College of the University of Michigan, and in September I moved to this town of Ann Arbor.

"In 1888 I published a brochure entitled 'Similia Similibus Curantur?'

"In the New Jerusalem Magazine for April, 1888, I contributed a paper upon 'The Treatment of Criminals.'

"In the same magazine for June, 1889, a paper upon 'Mr. DeCharms's Theory of Homeopathy.'

"I have contributed as follows to the Medical Era: In the number for June, 1889, a paper upon 'Philosophy and Medicine'; in the number for November, 1889, two lectures upon 'Homeopathy, the only System of Curative Medicine'; in the number for March, 1890, a lecture upon 'Hydrocyanic Acid'; in the number for May, 1890, an address which I had delivered to some students in the Department of Medicine and Surgery in this University. The Medical Advance has in hand a lecture of mine upon 'Apomorphine.' I expect soon to have published a small book entitled 'Philosophy in Homeopathy.' In it will be some new matter, as well as reprint, from the first five above named. In the Medical Era for August, 1889, I contributed a large part of the notice of T. F. Allen's 'Handbook of Materia Medica and Homeopathic Therapeutics,' and in the same journal for September, 1889, I contributed notices of 'A Cyclopædia of Drug Pathogenesy,' Part X; and of Raue's 'Psychology as a Natural Science Applied to the Solution of Occult Psychic Phenomena.'

"I am a member of Homeopathic Medical Societies in Massachusetts and Illinois."

HENRY EDGAR MADDEN.

(Chicago, April 2.)—"Is practicing law in Chicago, at 172 La Salle Street. Member of the Union League, University, Chicago Literary, and Harvard clubs."

FRANCIS COFFIN MARTIN.

(Roxbury, Mass., April 16.)—"Since the last report, I have spent most of the time here at home, practicing medicine. I went on a hunting trip in the Rocky Mountains, leaving here in September, 1887, and coming in from the mountains to Fort Benton, in Northern Montana, at Christmas of that year. I remained in Montana until the summer, and then went through Idaho, Washington, and Oregon, and down by the so-called 'Mt. Shasta route,' to San Francisco. This is the new all-rail line down the coast, and the scenery is wonderfully grand nearly all the way. I returned from California to Helena, Montana, and reached Boston in October, 1888.

"At present I practice in Boston in the winter, and at Siasconset, on the island of Nantucket, in summer.

"I have not married as yet."

ATHERTON PERRY MASON.

(Fitchburg, Mass., April 21.)—"There is really very little to say about what I have been doing the past five years. I have remained right here in Fitchburg all the time, engaged in the practice of medicine. Have taken only short vacations, and consequently can give no account of long and interesting trips.

"I am now well established in business and think I am getting as good a share of professional work as could be expected.

"Since April, 1886, I have been Secretary of the Worcester North District Medical Society, but intend to give up the position at the next annual meeting of the society, which occurs in a few days hence.

"I have joined several secret societies during the past five years, and am, at the present time, at the head of Alpine Lodge No. 35, Knights of Pythias. Have also passed through the chairs in several other orders.

"I am Medical Examiner for a number of mutual benefit and assessment societies here, and am also Local Examiner for two life insurance companies of high standing, the Northwestern Mutual and the New York Life.

"My only literary work since 1885 has been a history of Fitchburg, written in 1888 for the 'History of Worcester County,' published by J. W. Lewis & Co., of Philadelphia, in 1889. It was quite an undertaking, requiring considerable research and care and occupying all of my spare time from May to December, 1888."

Unmarried.

CHARLES JEREMIAH MASON.

(Philadelphia, May 12.)—"Since last report I have done nothing so startling as to be worthy of record in the Class Annals. I have been quietly at work in two or three parishes, as assistant, since my connection with the French Church of St. Sauveur; always in Philadelphia. And I am, at present, assistant to the Rev. William F. Nichols, D. D. (soon to be consecrated Assistant Bishop of California), in St. James's Church.

"I am not yet married, and I have not, of late, aside from sermons, engaged in any particular literary work.

"I do belong to a number of clubs and societies (chiefly clerical, perhaps, though I would mention, with especial interest, our Pennsylvania Forestry Association), but am free to confess that I am none too regular an attendant.

"The great summer trip taken by me during these past few years, with my sister and another friend of ours, was a delightful journey, in the summer of 1888, to Norway and the North Cape. We saw the fjords and mountains of those Northern lands, in all their glory. And our journey was crowned with a grand view of the midnight sun. Such a scene must be witnessed to be fully appreciated.

"The rest of the five years has been filled with the usual events of an ordinary quiet life.

"My permanent address is, care John C. Gray, Esq., 50 State Street, Boston, Mass."

HENRY CHAPMAN MERCER.

(Doylestown, Pa., April 3.)—"Is a member of the Linnean Society, of Lancaster, Pa., and of the Archæological Department of the University of Pennsylvania.

"In 1886, traveled down the Danube, from Donaueschingen to Ulm on a raft, from Ulm to Widdin (in Bulgaria) in a house-boat. In the summer of 1889, descended the Rhone from Seyssel to Arles in a house-boat, and having had the boat transported by rail from Arles to Brionde on the Allier (Auvergne), descended the Allier and the Loire from Brionde to Nantes."

Unmarried.

GEORGE von LENGERKE MEYER.

(Boston, April 12.)—"Since the last report in 1885 much has undoubtedly transpired to many of the members of the class, and I shall look for your report with interest. I myself was married on June 25, 1885, in Lenox, Mass., to Marian Alice Appleton, daughter of the late Charles H. Appleton, of Boston.

"Since then have resided in Boston, passing the summers in Manchester or Beverly. July 30, 1886, our first child was born, christened Julia Appleton, and on February 9, 1888, a second daughter, named after her mother, Alice Appleton.

"A year ago last fall I was elected a member of the Common Council of the City of Boston on the Republican ticket. This last fall received a re-election as a member of the city government and am now serving my second year in the Council. Last year the body was Democratic by a small majority, while this year it is Republican by a good working majority. The matter of municipal government should receive special attention from Harvard graduates and every citizen living in the large cities. The administrations of many of our large cities have acquired an unenviable reputation in this country and abroad. This can only be remedied by the better class of citizens generally taking an active part in their city politics, not only by voting on election day, but by attending regularly the primaries and caucuses and insisting on the proper candidate being nominated. Without attention to these matters 'Things alter for the worse spontaneously unless altered for the better designedly.' In answer to your question as to what clubs I belong to: I am a member of the Somerset, Country, Puritan, Athletic, and St. Botolph in Boston, and of the University and Players in New York. My address is, Fiske Building, 89 State Street, Boston."

GEORGE NORTON MILLER.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

JAMES WILLIAM MITCHELL.

Has not been heard from since 1885. The Boston directory gives his address as 17 Central Street; home, 2 Walnut Street.

WILLIAM INGALLS MONROE.

(Boston, April 7.)—"I am still practicing law in Boston at the old stand.

"I am not married.

"I am a member of the New England Historic Geneaological Society and the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League.

"During February and March of last year, I was traveling in Florida and several of the other Southern States."

JOHN GAVIN MORRIS.

(South Boston, April 29.)—"Since graduation from the Harvard Medical School, in 1882, I have been practicing medicine in Boston. Since 1884, I have been visiting physician to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Boston, and have remained in Boston since then, with the exception of one short trip to the West. I am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and of the Boston Medical Association."

GEORGE STORER MOTLEY.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

HENRY COOLIDGE MULLIGAN.

(Natick, Mass., May 27.)—"Am still practicing law in Boston and Natick.

"Married December 22, 1886, to Minna Rawson, of Worcester, Mass. Have one child, Ralph Coolidge, born at Natick, March 15, 1888."

HERBERT WILLIAM NEWHALL.

(Lynn, Mass., April 28.)—"Since my return from Europe, in October, 1886, I have been practicing medicine here in Lynn, and am still unmarried."

JOHN LORING NICHOLS.

(Boston, April 2.)—"Since 1885 I have made no changes in residence or business, as this heading will show [Fiske Wharf & Warehouse Company]. In fact all I have to report is the birth of another boy, born on May 23, 1887, the fifth anniversary of my wedding. His full name is Howard Nichols, and he is a dandy.

"I have, however, made some progress politically, since I wrote you in 1885. Then I was a Mugwump, but I have seen the error of my ways and am now a full-fledged Democrat, a member of the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, and of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League. I have never held any political office and never intend to."

JESSE ROWLAND NORTON.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

CHARLES PIERCE NUNN.

(Boston, April 7.)—"I am associated with the Messrs. Dewey, Gould & Co., wool merchants, 600 Atlantic Avenue, Boston, and live as usual at my old home in East Lexington.

"Unmarrried.

"Belong to a few local organizations, otherwise live an even, simple life."

CHARLES NATHAN OSGOOD.

(Chicago, May 27.)—"From the time of your last report until the latter part of 1887, I was engaged in railroad business at St. Paul and Minneapolis. In November, 1887, I came to Chicago as Chief Clerk in office of the Western Freight Association, Western and Northwestern Divisions, and have continued in this position up to the present time.

"You can make the following additions, for my account, to your list of births: Ruth, Minneapolis, June 1, 1887. Alan Marshall, Chicago, February 17, 1889."

FRANCIS BARTLETT PATTEN.

(Boston, May 8.)—"In the spring of 1886 I entered the service of the Massachusetts Title Insurance Company as Assistant Counsel and Title Examiner, a position which I still hold. Wrote an article on 'The Rule in Minot's Case,' Albany Law Journal, February 6, 1886, and an article on 'The Responsibility of Banks and Bankers for their Correspondents and their Notaries,' American Law Review, November-December, 1886.

"I will avail myself of a suggestion in your circular to speak of a 'special interest,' which has pleasantly occupied most of my leisure time for several years, the study of the Spanish language and literature. My reading has been chiefly confined to the works of the modern novelists and essayists—Valdés, Perez Galdos, Trueba, Fernan Caballero, Larra, Alarcon. I should especially mention Velera, whose 'Pepita Jimenez' is the most charming of novels, and whose critical and literary essays can hardly be excelled. The study of Spanish is, however, a solitary pursuit. Those interested in it (otherwise than commercially) are very few. It is in the hope that there may be some such in the class of '79 that I have written of it here."

Unmarried.

FREDERICK GARDINER PERRY.

(St. Paul, Minn., April 19.)—Has been much troubled with sickness the past year or two. In the fall of 1889 he went to Colorado Springs for a lung trouble, but trouble in his heart ensuing, he was obliged to change to St. Paul. He expects to return to Boston in June. Has two children, Frederick Gardiner Perry, Jr., born at Dorchester, Mass., December 7, 1885, and William Carleton Perry, born at Westfield, Mass., October 13, 1887.

EDWARD CLIFFORD PERKINS.

(New York, May 22.)—"Occupation, lawyer, at 115 Broadway, New York [firm of Davenport, Smith & Perkins]; residence, Plainfield, New Jersey; births, (3) Charles Callahan Perkins, born October, 1886, (4) Mary Ann Davenport Perkins, born May 11, 1890.

"I have watched my own career since 1885 with friendly interest, but I hardly think a particular account of it is anxiously desired by my friends and classmates, though I hope many of them will be glad to know that I have been fairly prosperous and successful."

ALBERT POOR.

(Boston, April 28.)—"I have nothing to add to the statement made for the last Class Report. It will be best to let that report remain as it is. Practicing law at 42 Court Street, Boston."

FRANK LESLIE PORTER.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

HARFORD WILLING HARE POWEL.

(Philadelphia, April 2.)—"Abandoned general practice, and, since 1885, has made solicitations of patents and conduct of patent causes a specialty. Office, 712 Walnut Street; residence, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, Pa.; married, October 5, 1886, at Newport, R. I., Marian Clifford Howard, daughter of E. W. Howard, late of Providence, R. I., and Elizabeth Stuyvesant Neilson, his wife. H. W. H. Powel, Jr., born August 20, 1887.

"President of Chestnut Hill Tennis Club; member Chestnut Hill Gun Club. Have special interest in concealing from natives of above settlement that a New England free-trader is sojourning among them; question of hair. Had a Yale man as law student. Recovered of the grippe at least twice. College degrees not shown on Almy's last list have all either been lost or mislaid in the post by Wanamaker, therefore not here scheduled. Otherwise return 'nihil'."

WALLACE PREBLE.

(Cambridge, Mass., April 4.)—"Moved to Old Cambridge, Mass., in September, 1886, and have practiced medicine here since then. Was married September 21, 1887, to Mary Fostina Wilder, of Medway, Mass. I am a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, South Middlesex District of the Cambridge Medical Improvement Society, Secretary of Old Cambridge Medical Book Club, also of Old Cambridge Medical Pamphlet Club. I am also a member of Colonial Club, of Cambridge, of Cambridge Casino, and Cambridge Archery and Tennis Club."

WALTER CONWAY PRESCOTT.

(Boston, May 7.)—"Am still with the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co. Was married April 23, 1890, to Miss Eva Snow Smith, of Charlestown, Mass. Oliver Smith and Eunice Smith were her parents.

"I belong to the Boston Athletic Association, am Treasurer of the Massachusetts Rifle Association, and a member of the Megantic Fish and Game Corporation, Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association, and a member of the Kernwood Club, of Malden, Mass. Made an extended trip to California in 1886, and in 1890 made a trip to Virginia. Live at 36 Harvard Street, Charlestown, Mass."

THOMAS WEBB PRESTON.

(Denver, April 15.)—"I was married in September, 1885, to Ada Louise Fiero, of Auburn, N. Y. Children, Harry Fiero, born June 7, 1886; Marian West, born February 2, 1889, died February 1, 1890.

"In 1887 I sold the sheep which I had previously handled, and went into the cattle business. In fall of 1889 sold out my cattle interests and ranch, and moved to Denver, Colorado, where I am at present interested in an electrical business. My present address is 2439 Ogden Street, Denver, Colorado."

EARL BILL PUTNAM.

(Rochester, N. Y., April 23.)—"I was married October 17, 1882, to Grace Williams Tower, of Philadelphia, Pa., daughter of Charlemagne and Amelia Malvina Tower. The names of our children, date of birth, etc., are as follows: Amelia Tower Putnam, born at Rochester, N. Y., August 26, 1883;

Grace Tower Putnam, born at Rochester, N. Y., May 5, 1886; Charlemagne Tower Putnam, born at Rochester, N. Y., February 16, 1888, died at Rochester, N. Y., February 17, 1889; Edward Putnam, born at Rochester, N. Y., February 1, 1890.

"My residence continues to be Rochester, where I continue also to practice law. February 13, 1888, I formed a partnership with George Fort Slocum, under the firm name of Putnam & Slocum. My office address is 28 Elwood Building; House, 17 Prince Street."

BENJAMIN RAND.

(Cambridge, Mass., May 4.)—"Since the permanent value of class reports depends in a great measure upon the accuracy of the data presented, it may be wise to correct here an error in my class-life. In writing that paper I described myself as a descendant of a Loyalist. Subsequent investigation, however, has revealed that my American ancestor settled in one of the delightful valleys of Acadia, prior to the Revolution. Furthermore, I have discovered that a large and important migration took place in the decade between 1760 and 1770, by which Plymouth and Puritan people became inhabitants of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. A study of this movement is alike recent and replete with interest. I have endeavored to set forth the results of my researches in a paper read before the New England Historical and Genealogical Society. A number of articles upon this subject have also been published. My work has likewise led to membership in the American Historical Association.

"The degree of Ph. D. in the Department of Philosophy was received by me from Harvard at the close of the academic year in 1885. The examination of work in forensics, in economic history, and in philosophy, which I have done at Cambridge since that date has been very large in amount. The most important single task, however, which I have performed has been the preparation, at the request of Professor Dunbar, of a text-book of readings in economic history. This book appeared in 1887 with the title of 'Economic History since 1763.' It has not only been prescribed at Harvard, but has also been adopted for a similar purpose by others of the leading American universities. I have also printed various articles on the subject of railways. A number of bibliographies have likewise been prepared, of which I hope to publish one in relation to the 'History of Philosophy.' For the present year (1889-90) I have occupied a position made vacant by the resignation of the Professor of English in the Institute of Technology. Although not a specialist in English, the work has proved both enjoyable and profitable."

WILLIAM MINARD RICHARDSON.

(Boston, April 7.)—"Since the last Class Report I have been practicing law in Boston in the office of Robert M. Morse, Jr. I was admitted to practice in the State Courts in 1882; in the United States Courts in 1884; in the Supreme Court of the United States in 1885.

"June 27, 1888, I married, at Cambridge, Sara Jenkins Hanks, daughter of Stedman W. and Sarah Hale Hanks, and sister of Charles S. Hanks, of '79.

"I am a member of the Puritan and Trade Clubs of Boston, and of the Colonial Club of Cambridge.

"My present addres is 180 Brattle Street, Cambridge, Mass."

FREDERICK HASTINGS RINDGE.

(Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.)—"For the past three years I have made my home in Los Angeles.

"I married in Michigan, May 17, 1887, Rhoda May Knight. April 9, 1888, a son was born to us, named Samuel Knight Rindge.

"I have been interested in the building of the Didactic Public Buildings, at Cambridge, Mass., and in this connection have taken much enjoyment in endeavoring to prove the wisdom of establishing manual training schools in connection with the public-school system of our country.*

"I have written several books; those now printed are named 'Thoughts of a Truth Seeker,' 'Meditations on Many Matters,' and 'Thoughts Concerning Ourselves and Our Interests.'

"I have also devoted time to the Christian work of a layman. I have been interested in archæology, and have made, and am making, a collection of aboriginal implements of stone used by the native races of the Pacific Coast, from Alaska to Central America. My old fondness for numismatics has yielded to more important work, and my collection, largely of ancient Greek and Roman coins, has found a five-year home in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

"I am a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church; of the Young Men's Christian Association; of the Archæological Institute of America; and of the New England Historical and Genealogical Society. The blessing of salvation has been a great help and enjoyment to me in my life, and I sincerely hope the same blessing has come to each of us."

---

* So modest a statement as this requires explanation in a foot-note. Rindge's gifts to the city of Cambridge have been :

(1) Public Library Building, $100,000, and also the large lot of land on which it is placed.

(2) Manual Training School, including gifts for running expenses, $100,000; again with a large lot of land.

(3) City Hall, about $210,000.

(4) Land for a High School Building.

He has made many small gifts to various charities and churches. I believe there are some gifts in California, but know nothing of them. Also understand that he gave to the City of Boston an island in Boston Harbor, for the use of the poor.

I found the following editorial in the Buffalo Courier a few weeks ago. I do not know how accurate its information is, but the article is certainly interesting :

"Manual Training at Cambridge.—While the subject of manual training is under discussion it might be well to secure some information regarding the school at Cambridge, Mass., established by the generosity of Frederick H. Rindge, a native of the city, but a resident, on account of his health, of Los Angeles, Cal. The building, which was opened in October, 1888, cost, with its equipments, about $65,000. The teachers include a principal, an instructor in charge of the machine shop, a drawing teacher, an instructor in blacksmithing, an instructor in carpentry, an instructor in wood turning and pattern making, a superintendent's clerk, and a teacher in the ordinary high-school branches, to which two rooms in the building are devoted. The pupils number ninety, and their ages range from thirteen to seventeen. They enter the regular high school, and by dropping one study,

EDWARD ROBINSON.

(Boston, April 26.)—"At the end of February, 1885, I was finishing my archæological studies in Berlin. About the first of March went south, made a second visit to Athens, and a trip through the interior of Greece, which occupied four weeks, then crossed to Naples, and continued by way of Rome and Florence to Geneva, where I passed the summer. In the autumn returned to America to accept the position of Curator of Classical Antiquities in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. I entered upon my duties October 15, of that year, and have retained the position until the present time. The summers of 1886 and 1887 I passed in Europe.

"In the early spring of 1887, I published a 'Descriptive Catalogue of the Casts from Greek and Roman Sculpture in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston,' and at the same time became a contributor to the New York Nation, for which I have since written, with more or less regularity, reviews, articles and notes, on topics connected with my subject. Have also written occasionally for other papers. In each of the last four years my annual which may be Latin, are entitled to give the time thus saved to the manual training school. The sessions are from 8:30 to 2:30, and the pupils are expected to recite two hours a day in the ordinary branches and to give three hours to the shop. The courses of study are as follows:

---

"First year—English high school: English, history, civil government, geometry, algebra. Manual training school: Drawing, carpentry and joinery, iron fitting.

"Second year—English high school: English, physics, reviews of arithmetic and geography, geometry, algebra. Manual training school: Drawing, wood turning, pattern making, casting, blacksmithing.

"Third year—English high school: French, history, English literature, metric system, and advanced algebra. Manual training school: Drawing, machine-shop work, practice in care of engine, boiler and dynamo.

"One of the peculiar features of the school is a fire-drill, in which the boys man two hose-carts, set up ladders, etc. Another is a series of sixteen emergency lectures, in which they are taught how to bind up wounds and resuscitate the drowning. The building has just been equipped with electric lights, all the work being done by the pupils except the putting in of the dynamos. They also put in the steam-heating plant. The janitor work in the building is performed by the boys, six being detailed for this duty under the direction of a floor sergeant. They do this outside of school hours and receive pay for it."

I regret not to have obtained more accurate information concerning these gifts.

The class will all be glad to know that the corporation has voted to confer upon Rindge the A. B. which sickness prevented him from receiving in 1879, and that, as the overseers will doubtless concur, he will receive the degree this Commencement. F. A.

report to the Committee on the Museum has been printed in the 'Annual Report of the Trustees of the Museum of Fine Arts.'

During the years 1887 and 1888, I assisted Mr. W. A. Slater in the formation of the Slater Memorial Museum, of Norwich, Conn. The work was begun in March, 1887, and the Museum dedicated November 22, 1889. It was described in the Nation of August 16, 1888, and in other papers of New York and Boston, on the day following the opening.

Professor Rodolfo Lanciani's 'Ancient Rome in the Light of Recent Discoveries,' Boston, 1889, I had the honor of preparing for the press.

I hold, or have held, the following positions: Member of the Permanent Committee of the School of Drawing and Painting in this Museum, since June 20, 1887; Associate Member of the Boston Society of Architects, resigned December, 1889; Honorary member of the New York Academy of Anthropology; one of the Vice-Presidents of the International Congress of Anthropology, at New York, June, 1888, at which, however, I was not able to be present; elected Secretary of the Art Commission of the City of Boston, May 9, 1890; member of the Election Committee of the Tavern Club; member of the St. Botolph Club, resigned January, 1889; and of the Boston Athletic Association.

"My winter residence is at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston. Summer residence at Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass. My permanent address is, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston."

EDWARD ABBOT ROBINSON.

(Wollaston, Mass., April 13.)—"My present address is Wollaston, Mass., where I am located as pastor of the Congregationalist Church. Since leaving Hingham, where I was settled at the time of the last Class Report, I served in Boston as assistant pastor of Berkeley Temple, from August, 1888, to March, 1890, when I took up the work in Wollaston, one of the rapidly growing suburbs of Boston.

"I married, June 2, 1885, Ida Loring, daughter of S. Brainard and Carrie (Hawkins) Pratt. We have two children, Margaret, born September 28, 1887, at Hingham, and Willis Brainard, born April 18, 1889, at Forest Hills, Boston."

HIRAM HOLBROOK ROSE.

(Chicago, April 19.)—"Is practicing law in Chicago at 95 Washington Street."

THOMAS RUSSELL.

(Boston, May 1.)—"Since the publication of our last Class Report there has occurred nothing in my life to add to what is already therein published. I have continued practicing law in the office of Russell & Putnam, and am still unmarried."

CHARLES ELLIOTT ST. JOHN.

(Northampton, Mass., April 25.)—"I am still at Northampton, where, since 1883, I have had a quiet, busy and happy pastorate. I have written a few brief articles for the Christian Register and the local papers, and have printed in that way a sermon or two. But I have given my thought and study almost entirely to the writing of sermons, and to the attempt at improving myself as a preacher. That is the part of a minister's work for which I care most. I have never ceased to rejoice at my choice of a profession. Perhaps the one thing in my church work which has interested me most deeply was the successful holding of a mission week here in the fall of 1888. With the assistance of Rev. W. W. Fenn, of Pittsfield (a Harvard man), I held meetings every evening for a week, an unusual method of work in Unitarian churches, and the large attendance and fresh earnestness resulting proved that liberal religion can, to advantage, avail itself of this method.

"I was married June 26, 1888, to Miss Martha Elizabeth Everett, of Dover, Mass., daughter of George Draper Everett and Martha Plummer Everett, of Dover, Mass., a graduate of Smith College. A son, Everett, was born March 27, 1889, who would have been the class baby of the Smith Class of '88, had the class not voted to accept none but a girl for class baby. However, as he resides within a stone's throw of the college, he gets a fair share of attention. Never did a small boy have so many young ladies for his admirers. In addition to finding a wife within the walls of Smith College, I have derived much pleasure and profit from living near it. I have found agreeable friends among the faculty, and am a warm admirer of the work and methods of the College."

HENRY RUFUS SARGENT.

(Memphis, Tenn., April 16.)—"I graduated from the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church in New York, June, 1885, and had temporary charge during the summer of St. Margaret's Church, Brighton, having been ordered Deacon by the Bishop of Massachusetts, at Cambridge. Was advanced to the Priesthood in Baltimore, where I had been engaged in work among the colored people, in June, 1886, and the same month took my degree of B. D. at the Seminary in New York. I left Baltimore November, 1887, and spent a year in England, most of that time living in Oxford (The Mission House of Cowley St. John). After working for a short time in one of the voluntary missions of East London, I came back to America and spent a year with the Order of the Holy Cross in their mission on the east side of New York City. I have been here (Memphis, Tenn.) since November, in charge of a mission to colored people, and if others come to join me in this work, look forward to having some time a large mission church and house, with a school building for the education of lads for the better colored families of the South. As yet one has not been much encouraged to begin."

WILLIAM SCHOFIELD.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

EDWARD WESTON SHANNON.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

WILLIAM SHEAFE.

(Boston, April 5.)—"Since 1885 I have continued in the real estate business in Boston, in the office of William & Edwin Sheafe. In 1887 made a trip to California and the Sandwich Islands. In 1888 a visit to Bermuda, and in 1889 a second trip to California. April 3, 1888, I married Grace Thornton Dame, the daughter of Frank O. Dame and Mary Herrick Dame, of Boston. In Boston, September 6, 1889, my son, William Sheafe, Jr., was born. Am a member of the Country, Somerset and Athletic clubs, of Boston, and a non-resident member of the University Club in New York City. My residence is 91 Beacon Street, Boston."

GEORGE RUMSEY SHELDON.

(New York, April 22.)—"Is a member of the firm of Wm. C. Sheldon & Co., 4 Wall Street, N. Y. Has two daughters, Mary Seney Sheldon, born in Brooklyn, October 16, 1884, and Gertrude Sheldon, born in New York, May 19, 1888. Is a member of the University Club, the Union League Club, the Harvard Club, and the Racquet Club. Residence, 89 Park Avenue, New York City."

HENRY AUGUSTUS SHUTE.

(Exeter, N. H., April 29.)—"For the last five years I have been quietly grubbing along in law and insurance in Exeter, N. H. Have worked hard and have been fairly successful in both lines. I still administer justice (of a questionable kind, perhaps) in the Exeter Police Court. I was married November 18, 1885, to Amelia Frances Weeks, of Exeter, daughter of Nathaniel and Frances A. Weeks, deceased. A son, Richard Everett, was born October 17, 1887.

"Am a member of the Board of Trade, Royal Arcanum, and Iron Hall; Treasurer of the Rockingham Building Association, Director in the Electric Light and Street Railway Corporation, (which are in their infancy—very much so), member of the Exeter Whist Club and of various instrumental organizations of decidedly amateurish abilities. Am a Republican and member of the Republican Club."

FRANK ERNEST SIMPSON.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

FREDERIC WARREN SMITH.

(Boston, May 23.)—"I have very little to add to our last report. On June 13, 1888, I was married to Mary Frances Mack, of Boston. My present residence is Hotel Oxford, Boston, and office as above." [Patent method of boiler setting, 91 Oliver Street.]

WILLARD EVERETT SMITH.

(Boston, May 3.)—"Is practicing medicine at 21 Concord Square, Boston, Mass. Removed from Framingham to Boston in September, 1886.

"Married September 15, 1886, Alice Lee Newell, of Framingham, daughter of the late Capt. George Newell, of Sherborn, ship merchant, and Olive Plympton, of Medfield. Has one child: Everett Newell Smith, born in Boston, June 26, 1888.

"Papers published:

"Hereditary or Degenerative Ataxia: six cases in one family; death of one case and autopsy, with table of recorded cases, bibliography and four plates from photographs. pp. 31. Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, October 15, 1885.

"Analysis of this paper with its pathology, is given by Dr. Austin Flint in 'Practice of Medicine,' sixth edition, Philadelphia, 1886, p. 748. Complete resumé with anatomical plates, given by Prof. William R. Gowers in 'Manual of the Diseases of the Nervous System,' London, 1886, Vol. I, pp. 349–354. The paper, with its four plates, combined with another paper, mentioned below, upon same subject, constitutes the chapter on this subject in 'Lectures on Nervous Diseases,' by Prof. A. L. Ranney. Philadelphia, 1888, pp. 591–598. A most thorough analysis of these cases is also given by Prof. J. P. Crozer Griffith in his monograph, 'A Contribution to the Study of Friedreich's Ataxia.' Philadelphia, 1889. Reprinted from 'Transactions of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia, 1888.

"The Rational Treatment of Pulmonary Diseases by the Pneumatic Cabinet. Journal of the American Medical Association, November 14, 1885.

"The Rational Treatment of Bronchial and Pulmonary Diseases by the Pneumatic Cabinet. Medical and Surgical Reporter, Philadelphia, February 20, 1886.

"A case of Poisoning from Arsenical Wall Paper. Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, November 17, 1887.

"Poisoning from Arsenical Wall Paper. Lynn (Mass.) Daily Bee, January 7, 1888. Also in The Weekly Reporter, Lynn, January 13, 1888.

"Postero Lateral Spinal Sclerosis (Generic Origin) or Generic Ataxia. Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, March 1, 1888.

"Acute Strangulated Rupture. Philadelphia Medical Times, March 15, 1888.

"A Study of Phthisis and Pneumonia in Massachusetts: statistical and climatological. pp. 26, with four tables and seven charts. Medical Communications of the Massachusetts Medical Society. Vol. XIV, No. 11, 1888. pp. 247–272.

"Worse Climates than Ours. Boston Daily Herald, June 13, 1888.

"Registration of Disease. Boston Daily Herald, November —, 1888.

"Pneumonia Mortality in Massachusetts Alms-Houses. Editorial in Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, November 29, 1888.

"The Registration of Mortality and Vital Statistics. Editorial, ibid, December 6, 1888.

"On the Distribution of Disease. Report and appeal from the Committee of the Massachusetts Medical Society. Ibid, June 27, 1889.

"In February, 1888, was invited to attend meeting of the College of Physicians, of Philadelphia, to discuss the so-called 'Hereditary Ataxia.' He there suggested a new and more scientific name for the disease, which was immediately adopted in full by Dr. A. L. Ranney, in his 'Lectures on Nervous Diseases.' Was appointed by the Massachusetts Medical Society, June 13, 1888, a Special Committee of one to co-operate with Prof. N. S. Shaler, of the United States Trigonometrical Survey, and Gen. A. W. Greely, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A., 'in studying the distribution of disease throughout Massachusetts.' Hopes to make a preliminary report this coming June."

SAMUEL SNELLING.

(Philadelphia, May 17.)—"Was Rector of Grace Church, Amherst, Mass., in 1885; January, 1888, accepted the rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Providence, R. I., and removed from Amherst to Providence. In January, 1890, was asked to take charge of old St. Paul's Church, in Third Street, Philadelphia, Pa., under the auspices of St. James's parish, in the same city. Accepted this position, and began work in Philadelphia February 9, 1890. Am now living at 1030 Spruce Street.

"Literary work: Several essays and papers read at clerical and other meetings. In February, 1889, delivered a lecture before the Rhode Island Historical Society, on 'William Blackstone and His Contemporaries.' Two or three sermons printed by special request; in particular, a memorial sermon preached at Grace Church, Amherst, May 26, 1889, and printed and distributed in pamphlet form."

*SAMUEL ELLSWORTH SOMERBY.

Born August 31, 1856, at Waltham, Mass.; died June 19, 1890, at Boston, Mass.

Detailed notice will appear in next Report.

CHARLES FRANKLIN SPRAGUE.

(Boston, April 15.)—"I am practicing law in Boston [at 39 Court Street], and am interested in municipal politics, being a member of the Common Council, which is the lower branch of the city government; and am possessed of the towering ambition to become, some day, an alderman, and wear a great big rose in my button-hole. At present no jewels adorn my shirt, as the councilmen receive no pay for their services to an ungrateful city, and, much as I should like to, I am, therefore, unable to say to the members of '79, 'If you follow me you'll wear diamonds'!"

HAYWARD STETSON.

Has not replied to circular. Is practicing medicine at Bangor, Maine.

MARION STORY.

(Throggs Neck, Westchester County, N. Y., May 28.)—"My home is at Westchester, N. Y. For the past three years I have been in business in the New York Stock Exchange.

"On June 22, 1888, I was married to Marie Louise Hunt, of New York.

"I am a member of the Knickerbocker Club, of New York, and the Country Club, of Westchester, New York. At either of which clubs letters will always reach me."

FRANCIS JOSEPH SWAYZE.

(Newton, N. J., May 1.)—"I have been practicing law in Newton continuously since 1885.

"I was married October 13, 1887, to Sarah Louise Barrett, of this place, daughter of Rev. Myron Barrett.

"I have been active in Republican politics, and in 1886 was chosen Chairman of the Republican County Committee. On the expiration of my term of office in 1889, I was chosen a member of the State Committee from this Congressional district.

"My present address is Newton, New Jersey."

JIREH SWIFT.

(April 30.)—Is still with Henry Forster & Co., sugar and commission merchants, Pernambuco, Brazil, being a member of the firm since July 1, 1889. He spent the summer of 1886 at his home, New Bedford, Mass. Was married June 9, 1886, at Fairhaven, Mass., to Elizabeth Borden Hawes, daughter of John Alexander Hawes and Amelia Hawes. A son, Jireh Swift, 7th, was born at Fairhaven, April 7, 1889.

"He visited this country again in the summer of 1889, returning to Brazil in January, 1890.

WILLIAM HENRY SYLVESTER.

(Newtonville, Mass., April 29.)—"I am still living in Newtonville, Mass., and teaching in the Boston English High School. I have a son, Harold Gage Sylvester, born in Newtonville, March 22, 1887. I am leading a busy but uneventful life. I belong to several clubs, and was President of the Newtonville Every Saturday Club last year. But few other honors have been thrust upon me."

HERBERT TAPPAN.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

*WILLIAM CROSWELL TARBELL.

William Croswell Tarbell, son of John P. and Katharine E. Tarbell, was born in Boston, March 29, 1853, and died in Boston, December 6, 1886. He was fitted for college in Boston, at the school of the Messrs. Ayers. He entered the Harvard Law School in the fall of 1879, graduating in 1882 with the degree of LL. B. Was admitted to the bar of Suffolk County, Massachusetts, in January, 1883.

After admission to the bar, he opened an office in Boston, applied himself closely to the practice of his profession, and had already begun to reap the benefits of his diligence. His death was sudden and unexpected to his friends, who have lost a pleasant companion; and what promised to be a useful life has been cut short.

FRANK WILLIAM TAUSSIG

(Cambridge, April 2.)—"In 1885-86 I took my third year at Harvard Law School, receiving the degree of LL. B. in June, 1886. But some months before this I had been offered and had accepted an appointment as Assistant Professor of Political Economy in Harvard University, and in the fall of 1886 entered on the duties of that position. Since then I have lived the uneventful life of a college teacher. I was so fortunate as to be appointed just in time to take part in the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of the University, and, being then the youngest member of the faculty, seem to have a better chance than any other member of taking part in the 300th anniversary when that comes around.

"On June 29, 1888, I was married at Exeter, N. H., to Edith Thomas Guild, of Boston, daughter of George Dwight Guild, of the class of '45, and of Mary Thomas Guild (now Mrs. William H. Gorham). On May 3, 1889, we had born a son, William Guild Taussig. During the past summer (1889) we have built a house on land formerly belonging to Professor Norton, off Kirkland Street, and hope to live here in peace and quiet for many years to come.

"In connection with my teaching work, I have written and published on economic topics. Most of my writing has been for the Quarterly Journal of Economics, which was established by the University in 1886. In 1888 I published a volume entitled, 'The Tariff History of the United States,' made up, with revisions and additions, of the two smaller books published previously (on 'Protection to Young Industries' and on the 'History of the Present Tariff'), and of the two other essays on tariff history mentioned in the subjoined list, which I have prepared at the request of our inquisitive Secretary. During the year 1889-90, in the absence of Professor Dunbar, I have edited the Journal of Economics.

"In 1888 I was elected a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. I am also a member of various scientific societies, to which my work naturally leads me, such as the American Economic and Historical Associations and the Political Economy Club. The list of my publications since 1885, not including minor articles in periodicals, is, in chronological order:

(1) "Translation, with comment, of Wagner on the Present State of Political Economy; Quarterly Journal of Economics, October, 1886.

(2) "The Southwestern Strike of 1886; ibid., January, 1887.

(3) "Translation of Soetbeer's Materials on the Silver Question, undertaken for the government, and published in Mr. Edward Atkinson's Report on Bi-metallism, 1887.

(4) "A Suggested Re-arrangement of Economic Study; Quarterly Journal of Economics, January, 1888.

(5) "The Tariff of 1828; Political Science Quarterly, March, 1888.

(6) "The Tariff, 1830-1860; Quarterly Journal of Economics, April, 1888.

(7) "The Tariff History of the United States; New York, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1888.

(8) "How the Tariff Affects Wages; The Forum, October, 1888.

(9) "Some Aspects of the Tariff Question; Quarterly Journal of Economics, April, 1889.

(10) "Political Economy and Business; The Harvard Monthly, June, 1889.

(11) "Workmen's Insurance in Germany; The Forum, October, 1889.

(12) "The Silver Situation in the United States; Quarterly Journal of Economics, April, 1890.

"I have also done a good deal of miscellaneous editorial work on the Quarterly Journal of Economics in arranging letters and appendix matter, and in writing notes and memoranda, and have written occasionally for the Nation and other papers. My address is 2 Scott Street, Cambridge, Mass."

FREDERICK HENRY TEMPLE.

(Boston, April 28.)—"My residence, occupation and place of business remain the same as in 1885. My condition has changed as follows: On December 1, 1887, married, at Medford, Mass., Frederick H. Temple to Mara Octavia, daughter of Harmon W. and Anna F. Paine, of Medford; on February 22, 1889, born, at Boston, to Frederick H. and Mara O. Temple, a daughter, Henrietta Frances.

"My literary, scientific, political and commercial work has shown no great advance, but my membership in the Massachusetts Reform Club, Massachusetts Tariff Reform League, Young Men's Democratic Club of Massachusetts, and Democratic State Committee indicates the line of my political work thus far. Have been connected with the Assessor's Department of the City of Boston, as Assistant Assessor, since 1882."

JOHN ALDEN THAYER.

(Worcester, Mass., April 4.)—"1885-86—Tutoring in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

"1886-87—Teaching in Worcester, Mass.

"1887-88—Tutoring in New York City; attending Columbia College School of Law. July 3 to September 17, trip to Ireland, Scotland, England and Paris.

"1888-89—Attending Columbia College School of Law. Degree therefrom of LL. B. in June. July 3 to September 18, trip to England, Norway, Sweden, Russia, Prussia, Bavaria, Alsace-Lorraine, the Rhine, Belgium and Paris.

"1889-90—Admitted to Massachusetts Bar February 7, 1890. Practicing in Worcester, Mass."

Unmarried.

JAMES EAMES THOMAS.

(Boston, April 6.)—I am still what Washington Irving would term 'a worthy pedagogue,' but have changed the seat of my labors to Boston. I now teach English Literature and Rhetoric in the English High School, and am, I believe, permanently located. I find the work very pleasant.

"I am not married.

"My literary work outside of my profession has been confined to one book on 'Liberal Christianity,' and several unimportant papers read before different societies. I am a member of several schoolmaster's clubs, also the Unitarian and Channing Clubs.

"Have made one trip across the continent, visiting about every state and territory of the Union. I was particularly impressed with the fact that, wherever I went, I met Harvard men, an exceedingly pleasant feature."

WASHINGTON BUTCHER THOMAS.

(Boston, June 14.)—Is with the Standard Sugar Refinery, Boston, as heretofore.

JOHN JAMES THOMPSON.

Has not been heard from since 1882.

JOSEPH GILBERT THORP.

(Boston, April 23.)—"I am still a lawyer here in Boston, with my office at 89 State Street, one hundred and forty feet above the level of the street, commanding a view of Boston Harbor unsurpassed. Fresh breezes and beautiful views go far to ameliorate the drudgery of office work.

"I still live in Cambridge, at 115 Brattle Street, having built in 1887 a house in the colonial style, in a part of the Longfellow estate.

"October 14, 1885, I married Annie Allegra Longfellow, the youngest daughter of the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and Frances Appleton Longfellow. We have two lively little girls, Alice Allegra and Amelia Chapman; the first born in Cambridge, January 28, 1888, the second also in Cambridge August 11, 1889.

"Apart from my professional work, my interests have been especially centered in local city and philanthropic work. I have had a hand in keeping our city a 'no license' city, acting in this work with people holding all degrees of temperance views, there being in Cambridge, happily, little difference of opinion now, after several years trial of the excellent working of this system with us, when well enforced and supported by the best public opinion, as it is.

"I have been especially interested in civil service reform. I am a director of the Cambridge Association, and since last autumn, have been the Secretary of the Massachusetts C. S. R. League.

"I am a director of the Massachusetts Prison Association, a new and vigorous organization, with hopes to secure better penal legislation; to give proper assistance to the families of prisoners, and to assist discharged prisoners who are worthy to get employment and a new start in life.

"I have been a director and the clerk of a Coffee-House Association in Cambridge, which has done good work in providing saloons without liquor, and am a director of the Social Union, an excellent organization with a library and reading-room, which gives weekly entertainments, dramatic and musical, and lectures, to its members, for a nominal fee.

"I am a member of the Union Club, a social organization, and of the new social club in Cambridge, the Colonial Club, also of the Cambridge Club, a dining club, which discusses matters of interest to the city; one of the last things, the revision of the city charter, a matter in which I am much interested, and hope to assist in bringing about.

"I am a quiet member of the Tariff Reform Club, and the Reform Club, both organizations doing good political work. Such are the 'especial interests' which occupy me, and very absorbing they are.

"My only 'extended journey' was a delightful summer in Europe in 1886 with Mrs. Thorp and friends. We were in England and Switzerland in July and August, spent a week at the Italian lakes, heard 'Parsifal' and 'Tristan and Isolde' at Bayreuth, and had a delightful week in Holland, reaching home the latter part of September.

"With my winter home in Cambridge, my office in Boston, and my summers passed at Manchester, Mass., on the beautiful North Shore, my lot is cast in pleasant places."

*WILLETT LOSEE TITUS.

Born April 12, 1853, at Hamden, Delaware Co., N. Y.; died September 26 1879, at the same place.

See Report II, pp. 101-104.

JOHN JOSEPH TOWNSEND.

(New York, April 2.)—Is practicing law in New York.

Unmarried.

WALTER TRIMBLE.

(New York, May 26.)—Is practicing law in New York. Firm name, Wyatt & Trimble.

Unmarried.

LARKIN THORNDIKE TRULL.

(Lowell, Mass., May 7.)—"I am still practicing law in Lowell, and have no reason to complain of my success.

"In the summer of 1886, I traveled with my wife through England, Ireland, Scotland and France. I have also made two quite extensive trips through the Western and Southern States.

"I was chairman of the Republican City Committee of Lowell for 1887 and 1888, and am now a member of the Republican State Central Committee. Among the most agreeable duties I have to perform are those required of me as one of the Board of Trustees of the Lowell City Library, to which I was elected for six years. I have been elected City Solicitor for Lowell for the years 1889 and 1890, and this office requires hard and constant work. I am sorry that I cannot report that I have acquired fame by literary or scientific efforts."

ALFRED STEWART TUBBS.

(San Francisco, April 7.)—"I am still in San Francisco with the Tubbs Cordage Company as their Treasurer.

"Not married.

"I went East for the 250th anniversary of the University, but have not been there since then.

"Address as before, 613 Front Street, San Francisco."

WILLIAM GREENE TWOMBLEY.

Has not been heard from since 1881.

HENRY OLIVER UNDERWOOD.

(Boston, April 11.)—"I am still living at Belmont, Mass. Have had two more additions to my family: Margaret Cushing Underwood, born June 24, 1886, and Marion Cushing Underwood, born December 20, 1888. Am still in the same business, with William Underwood & Co. (manufacturers of canned goods and importers). Was admitted into the firm in 1886, my father being previously the only member. My time has been wholly devoted to business, which has so far been satisfactory.

"Have held no political office excepting in town affairs.

"Am a member of the Civil Service Reform, Tariff Reform, Young Men's Democratic Clubs, South Middlesex Unitarian Club, Athletic, Puritan and Hull Yacht Clubs, and Duck Lake (Me.) Fishing Club."

DAVID URQUHART.

He has left P. Lorrillard & Co. Have been told that he was a United States Commissioner to last year's Paris Exposition.

WILLIAM BAYARD VAN RENSSELAER.

(Albany, May 2.)—"There is nothing to add to my history printed in the last Class Report; my address, occupation [law] and interests being about the same now as in 1885."

JOHN VAUGHN.

Has not been heard from since 1885.

Just previous to 1885 he studied law at Cambridge. Before he was admitted to the bar he accepted the position of New England agent for a Philadelphia house which published school-books, —A. P. Butler & Co. (?). He remained with them until the sum mer of 1888. In October, 1888, he entered the Boston English High School, as temporary teacher, and remained there until last April, when he entered the employ of Sower, Potts & Co., publishers, Philadelphia. He is still in their employ, translating some German books which the firm are to publish. During the last three years he has done considerable work making and revising school text-books. His address April 1st was 14 Windsor Street, Boston.

HENRY CLARKE WARREN.

(Boston, April 10.)—"In 1885 I published in the journal of the Pali Text Society, of England, an account of the Pali MSS. in the Brown University Library at Providence, R. I.; later, in May, I read before the American Oriental Society a short paper 'On Superstitions Connected with Sneezing.' An abstract of this was published in the Proceedings of that society for May, 1885. Since then I have published nothing, though I have kept up my studies of Oriental languages, and hope to appear in print again. I have lived continuously at home, 67 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston, both summer and winter, with the exception of a trip which I took to California in 1888. My father died May 11, 1888, and in the end of May I went to California, thinking that possibly I might settle there. I spent over two months at the Hotel del Coronado in San Diego, in the extreme south of the state. But I concluded that I would not risk the winter there, and returned home in September, where I have been ever since."

CHARLES LUKE WELLS.

(Faribault, Minn., April 1.)—"Was married in Nashua, N. H., January 28, 1886, to Marie Louise Goddard, daughter of Nate A. and Emma Andrews Goddard, of Nashua. The Rt. Rev. H. A. Neely, D. D., Bishop of Maine, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Wm. H. Moreland, Rector of the parish. After a short trip we returned to my parish in Gardiner, Maine. Having been elected to the professorship of Ecclesiastical History, Polity, and Canon Law in the Seabury Divinity School, Faribault, Minn., I moved west January, 1888. In July of the same year I was appointed by the Board of Trustees to fill the position of Warden or Dean of the school. I have held this position ever since in connection with my professorship. I thus find myself in charge of a Theological School with seven professors, four instructors and thirty students, engaged in a most interesting work of educating and training young men for the Christian ministry in the West. We have in the school a negro, an Indian and a Norwegian, beside English, Irish and Americans, men who are equal in intellect and training to the students in the Theological Schools of the East. The course here is a very advanced one, including a full treatment of the latest ethical and social problems. The Indian is a son of the Chief of the Dakotahs, and will himself be Chief when his father dies. Am a member of the American Society of Church History and also of the Harvard Club, which meets in Minneapolis several times a year."

JOHN WALTER WELLS.

Has not been heard from. Has probably failed to receive circulars, his proper address being unknown to the Secretary.

CHARLES HOOVER WHITING.

(Boston, April 30.)—"At present I am with the Pulsion Telephone Company, having sold out my business to four of my clerks in March, 1888, to interest myself more closely in the Meigs Elevated Railway."

RICHARD THOMAS WILTON.

(West Tisbury, Mass., June 4.)—"I resigned and left the Rindge Church in May, 1886. The Council for dismission made no reference to the question of my ministerial standing. This was an unusual occurrence, and probably owed its origin to the petty clerical spite generated by the following letter of mine, dated May 17, 1886, answering an epistle from a Mr. B. D. Hutchins, of Keene, N. H.:

"Dear Sir:—Your communication of yesterday containing the words 'your Association' surprised me. I have the honor to belong to the Old Colony Association, and if to be reckoned an 'honorary member' of the Monadnock Association on my first and only visit to Keene, as a visitor, has caused my name to be associated with the Monadnock Association, then it is not my fault. If my brethren, Dexter and Quint, sustain Mr. Leach, then the Monadnock Association had better keep still. I sympathize with you in your calamity.

Very truly yours,

RICHARD T. WILTON.

"I received an offer to travel from the president of a New York publishing house, and a call to preach in a neighboring town. Prefering to travel rather than preach, I left for New York in October, 1886, shortly after the birth of Herbert Wilder Wilton, born in Rindge, N. H., August 16, 1886, our classmate and my friend, A. P. Mason, M.D., officiating.

"I continued to travel from October, 1886, to April, 1889, over New England, the near West, Canada, England, Scotland and Wales, and thence, on returning to America, the South. Needing rest, I leisurely spent a few months on Cape Ann, Mass. There in Lanesville, Gloucester, September 24, 1889, Edith Victoria Wilton was born.

"In August, 1889, I received a call to preach in West Tisbury, Martha's Vineyard, my present address. Previous to coming here, in May, 1889, I received a letter from a member of the aforesaid Rindge Council, requesting my permission to supply the omission in my papers when I left the Rindge Society, because, as he wrote, 'we all know the Rindge Council made a mistake.' So a Council convened in Fitchburg, May 23, 1889, and congregationally corrected the abuse of Congregational polity by the Rindge Council.

"In November, 1885, I joined Charity Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M., and took the third degree.

"A sermon preached in 1884 was published in 1885 in pamphlet form."

JOHN ELIOT WOLFF.

(Cambridge, April 9.)—"After two years study at Heidelberg, returned to this country in 1885, having received an appointment on the United States Geological Survey. Was appointed in 1886, instructor in Petrography at Harvard, which position he still holds, and has just moved into the fine new laboratories of this department at the University Museum.

"Was married October 20, 1887, at Newport, R.I., to Ethel Pumpelly Loder.

"Received A.M. and Ph.D. from Harvard last year.

"Address, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass."

STEPHEN BLAKE WOOD.

(Boston, May 3.)—"Since last writing you in 1885, I have found two partnerships. The first was domestic—with Amy L. Blandy, June 27, 1885, at Dorchester. Her home was in Zanesville, Ohio. Her father's name was Henry and her mother's Louise. Our children are: Myra de Normandie, born May 12, 1886; Marjorie, born October 4, 1887, both at Roxbury; and Grayson, born at Arlington, August 25, 1889. At the last-named place I have built a house, and have there settled down to await my green old age.

"My second partnership is a law firm, with my partner's name at the head. I became acquainted with Gorham D. Williams, of Greenfield, Mass. (H. C., '65), through some cases in which we were both interested, and learning that he was desirous of moving to Boston, suggested a partnership to him. This was accomplished last June, and I have every reason to be satisfied with the arrangement.

"It must be clear from the first part of my letter, that my time during the last five years, outside of business hours, must have been fully occupied, and you will, therefore, not be surprised to learn that I have not made any ventures into the literary field nor any journeyings into that field wherein so many of my distinguished brothers-in-law are to be found—politics.

"Last summer I had a very interesting trip to Halifax, N. S., and Cape Breton, but since it was primarily on business, I will not trouble you with its details. I will, however, say that if you want a beautiful place to go to in the summer, take a sail up the Strait of Canso; visit the Bras d'Or, where you may see Prof. Graham Bell's Floating Palace, and if you are fond of curious Sunday experiences, go to the Gallic service at Hastings.

"My address is still Arlington."

JAMES ANDERSON WRIGHT.

(New York, April 28.)—"Since the last Class Report, in 1885, my residence and occupation have been unchanged. I live in New York, and am a member of the firm of Peter Wright & Sons, shipping and commission merchants, and general agents of the Inman and Red Star lines of steamships.

"On May 2, 1888, I was married in Washington, D. C., to Katharine Louise Davis, daughter of Rear-Admiral and Mrs. John Lee Davis. The following six months were spent in traveling in Europe. On October 30, 1889, at New York, a daughter was born and named Katharine Louise.

"I am a member of the University, Harvard and Rockaway Hunting Clubs, of New York.

"My business address is 6 Bowling Green, and my residence 137 West 12th Street.

NON-GRADUATE MEMBERS.

[The record of non-graduate members is incomplete. Those only are included who have answered the circulars sent; and the Report will be sent only to those who have taken the trouble to contribute to it, or to the Class Fund].

FRANCIS WILLARD ADAMS.

(Boston, April 2.)—"I am at present practicing law in Boston. During the past five years my office has been in the Hemenway Building. I was married on the 5th day of October, 1885, at Emmanuel Church, in this city, to Mary Elizabeth Morse, of Boston. My daughter died on the day of her birth, March 10, 1887, and my wife died March 31, 1887. I have written nothing of importance, have taken no degree, nor have I taken any very 'extensive or interesting trips'."

EDWARD ALDOUS ARNOLD.*

Edmund Aldous Arnold was of the Aldous (representative) branch of the Arnolds of Lowestoffe, Suffolk, England. He was born at Yonkers, N.Y., March 17, 1857. After his second year in Harvard, he was induced to invest in an orange grove in Florida. While there he determined to study medicine. Subsequently graduated at the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, and commenced practice in New York. With bright prospects before him, he was cut off suddenly by a congestive chill, in June, 1885, being found dead in his bath-room, which two hours before he had entered in perfect health. Feeling a little run down, he had determined, by way of bracing up, to take a cold bath before breakfast. The post mortem revealed the cause of death, all the organs being found otherwise in a perfectly healthy condition. He was one of the early members of the Calumet Club, in New York.

HERBERT PORTER BISSELL.

(Buffalo, N. Y., June 5.)—"Replying to your circular, I beg leave to report that I have resided at Buffalo ever since graduation, and am now the junior member of the law firm of Bissell, Sicard, Brundage & Bissell. I opened a law office for myself January 1, 1885; became a member of the law firm of Brundage, Weaver &

Bissell July 1, 1886, and of my present firm January 1, 1887. A second daughter, Harriott Amelia Bissell, was born September 3, 1888. I ran for State Senator on the Democratic ticket in 1885, but was defeated at the polls.

"I have been elected to membership in several clubs, as follows: The Buffalo Club, Saturn Club, Buffalo Historical Society, Liedertafel, Orpheus, New York Reform Club, etc. In October, 1886, I was elected a member of the Board of Trustees of De Veaux College, at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., and in 1889 a member of the Board of Trustees of Cary Collegiate Institute, at Oakfield, N. Y. I am also a Vestryman of the Church of the Ascension in Buffalo.

"I have had no experiences that I can recall which would be of any especial interest to the class. My office address is 284 Main Street; my house address, 330 Linwood Avenue."

BENJAMIN SEAVER BLANCHARD.

(Brookline, Mass., April 19.)—"I am still living in Brookline, and practicing my profession.

"I was married on November 30, 1887, in Arlington Street Church, Boston, to Clara Fessenden Barnes, daughter of Charles B. Barnes, of Marlborough Street, Boston, and have one child, Fessenden Seaver Blanchard, born November 7, 1888.

"My address is Davis Avenue, Brookline, Mass."

CLIFFORD BRIGHAM.

(Boston, April 22.)—"Since 1885 I have practiced law in Boston, 10 Tremont Street, and also at Salem, where I have been living.

"I am a member of the Salem Common Council, and one of the local board of Civil Service Examiners."

Unmarried.

NAT MAYNARD BRIGHAM.

(Salt Lake City, May 24.)—"Changed my place of business from Omaha, Nebraska, to Salt Lake City, Utah, in March, 1890.

Am half owner and manager of the Utah Oil Tank Line Company, being associated with Thos. J. Mackintosh, under the firm name of Brigham & Mackintosh. Have other lines in contemplation.

"In 1888 delivered the address at New England dinner, in Omaha, and addressed the Jackson Democratic Club, in Lincoln, Nebraska, during the Cleveland-Harrison campaign.

"Not married.

"Salt Lake City will be my post-office address, though I may be absent from the city much of the time in organization of the oil lines I have in contemplation."

FREDERICK EMERSON CHANDLER.

Has been in Europe since 1883, studying medicine at the Strasburg University.

CHARLES DRIVER.

(Aspen, Colorado, April 23.)—"My present residence is Aspen, Colorado, where I have been for the last five years. I am engaged in the ore business—that is, am a buyer and seller of gold, silver and lead ores; am getting my share of this world's goods and doing nicely.

"November 20, 1886, a baby boy was born to Mrs. Driver and myself, which did not live."

PICKERING DODGE.

(Washington, D. C., April 6.)—"I have gone out of business and am in newspaper work. I have nothing new to tell you, and have been on no journeys.

"Am a Governor and Librarian of the Meridian Club, Treasurer of the Washington Harvard Club, and a member of the Columbia Athletic Club."

Unmarried.

HENRY BANKS FRENCH.

(Philadelphia, ———.)—"Wholesale druggist, 1001, 1003, 1005 Market Street, Philadelphia. Residence, Rosemont, Pa.

"Clayton French, Jr., born September 9, 1884, S. 22d Street, Philadelphia. Augusta Graham French, born June 22d, 1886, Rosemont, Pa. Harry B. French, Jr., born at Rosemont, Pa., November 26, 1887. Bessie Graham French, born April 12, 1889, Rosemont, Pa.

"Member of Bachelors' Barge Club, The Art Club, and Philadelphia Whist Club.

"Address 1001 Market Street, Philadelphia."

THOMAS CARY FRIEDLANDER.

(San Francisco, April 10.)—"Secretary of San Francisco Produce Exchange since January 1, 1886, also since November 20, 1889, Secretary of Pacific Coast Board of Commerce. Compiled Annual Reports of Produce Exchange for 1886, 1887, 1888 and 1889.

"Address as above.

"Member of Harvard Club of San Francisco."

JOSEPH THOMAS GILBERT.

(Old Point Comfort, Va., April 15.)—"In reply to your circular, I will continue my last report by saying that my trip in the West terminated April 3, 1885, when my brother ('80) died at Deming, New Mexico. The following eighteen months I spent most of my time in Milwaukee and Menomonie, Wis., devoting myself to business interests which I was called upon to look after. In December, 1887, I went to Santa Barbara, Cal., remaining there about four months with my parents. Since then, with an occasional short absence, I have been in Milwaukee where my presence was required owing to a lingering illness which caused my mother's death on November 12, 1889. Since the middle of February I have, with my father, visited Hot Springs, N. C.,

Augusta, Ga., and Old Point Comfort, from where I am now writing. During the coming summer I expect to be in Milton, Mass.

"During the past five years I have taken an active interest in the affairs of the Menomonie Pressed Brick Co., of Menomonie, Wis., of which I am still the Secretary and Treasurer. I am Secretary of the Peninsula Lumber Company, and the Surety Lumber and Mining Company, of Milwaukee.

"I am a member of the Milwaukee Club, of Milwaukee, the Minnesota Club, of St. Paul, and the Minneapolis Club, of Minneapolis.

"My address is Milwaukee, Wis."

His father died April 24 at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York.

PATRICK GRANT.

(Boston, April 5.)—"Present occupation and residence, accumulating more gray hairs than dollars in the Stock Brokerage business in Boston. Am unmarried, and have nothing of special interest to report."

GUSTAVUS ARTHUR HILTON.

(Boston, April 6.)—Is practicing law at 50 State Street, Boston. Made a trip to Victoria, over the Canadian Pacific Railroad, in the fall of 1888. Was elected Recording Secretary of the New England Historic Genealogical Society in February last. Is a member of the Puritan and Boston Athletic Clubs, Abstract Club, Massachusetts Reform Club, Tariff Reform League, Bar Association City of Boston.

CLARENCE GRAY JAMES.

(Philadelphia, April 14.)—"Am still living in Philadelphia, and am a member of the firm of The Penn Chemical Works, manufacturing chemists and importers of soda salts. Am a member of the following clubs and societies: Union League, Art, and Girard Clubs—social; the Apollo, Orpheus, Germantown Glee and Young Maennerchor Clubs—musical; Bachelors' Barge and Athletic Club, of the Schuylkill Navy—sporting; Harmony Legion, Republican Invincibles and Young Republicans—political; Veteran Corps First Regiment N. G. P., active honorary member Company A First Regiment, and Pennsylvania Sons of the Revolution—military; Harvard Club of Philadelphia, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Franklin Institute, the Tribe of Ismail and Alumnus of the Episcopal Academy. On the Board of Governors of the Girard Club, the Advisory Committee of the Apollo Club, Delegate to the Schuylkill Navy Board from the Bachelors' Barge Club, Trustee of Company A First Regiment Funds; was formerly Assistant Treasurer of the Company.* Took two trips to Europe; first, left Philadelphia June 9, 1886, and returned September 1; second, July 4, 1888, and back August 25, 1888."

FRANCIS BOWLER KEENE.

(Milwaukee, Wis., May 27.)—"My last letter to you was dated May 31, 1885. I was at that time the manager here of W. C. Wyman & Co, general western agents of the Ohio Central Railroad and Coal Company. The financial entanglements of this corporation led to the concentration of their coal trade in Chicago, and the Milwaukee office was closed on August 1, 1885. One month later I accepted an offer of Coxe Bros. & Co., the Lehigh coal miners, to take charge of their business in Milwaukee, where they have a large distributing dock, and to develop their trade in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota. I continued to be their representative here and to make occasional extended trips over the territory as far west as the Missouri until February 1, 1887. Being very much exhausted by over-work and anxiety, I decided to spend a few months in Europe. On February 26, 1887, I sailed from New York for Liverpool on the Cunard steamer Etruria. After a week in London I went to Paris, to be with friends from home. I remained there some weeks and then went to Scotland, where I spent a fortnight as the guest of a friend, Mr. George Mitchell, at his country place near Fyvie, Aberdeenshire. Two weeks of hunting and tennis, with several hours a day in the saddle, and long hours of sleep, did more for my jaded frame than anything since I had left home. After leaving Scotland I went direct to London. There, with the exception of some short visits to Devonshire and Somersetshire, where my ancestors lived as far back as St. Dunstan's time, I remained until August, during one of the most brilliant seasons the great city has ever seen. The Jubilee brought a throng of distinguished people from all parts of the world, and every day brought something to interest and instruct. I made several coaching and pony-cart trips into the lovely Surrey country during the time when everything was in bloom, and, of course, visited all the points of interest in the environs of London. In August I again went to Scotland and passed another fortnight very pleasantly in Aberdeenshire. A trip to Switzerland had been planned, but it was necessary to leave for home before I could accomplish it. I sailed from Southampton September 1, on the North German Lloyd ship Ems. I went home via Cape Cod and Cambridge.

*The Sweet Singer of Ismail of the Tribe of Ismail.

"Until February 1, 1889, I was not in the harness of regular business. Having already dabbled in newspaper scribbling, I was persuaded to accept the position of dramatic editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel, our largest daily paper. Soon afterwards I took charge of the literary department also. On July 1 I was induced to accept the business management of the Luening Conservatory of Music (a young but already large institution), a position which I still hold. The rapid growth of this new charge soon occupied so much of my time that I was forced to give up my literary editorship, though I am still dramatic critic, and a dreaded one.

"During this summer I shall spend two months abroad on a combined business and pleasure trip. Most of the time I shall be in England, though I have planned a pilgrimage to Oberammergau.

"I am still unmarried. Am a member of the Milwaukee Club, the Milwaukee Press Club, and several minor social and literary clubs. My address is still 294 Greenbush Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

ANTON LEISTER.

(Brunswick, O., May 6.)—"As I have given no account of myself thus far to the class of '79 I will write ab ovis usque ad mala. I left college the first time on account of sickness, in the middle of the Freshman year. Returned in April, 1877, and in October joined the class of '80 as Sophomore. After one year of fairly successful work, was again compelled to leave college in November, 1878, never to return, as it proved.

"I came home dyspeptic and asthenic in body and mind. With a ravenous appetite for food there was no power to get strength from the same; and with an uncontrollable desire to work and study, there was no ability for mental application or for labor of any kind. In the hope of yet returning to Cambridge, I dabbled with books more or less for three or four years, doing farm work for recreation and health, though in a desultory and unprofitable way. I studied books on hygiene, gymnastics, etc., and practiced what I read. During the summer of 1881 made a successful attempt at solving many of the, to me, hitherto inscrutable difficulties involved in the first principles upon which is based the theory of differential calculus. Some of the results of those studies are written out, and I hope some time to further pursue those investigations. During this summer I also first began to wear sandals and a shirt made after the fashion of the base-ball player's, and to sleep out of doors. It became a public secret that 'he is half crazy anyhow,' as it was expressed by one young lady, who later found good reason for regrets, and saying 'I admire him so much.'

"From November, 1883, to September, 1885, I was practically a dead man, so far as the rest of the world was concerned. From general physical prostration, neuralgia, dyspepsia and mental discouragement, I gave up the struggle altogether, expecting never again to be of account or use to the world. For two years I remained in a ten-by-ten room day and night, summer and winter, neither expecting nor desiring to leave it alive. I loathed books, seldom spoke to any one except my mother, read papers, reflected on the past, concealed the present mental anguish and physical pain from every one.

"By insensible degrees things took a turn. I began to feel an interest in matters again. Studied out and made the drawings for an improvement in the draft of a harvester made in Akron, Ohio. Did not send the improvement to the makers of the machine, and six months later it was invented and introduced by another, and is still in use on all Buckeye down binders. From the range table under 'Gunnery' in Encyclopædia Brittanica calculated a range table for my brother's rifle, which later proved correct within a reasonable limit of accuracy. Began to work making ax helves. Still feared books and expected never to use them again. At the age of 35 began life again at just the point where I began twenty years before, but with this difference, that then I had more physical strength, could earn better wages, and did not feel my poverty. During summer of 1886 painted, dug cisterns, did farm work of all kinds, but was not very strong. Studied books on hygiene, and made experiments of hygienic nature. During the following winter lived and slept alone in an old shop, making ax helves and cutting stove-wood for fifty cents a cord for a living. On cold mornings it was nothing unusual to awake and find beard and blankets stiff with ice from frozen breath.

"In 1887, worked for my father for six months as farm laborer. He and I had had trouble the year before, so that I left home. The fact that my mother was there, was the only thing that kept me from leaving the country, too. During this summer I began to lean toward books and pen again. Planned to teach school during the coming winter, but the lingering sickness of my brother from sunstroke put an end to that plan. The work as farm drudge at $16 per month, under another man's curatorship, did not suit my tastes and I took a new tack. During the winter my brother married, and asked me to live with him. We made a bargain that should give me control of some of my time for study, etc., but from various reasons, dissatisfaction arose, and in April, 1888, I left.

"I then tried the last and desperate measure. I rented a house, moved all my traps and myself into it, and from that day to this

> 'Not the Mogul, or Czar of Muscovy,
> Not Prester John, or Cham of Tartary,
> Are in their houses monarchs more than I.'

"At first I was poor as a church mouse, my living dependent on my day's earnings. My rule and principle became this: There are two ways to become content; first, be rich and satisfy every want as it arises; secondly, suppress snd restrict all desires which are beyond your means to gratify. The poverty which at first seemed a hardship has become a blessing. More than one has said: 'You are rich.' I wear plain clothes, eat plain fare, try to do a certain amount of mental work with the necessary physical, attend to gymnastics and hygiene, and for the rest, 'let the wide world wag as it will,' well knowing that if only I have good health, and work for body and mind, and the desire to perform it, I have the greatest wealth earth can afford any man. Following this rule I have worked hard at times when I had no work, splitting wood for no pay but my board, just to keep myself in fighting trim against the time when work should come. Likewise, last summer, during several months of no work, I walked and ran from 8 to 15 miles every day for similar hygienic and economic reasons, and it paid, too. My first job after that was corn-cutting, and in three days I cut 9¼ acres, and made $10.10. The usual stint for a fair cutter is 1 to 1¼ acres per day at $1 00 per acre.

"During June, 1888, sheared sheep. In the summer I do farm work; in winter make ax helves. During the past winter I studied this trade until I could make nine good helves in three hours, where before the same work took me three times as long.

"During the last two years I have practiced on the violin, and studied the history of the instrument some. If time and strength hold out, I hope to write something on 'learning to bow—from the mechanical and anatomical point of departure.'

"Last summer my mother was taken ill, and after a long sickness, died on January 21, 1890. The circumstances of her life during the last few years, and of her final sickness, were such as happily do not often occur in civilized communities, and then only when, as in this case, those who have the care of an aged person, and who should foster and cherish the last years of an aged parent, only long for the coming of death to relieve them of the unwelcome burden. Since her death I feel alone, indeed.

"In regard to my manner of living I would further say that I get my dinner at a neighboring house, and for breakfast and supper I depend upon 'hard-tack' and fruits, especially apples. 'Hard-tack' is an invention of my own, made of graham flour stirred with milk (nothing else) and baked. It is good stuff to ridicule, and—to give a man the strength of a horse. Only recently, on a breakfast of ½ pound of this 'Pumpernickel' and one apple, I pitched on wagon 21 loads of manure in five hours—40 loads for the day. The man who hired me said 25 or 30 loads was the work of a good pitcher, and he raised my wages. Last Saturday I split and piled a cord of average splitting wood in 45 minutes, for half a day. The usual average on whole day's work is a cord in 1½ to 2 hours.

"Since last fall I am a disciple of the Jaeger system—'All wool all the year round.' IT PAYS. Try it, classmates. Send for circular or book of essays to Doctor Jaeger's Sanitary Woolen System Company, 827 and 829 Broadway, New York.

"Nights I sleep with windows all open; and a strong wind blowing over my bed is nothing unusual or dreaded, even if it is cold and foggy as this morning. Of course I cover, and do not allow myself to get chilled. I drink nothing stronger than milk or soft water; eat not over 15 pounds of meat per year; wear sandals in summer, shoes of my own designing in winter; adapt my clothing to the season and climate at all times; cut my hair once a year or less, my beard not at all. Am noted hereabouts for my erect walk ('Roman walk' one old Frenchman calls it) and my 'hot temper.' The following are some of the pet names by which I am known: 'Dutch Fool,' 'Crank,' 'Too Particular,' 'Professor Leister' (by the Frenchman, in answer to those who say D. F.), 'Flying Dutchman,' 'Terror,' 'Works like a horse,' 'As honest a man as treads in Medina County' (confession of an enemy), 'Hard to get along with,' 'Must be a good man' (confession of another man who meanly wronged me), etc., etc.

"My father, sisters, and many others, hate and fear me; my mother thought the world of me, and so do my aunt, uncle, cousins, and a few others.

"Of literary work I have but little to say, though that little be long. In the winter of 1888 I began to write. The titles of the articles published are given below. The articles vary from one-half to four columns in length.

"'Learn German,' Cincinnati Volksfreund (German article). Daily, January 16; weekly, January 18, 1888. Signature, 'Germanus.' Also in translation, in Medina Gazette, February 10, 1888.

"'The Ideal Work-Shop,' American Inventor, Cincinnati, January, 1888.

"'Are the Methods of Instruction in the Public Schools Calculated to Produce Good Citizens?' Criticism of question. Medina Democrat, March 9, 1888.

"'Pruning Grape-Vines.' Medina Gazette, March 22, 1888.

"'Peep Sights,' Shooting and Fishing, August 16, 1888, Boston.

"'Springing of Rifle Barrels,' Chicago, American Field, December 25, 1886. Signature, 'Small Bore.'

"'Cross Shots,' same, February 12, 1887. Signature, 'Small Bore.'

"'Camping Out,' same, September 24, 1887.

"'Rifle Questions,' same, February 18, 1888. Signature, 'Small Bore.'

"'The Influence of Sportsmanship on National Character and Progress,' same, March 9, 1889.

"'Cheap Living.' Giving some personal experiences. New York Weekly Witness, January 30, 1889. This article was quoted in New York Tribune, of March 20, 1889, and brought an invitation from editor to contribute direct to columns of the Tribune. My hint to him that writing for glory only will put no butter on my bread, and that consequently I am willing to condescend to accept lucre for my writings, was treated with respectful but ominous silence. This article also brought an invitation from the President of the Vegetarian Society of America to join that organization.

"'Unbolted Flour.' New York Witness, April 3, 1889. Giving method of making the 'Hardtack' (improved since then) which is the mainstay of my thrift and powers to do hard work with small expense.

"'Questions on Boildieu's Overture, "Caliph of Bagdad",' Boston Leader, January or February, 1889.

"Local correspondence for Medina Gazette (heading, 'Abbeyville') during three months in spring of 1888. Signature, 'Krank De Krabbeville.'

"Local correspondence for same, in March and April, 1890. Signature, 'Rufus Censor.'

"'Road Improvement.' Medina Sentinel (supplement), March 27, 1890. A three-column caustic reply to the brilliant $2,000-a-mile-improved-road schemes, published in the Medina Gazette.

"'Obituary' of Mrs. Anna C. Leister, Medina Gazette, January 30, 1890. A limited number of copies at disposal yet. This obituary and articles of 'Rufus Censor' severely criticised in Gazette, April 4, 1890, and door of Gazette slammed in my face for evermore.

"'A Chicken Story, Chapter II.' Ohio Farmer, March 8, 1890. A scathing reply to the visionary, 'An Interesting Chicken Story,' in same, February 1, 1890.

"The following articles were refused, or are not yet submitted to editorial censorship:

"'Is Woman Advancing?' A reply to Julia Ward Howe's answer to this question, in Cleveland Leader and Herald, of November 23, 1889, showing the inconsistency and absurdity of her theory, and defending the 'Ancient Mythus' of the Fall.

"'What Am I Reading?' Sent to Alden, New York, March, 1888. Returned.

"'Mental Explosions—A Criticism,' of certain views in regard to 'Responsibility in Mental Disease,' put forth by Doctor Hudson and editor Greene, in the Medina Gazette, on occasion of the suicide of the criminal Lotman. Not finished in time.

"'The Ingersoll-Gladstone Controversy.' Written from review of the same in Medina Gazette, without access to original papers in North American Review, and pronounced worthy by Doctor Sage, even in its incomplete form, of a place in the North American Review. Doctor Sage was once leader of the Universalists, and a contributor to North American Review, against Ingersoll, on 'Biblical Inspiration.' MS. 'returned for lack of space.'

"'A Pair of Twins—Does "a pair of twins" mean two or four persons?' An exhaustive discussion, historical, logical and grammatical, of the above questions, with opinions of Professors of English Literature of Harvard, Yale, Baldwin University, and Ohio State Agricultural College, written on occasion of a local warfare in regard to the point in dispute. Returned by Medina Gazette. 'Too long.'

"'The Mills-Otis Mill.' A scathing criticism, with challenge to 'Plover' (John Wise, of New York) to try conclusions with me on the manner in which this famous case was managed by the American Field in its columns for three months, beginning with December, 1889. Never published by Field, and refused to return MS.

"'Does Hygiene Pay for Farmers?' Sent to New York Times in December, 1889. Lost while in care of editor.

"'Walking as a Means of Restoring and Preserving Health.' An eight-column essay, treating the subject from the historical, physiological and experimental stand-points; also gives the only rigorous analysis of the mechanical movements involved in the act of walking ever put in print so far as I know. Sent to Good Health Publishing Company, Battle Creek, Mich., and refused. 'Too long.'

"'Physiology in Common Schools.' The same in German.

"A review (in German) of Doctor Gustav Jaeger's 'Theory of Health and Disease,' with special reference to directing the attention of the less educated to it, and encouraging the adoption and use of the 'all-wool' system.

"'Does the Twentieth Century Begin in 1900 or in 1901?' An eight-column criticism and discussion of this famous question, with special view of making it clear to the unlearned why so much noise and dust has been made about this, and yet so little result. Prof. Hart (Harvard, '80) has kindly consented to read this before it is sent to the editors.

"A defense of the Obituary, and of 'Rufus Censor,' in reply to the critics in 'A Correction,' in Medina Gazette, April 4, 1890.

"'Ein Winternachts Traum.' A poem of thirty-five stanzas, on the birthday anniversary of an aunt, written in three and a half hours, March, 1890. Personæ: A 'wise' man and a 'fool.' Argument: The 'wise' man, from experience, knows all mankind to be untrustworthy and deceitful. The 'fool,' on the other hand, shows what mother's love has done for mankind; that it is unselfish and true, and that one-half of humankind are a 'mother-race.'

"'Machinery vs. the Poor Man.' A ten-column article reviewing the arguments of President Chamberlain of Iowa Agricultural College, the editor and others, who, during August and September, 1889, argued in the columns of the Ohio Farmer that the 'unrestricted multiplication of labor-saving machinery is an absolute blessing to the poor man.' The position taken is that the arguments of the defenders of machinery were mostly self-contradictory and worthless. The MS. was 'accepted,' but returned for condensation, with the note, 'one who can so clearly and forcibly express his views, ought to write on current topics of public interest.' Before the condensation was completed, my mother's sickness prevented further attention to it.

"The above list comprises most of my pen-work, during the last three years, although I have in addition planned and in part thought out some ideas on practical hygiene, and other subjects

"The only office I ever held in my life is that of—Road Supervisor, since April 12, 1890. I was elected to this office in consequence of my decided reform views in regard to road matters, as expressed in the article on 'Road Improvement' above mentioned. In less than a week after election I was threatened in private with 'Knock your Dutch head off,' and 'Prosecute you,' and in less than three weeks was attacked in print: all because I would not allow any one to steal road-tax—draw pay for time spent in idleness—as they had been used to doing, and for other reasons. It is understood that it will be a tooth-and-nail fight between the Supervisor and the shirks. I feel well satisfied with results thus far. One editor, who, after publicly saying that my communications would no longer be accepted, and then trying to hold me up to ridicule by representing that I was elected Supervisor to 'honor Yale, from which he is a graduate,' was met by a proposition that I will argue, in speech or print, that, with exception of the School Director's office, the Supervisor's office is one of more honor and more responsibility than any other in the gift of the people, the decision of the question to be left to three competent men and to the public. I propose to open some people's eyes as to the real nature of an office that requires an oath to support the Constitution of the United States and the laws of Ohio, even if that office is supposed to be too mean and contemptible for a dog to hold. One man summed it up by saying: 'I guess they caught a Tartar when they put you in as Supervisor.'

"I am in the midst of house-cleaning now. Sundays I regularly visit an uncle five miles distant, sing, and play the violin with organ accompaniment by a cousin. I am trying to get a job on the Pittsburg, Akron & Western Railroad that is now building through Medina. My main misery is that I am not within easy distance of Harvard library, as I often want to refer to books which I can neither buy, borrow nor steal in this country.

"I wish that those of my former classmates who are poor and discouraged (if there be any such) could, with little effort, learn all that about dress, food, sleep and hygiene in general, physical and moral, which it has taken me a score of years to learn. A great part of man's discontent and trouble comes from the artificial, unnatural, absurd ideas and desires in regard to what is necessary for comfort or respectability. Get the ideas corrected and much of the trouble drops off. I wish that the others of my classmates who are not pressed by want of means, could learn to live according to those laws of physical and mental hygiene which, if obeyed, will bring physical and mental health and strength, and will make work comparatively a pleasure, and life a thing to be thankful for."

[There has been no account received in regard to which I have been more perplexed what to print, and what not, than this. It is very long, but is very interesting. It seems unfair to print it in full, yet it is the author's expressed wish, and in cutting it down I found that I had so spoiled it that I have at last decided to print the whole, exactly as written, on its own responsibility. F. A.]

EDWARD LELAND MORSE.

(Chicago, May 1.)—"After my wife died in 1885 I didn't care much where I went or what I did. I was offered a position as teacher of a school in Clifton, Arizona. The place seemed to be far enough away and I engaged myself. It was on a railroad and had about 1,000 inhabitants, who mined copper. This was all I could learn before leaving Chicago. Consequently when I finally set foot in the town I had to use my eyes and ears. I should never have known we had reached our destination had not everybody got out of the train. I followed suit and began looking for the town. I could see no town that answered my idea of a town, but the brakeman said it was Clifton and I looked again. Behind us was a sheer cliff of about two hundred feet, at the foot of which lay the smelters, in front the river, in the background mountains, on the right mountains, and at their base a row of adobe buildings which I afterwards found constituted Clifton. I made myself known to Colonel Jones, with whom I had made the contract to teach. He put on his hat and took me around. I was introduced to innumerable colonels, judges, majors, captains and sergeants, but no privates. Every man wore a white sombrero, woolen shirt and a six-shooter. I asked to see the school. Colonel Jones went to Colonel Russell and got the key—a big brass key, such as they had in Stoughton in '77. The building was about twenty by thirty feet, of adobe, one story, and provided with a stove, some wooden (hand-made) desks and a bell; that was all. Not a map, globe, chart, kindergarten table or reference book, but there were the floor, the walls and two little windows, and, I forgot, a rickety table for the teacher. There was a lump of chalk, too, I believe, but no blackboard. Some one had used it to build a fire. Possibly the former teacher, not knowing what it was made for I suppose. I felt a little cast down, but thought I would wait until I saw the 'kids.' They came next day. The sight of them did not revive my already drooping spirits. Only about one-third of them could speak English. The rest spoke a kind of Spanish, which would have made our friend Nash lift up his hands. It was very evident the children needed teaching. I set to work at them and at my Spanish dictionary. After a while I taught them to sing a few songs by rote, but didn't dare to introduce the staff. Drawing I argued for in vain, the directors couldn't see the good of it. For objects in arithmetic work we went down to the river for chips, but I had to go slow, for the people were distrustful of the new Chicago teacher. At times when I looked at my ragged, needy, motley flock I thought of Pestalozzi and his flock, but I am afraid the resemblance was confined to the flocks only.

"In the meantime I had been studying up the town while it was studying up me. The first night I spent in the place I bought a slouch hat and a woolen shirt, in which I ever after appeared in public, except, I believe, on one Christmas eve, when a few of us assumed a 'biled' shirt. I had some little difficulty in choosing a boarding place. There were two hotels, one kept by Henry Hill and one kept by 'Jake.' Henry's was the best, Colonel Jones told me, and I thought I would go there, but I didn't like the rooms. They were about ten by twelve, and simply wooden partitions ten feet high, open at the top. This didn't suit my fastidious eastern notions. You could hear and be heard too distinctly, and, on the other hand, what was a half-inch board if, as occasionally might happen, some hilarious cow-boy should turn his forty-five caliber loose in the building? On the other hand, Jake lodged all the gamblers in the town. But I thought I'd try Jake anyway. Jake's house was built of adobe, the walls were all at least two feet thick, the rooms were always cool. An adobe house is the house for that climate. But an adobe wall has an irresistible attraction for centipedes, tarantulas and scorpions, which, with the gamblers, made me hesitate. But I chose Jake. We always shook our boots in the morning, no telling whether a tarantula was in there. We used to sit away from the walls on the front porch, and when the wind shook the lambrequins in the dining-room every man rose to his feet and kept a sharp eye for dropping scorpions. It was etiquette to shake a chair before sitting in it, to turn down the blankets before going to bed, and when you heard a dull rustling sound like dried peas in a pod or dead leaves in a tin-can, not to turn round to see how big the snake was, but to run for dear life. The gamblers I found to be very agreeable gentlemanly sort of chaps, who never meddled with any one's business, but you were not expected to inquire of a gambler if the name he went by was his true name, nor why he left Texas. After showing my credentials to Colonel Jones, I was never questioned by a soul as to my previous history, and I instinctively returned the compliment. A man may volunteer the information that he did not come to the Mogollon Mountains for his health; beyond that it was not considered in good form to inquire. Well, I spent a year in that country and came away with my scalp and an unpunctured hide, but it was my fortune to be in Stein's Pass going west while Geronimo, the Apache Chief, was half a mile on the other side of the mountain going east; hence I am writing this biography. Geronimo and Crook were playing hide-and-seek in those days. Since my return to civilization I have been teaching a grammar school, a quiet, easy occupation, with much leisure time, which I use for reading. The chief drawback in teaching in the public schools in the West is, that you are forced to associate more or less with a lot of half-educated cranks. Have written a little for educational journals; have joined no societies; am single.

"Edward L. Morse, Principal Sheridan School, South Chicago, Ill."

GEORGE OSGOOD.

(Kensington, N. H., May 11.)—"This report finds me still living, as I have been doing since the fall of 1877, with my uncle, Rev. George Osgood, in Kensington, N. H., and with my time taken up with the usual routine of farm work. Farming first entered upon to regain my health, bids fair now to be my main pursuit during life. I enjoy my life here very much, though it must be a far less exciting and probably intellectual one than that which most of the class of '79 are following.

"I am not married, and the other questions in your circular as to literary work, college degrees and interesting journeys do not affect me personally."

SAMUEL KLEIGHTON LEWIS.

(East Las Vegas, N. M., April 24.)—"In response to your inquiry, I desire to say: My present occupation is the Jewish ministry, and my residence is still Las Vegas, N. M.

"In consequence of ill health, I gave up the practice of law and entered the church.

"I attended the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, O., and after completing a course of theological studies, was called to officiate at Woodville, Miss., where I remained till about three months ago, when I resigned my position, and returned to visit my relatives at Las Vegas, N. M., where I now reside temporarily."

JONAS MICHAEL MILES.

(Boston, April 7.)—"I continued 'in the law' at 23 Court Street, until July 1, 1889, when I entered into the business of general music dealers, publishers and importers (our firm is Miles & Thompson), at 13 West Street, Boston. I still live at Brookline."

JOHN SINGLETON MITCHELL.

(Boston, June 2.)—"I do not know that I can give any extensive account concerning my doings, etc., for the past four years. Suffice it to say that I have been zealously attending to the duties of my chosen profession (medicine), and have had little time to bestow in other directions.

"I have not as yet entered into the matrimonial state, and as for events of a public character, I can only say that I am a member of the Boston Young Men's Republican Club."

CHARLES LAWRENCE PERKINS.

(New York, April 2.)—"Present occupation and residence: merchant in iron and steel, represents Messrs. Bolckow, Vaughan & Co., Middlesborough-on-Tees, England. Office, Cotton Exchange Building, New York City; house, 47 West 11th Street.

"John Lawrence Perkins, born December 1, 1886, in New York City.

"Governor in the Racquet and Whist Clubs, member of the Union Club, Harvard Club, The Players.

"Have been twice in England and France since 1885, both times on business.

WILLIAM CARROLL PRICE.

(Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 3.)—"I am still practicing law in the city of Wilkesbarre, Pa. Have not yet married. Am Major of the 9th Regiment of the National Guard of Pennsylvania; a member of the Westmoreland Club, Board of Trade and other local organizations.

"My literary activity and authorship is confined almost entirely to acquiring and briefing the principles of law and decisions of the courts."

JULIAN WAINWRIGHT ROBBINS.

(New York, April 2.)—"Entered the banking house of George Leask & Co. as junior partner, January 1, 1886, at the location where we still remain, 35 Wall Street, New York.

"Married April 24, 1889, at New York, to Sarah Guthrie Jewett, daughter of Hugh J. Jewett and of Sarah Guthrie Jewett, of Landsdowne, Harford County, Maryland.

"Clubs—Union and Calumet."

EDWARD ALLEN SAWYER.

(Gardner, Mass., April 14.)—"My occupation and residence remain unchanged. A son was born July 28, 1887, who died February 15, 1889. Am a member of the School Board, and Board of Health of this town; also one of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health. Was appointed by Governor Ames in March, 1889, Medical Examiner for the Second Worcester District. Received my A.M. from Amherst College, June, 1886.

JOHN CORNELIUS SHEA.

(Omaha, Neb., May 20.)—"I left Washington in July, 1885, and came to Omaha, Neb., where I entered at once into the active practice of the law. I was appointed a Justice of the Peace in a short time and afterwards was elected to the same office. I resigned the office of Justice to accept that of First Assistant County Attorney, which position I now hold. I have a large and lucrative practice and it is steadily growing. I formed a partnership in November, 1889, with the Hon. M. V. Gannon, formerly the District Attorney at Davenport, Iowa, and also with Hon. D. Donovan, Ex-Assistant U. S. District Attorney for Iowa. We are doing a splendid business. I am constantly engaged in giving lectures on educational topics. Since leaving Washington I have had two children born in my family, namely, Dion Shea, born in Omaha, Neb., on January 6, 1886, and Edwin Shea, born in the same place on April 11, 1890."

EDWIN DAY SIBLEY.

(Boston, April 9.)—"Member of the Suffolk Bar. Residence, 39 Laurel Street, Somerville, Mass.

"Married October 29, 1886, at Boston, Mass., to Ellen Maria Ayers, of Boston, daughter of Oliver and Mary E. Ayers.

"Children, Edwin Ayers Sibley, born in Somerville, Mass., November 7, 1887, and Eleanor Hooper Sibley, born in Somerville, Mass., July 15, 1889.

"Am S. W. in King Solomon Lodge F. and A. M.

"Address, 23 Court Street, Boston."

GEORGE WILKINSON STORM.

(Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 8.)—"Since last writing you, my life has been a very quiet one, and devoted entirely to my business interests—manufacturing hardware specialties.

"Have had one child born since last report, Gretta Adriance Storm, born September 13, 1885."

JOHN HENRY TAFF.

(Boston, April 27.)—"As I am quite busy, have only time to give you an outline of what I have done since leaving college. After traveling South and West, returned and entered Harvard Law School, '82. Was admitted to Suffolk Bar in spring of 1883. Was married August 20, 1884, started in practice for myself September 9, 1884, at 39 Court Street, Boston. Removed to present offices [34 School Street] October 20, 1889, and have been mainly occupied with practice of law in office and courts.

"My wife's maiden name: Sarah Jane Welch, of Boston, school teacher. Had daughter born January 24, 1887, name Helen Agnes Taff, at Waltham, Mass. I still continue to reside at 25 Charles Street, Waltham, where I have lived since September, 1884."

WILLIAM FITZGERALD TOWNE.

(Philadelphia, April 29.)—General agent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, at 112 South Fourth Street, Philadelphia.

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON WATSON.

(Utica, N. Y., April 12.)—"For the last five years I have been in the real estate business in Utica. I am still engaged in it. I was married October 12, 1887, to Alice Grain Parkinson, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., at Jamaica Plain. I was in Europe for three months with my wife in the summer of 1889."

CHARLES GODDARD WELD.

(Boston, April 10.)—"Since your last Class Report I have spent a portion of my time traveling. I have now settled down in Boston, and my address is 81 Mason Building.

"I am not married."

JOHN HOWARD WILLARD.

(Lexington, Mass., April 27.)—"I take pleasure in announcing the birth of a daughter, Edith Willard, born June 13, 1885, which is the most interesting event that has occurred to me since I last wrote. My occupation is the same as before, and residence likewise. Am a member of a gun club, and whist club."

OTHO HOLLAND WILLIAMS.

Is at present in Europe. Is still unmarried, and living in Baltimore.

MARRIAGE AND BIRTH RECORD.

Aldrich	Julia Ross	St. Johnsbury, Vt., December 5, 1888.
Amen	Mary Browne Rawson	Whitinsville, Mass., April 5, 1882.
	Margaret Rawson	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 23, 1884.
	Elizabeth Wheeler	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 9, 1885.
	Rachel Perne	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1887.
Anthony	Alice Goodhue Safford	Cambridge, Mass , November 12, 1879.
	Charles Pike	Cambridge, Mass., August 31, 1880.
Ayers	Charlotte Elizabeth Carder	Malden, Mass., January 7, 1885.
	David	Malden, Mass., July 3, 1888.
Bacon	Leverene Evans Mattis	Cambridge, Mass., May 29, 1888.
Baily	Francis Emerson	Nashua, N. H., December 31, 1885.
Barlow	Virginia Louise Matthews	Paris, France, May 6, 1886.
	Edward Matthews	New York, N. Y., May 12, 1888.
Baylies	Louisa Van Rensselaer	New York, N. Y., January 18, 1887.
Bennett	Amy Reeder Thomas	Brookline, Mass., September 9, 1885.
	Edmund Neville	Brookline, Mass., August 31, 1887.
	Samuel Crocker, Jr	Brookline, Mass., March 18, 1890.
Binney	Julia Briggs	Boston, Mass., May 5, 1885.
Black	Emma Louisa Panton	New York, N. Y., August 18, 1883.
Brooks	Louisa Darling Griswold	Greenfield, Mass., June 6, 1889.
Burlingham	Louisa Weed Lawrence	New York, N. Y., September 29, 1883.
	Charles	New York, N. Y., June 8, 1884.
Burr	Alice McClure Peters	Jamaica Plain, Mass., October 12, 1882.
	Isaac Tucker, 3d	Boston, Mass., March 22, 1885.
	Barbara	Boston, Mass., November 1, 1886.
Burrill, G. H.	Fanny Curtis	Canaan, N. Y., June 1, 1887.
	Katharine	New Lebanon, N. Y., February 11, 1890.
Burrill, M. S	Emilie Neilson	New York, N. Y., November 17, 1885.
	Marie Louise	New York, N. Y., November 6, 1886.
Butler, H	Julia Payson Ives	Portland, Me , May 29, 1890.
Carey	Agnes Whiteside	Cambridge, Mass., October 15, 1889
Clapp	Mary Lizzie Saunders	Cambridge, Mass., October 28, 1886.
	Harold Franklin [d. Feb. 9, 1888]	Cambridge, Mass., February 8, 1888.
Cobb	Edith Helen Persons	Milwaukee , Wis., September 18, 1882.
	Edmond Persons	Chicago, Ill., August 2, 1883.
Conant	Mary Andrews Bennett	Boston, Mass., November 12, 1884.
Cook	Bertha Kummer	Dresden, Germany, February 22, 1883.
Coolidge, J. T	Catharine Scollay Parkman	Boston, Mass., September 16, 1879.
	Mary	Paris, France, May 23, 1881.
	Katharine Parkman	Paris, France, January 5, 1883.
	Louisa Riché	Portsmouth, N. H., August 19, 1886.
	John Templeman, 4th	Boston, Mass., December 27, 1888.
Coolidge, W. W	Helen Whittington Mills	Boston, Mass., November 13, 1883.

Cowdin	Gertrude Cheever	New York, N. Y., June 20, 1885.
Crawford	Genevieve Buckland	New York, N. Y., December 17, 1885.
	Lesley Buckland	New York, N. Y., February 18, 1887.
	Constance	New York, N. Y., January 9, 1889
	Dorothy	New York, N. Y., April 1, 1890.
Crocker	Charlotte Trowbridge Bartow	Fitchburg, Mass., October 14, 1880.
	Alvah, Jr.	Fitchburg, Mass., April 3, 1882.
Crosman	Sarah Elizabeth Fuller	Lynn, Mass., September 1, 1885.
	Marion Fuller	Haverford College, Pa., Oct. 29, 1887
Curtis	Ruth Wetherbee Davison	New York, N. Y., February 21, 1887.
	Francis Shaw	Newton Centre, Mass., June 10, 1888.
	Margaret Burrill	Newton Centre, Mass., April 27, 1890.
Cushing	Ada Thomas	Brookline, Mass., October 18, 1882.
Dalzell	Helen Learoyd Stearns	Waltham, Mass., April 7, 1886.
	Dorothy	Cambridge, Mass., June 28, 1887.
Daniels	Minnie Bigelow Gay	Newton, Mass , May 11, 1887
Donaldson	Nannie Beirne Macfarland	Richmond, Va., April 21, 1880.
	Francis, 3d	Baltimore, Md., August 11, 1881.
	William Macfarland	Baltimore, Md., March, 1887.
Dow	Vanie Buck Robinson	Woburn, Mass., January 1, 1883.
	Ethel Robinson	Andover, N. H., August 4, 1884.
	Roland Beeman	Woburn, Mass., February 12, 1889.
Dunn	Riella Juliana Bullard	Grafton, Mass., June 28, 1883.
	Helen De Maurice	Marlboro, Mass., April 2, 1884.
Edmands	Lydia Caroline Benton	Brookline, Mass., May 22, 1883.
	Violet	Brookline, Mass., October 22, 1884.
Ellis, F. H.	Eva Lewis	Framingham, Mass., June 21, 1888.
Ellis, R. W.	Katharine Allyn Rice	Springfield, Mass., April 13, 1882.
Evans [d. Mar. 28, 1886]	Elizabeth Gardiner	Boston, Mass., May 18, 1882.
	Theodore Waterbury	Springfield, Mass., September 2, 1887.
Faunce	Mabel Winthrop Mange	Kingston, Mass , October 21, 1884.
	Alice Cushing	Mansfield, Pa., June 2, 1888.
Felton	Alice Bent	Steelton, Pa., June 2, 1884.
	Margaret	Steelton, Pa., July 15, 1885.
	Eleanor	Steelton, Pa , January 29, 1887.
	Samuel Morse	Steelton, Pa , June 12, 1889
Goddard	Annie Reboul Larocque	New York, N. Y., May 8, 1890.
Hale	Emily Jose Milliken	Boston, Mass., June 19, 1889.
Hanks	Clarina Bartow Shumway	Faribault, Minn., May 16, 1888.
	Stedman Shumway	Manchester, Mass., July 17, 1889.
Harding	Annie Amelia Jenckes	Stamford, Conn., January 9, 1884.
	Louis Branch, Jr.	Stamford, Conn., June 27, 1885.
	Lawrence Jenckes	Stamford, Conn., September 21. 1889.
Heard	Hope Glenn	London, Eng., May 16, 1889.
Hill, S. H.	Mary Hill	St. Paul, Minn., September 6, 1888.
	Mary Mendenhall	St. Paul, Minn., July 3, 1889.
Hodgdon	Anna Florence Colburn	Dedham, Mass., July 11, 1888.
	Waldo Colburn	Dedham, Mass., August 14, 1889.
Houghton	May L. Burrill	Medford, Mass., August 16, 1883.
	Alcina Burrill	Rockport, Mass., November 25, 1888.

Houston	Jennie Righter	Newark, N. J., December 28, 1887.
	Francis De Hart	Boston Highlands, Mass., Oct. 20, 1888.
	Harold Kingsland	Boston Highlands, Mass., Oct. 5, 1889.
Hubbard	Susan Campbell Weare	Cedar Rapids, Iowa, October 15, 1884.
	Martha Weare	Chicago, Ill., July 22, 1886.
	Alice Frances	Chicago, Ill., Jan. 20, 1889
Hudson	Bessie Van Mater Keyes	Concord, Mass., August 31, 1880.
Huntington	Mary Blackstone Freeman	New York, N. Y., April 15, 1885.
Hutchins	Carrie Walker Murphy	Boston, Mass., September 20, 1882.
	Mary Stearns	Cambridge, Mass., November 15, 1883.
	Helen Walker	Cambridge, Mass., October 12, 1885.
Hyde	Prudence Melissa Phillips	Washingtonville, N.Y., Nov. 6, 1883.
	William, Elizabeth Beach,	[d. Oct. 24, 1884] Paterson, N. J., October 10, 1884.
Keyes	Alice Reynolds	Concord, Mass, July 6, 1881.
Kidder	Hattie Lois Rice [d. July 12, 1881]	Boston, Mass., February 5, 1880
	Charles Archbald, Jr	Milton, Mass., July 12, 1881.
	Josephine Burnett	Southboro, Mass., October 11, 1888.
Kinney	Selina Elizabeth McIntosh	Springfield, Mass., June 22, 1882
	Marian	Fergus Falls, Minn, May 26, 1883.
	Selina	Sackett's Harbor, N.Y., Mar. 24, 1885.
Lawrence	Alice May Sears	Dorchester, Mass., October 2, 1883.
	Marjorie	Medford, Mass., September 9, 1884.
	Samuel Crocker, 2d	Medford, Mass., September 12, 1888.
Lee, A. H.	Marie L. Foster	Scranton, Pa., Sept. 24, 1885.
	Arthur Howard, Jr., [d. Aug 8, '87]	Scranton, Pa., December 9, 1886.
	Henry Foster	Scranton, Pa., May 8, 1889.
LeRoy, H. S.	Clementina LeRoy Morgan	New York, N.Y., September 17, 1880.
	A son [d. January 2, 1882]	New York, N.Y., December 31, 1881.
	Herman	New York, N.Y., August 23, 1883.
	Robert	New York, N.Y., February 7, 1885.
McDonald	Ida Le Monde	Oakland, Cal, March 19, 1888.
Meyer	Marian Alice Appleton	Lenox, Mass., June 25, 1885.
	Julia Appleton	Lenox, Mass., July 30, 1886.
	Alice Appleton	Lenox, Mass., February 9, 1888.
Mulligan	Minna Rawson	Worcester, Mass., December 22, 1886.
	Ralph Coolidge	Natick, Mass., March 15, 1888.
Nichols	Emma A. Taylor	Somerville, Mass., May 23, 1882.
	John Robert	Somerville, Mass., May 16, 1883.
	Charles Elliott	Somerville, Mass., October 25, 1884.
	Howard	Somerville, Mass., May 23, 1887.
Osgood, C. N.	Margaret Nelson Alexander	Waltham, Mass., June 6, 1883.
	Harold Alexander	Minneapolis, Minn., April 9, 1885.
	Ruth	Minneapolis, Minn., June 1, 1887.
	Alan Marshall	Chicago, Ill., February 17, 1889.
Perkins, E. C.	Elizabeth Hoar Evarts	Windsor, Vt., August 2, 1882.
	Edward Newton, Jr	New York, N.Y., May 3, 1883.
	William Maxwell Evarts	New York, N.Y., September 20, 1884.
	Charles Callahan	New York, N.Y., October —, 1886.
	Mary Ann Davenport	New York, N.Y., May 11, 1890.

Perry	Annie Moseley	Dorchester, Mass , December 10, 1884.
	Frederick Gardiner, Jr	Dorchester, Mass., December 7, 1885.
	William Carleton	Westfield, Mass., October 13, 1887.
Porter	Endelle May Knapp	Boston, Mass., July 31, 1884.
Powel	Marian Clifford Howard	Newport, R.I., October 5, 1886.
	Harford Willing Hare, Jr	Philadelphia, Pa., August 20, 1887.
Preble	Mary Fostina Wilder	Medway, Mass., September 21, 1887.
Prescott	Eva Snow Smith	Charlestown, Mass., April 23, 1890
Preston	Ada Louise Fiero	September —, 1885.
	Harry Fiero	Troublesome, Colo., June 7, 1886.
	Marian West [d. February 1, 1890]	Troublesome, Colo., February 2, 1889.
Putnam	Grace Williams Tower	Waterville, N.Y., October 17, 1882.
	Amelia Tower	Rochester, N Y., August 26, 1883
	Grace Tower	Rochester, N.Y , May 5, 1886.
	Charlemange Tower [d. Feb. 17, '89]	Rochester, N.Y., February 16, 1888.
	Edward Putnam	Rochester, N.Y., February 1, 1890.
Richardson	Sara Jenkins Hanks	Cambridge, Mass., June 27, 1888.
Rindge	Rhoda May Knight	———— , Mich. May 17, 1887.
	Samuel Knight	Los Angeles, Cal., April 9, 1888.
Robinson, E	Elizabeth H. Gould	Boston, Mass., February 21, 1881.
	Phillips Brooks	Athens, Greece, February 3, 1882.
Robinson, E. A	Ida Loring Pratt	June 2, 1885.
	Margaret	Hingham, Mass., September 28, 1887.
	Willis Brainard	Forest Hills, Mass., April 15, 1889.
St. John	Martha Elizabeth Everett	Dover, Mass., June 26, 1885
	Everett	Northampton, Mass., March 27, 1889.
Shannon	Ella Preston Tucker	Portland, Me., August 20, 1884.
Sheafe	Grace Thornton Dame	Boston, Mass., April 3, 1888.
	William, Jr	Boston, Mass., September 6, 1889.
Sheldon	Mary Robinson Seney	Brooklyn, N.Y., November 16, 1881.
	Mary Seney	Brooklyn, N.Y., May 19, 1885.
	Gertrude	New York, N.Y., May 19, 1888.
Shute	Amelia Frances Weeks	Exeter, N.H., November 18, 1885.
	Richard Everett	Exeter, N.H., October 17, 1887.
Smith, F. W	Mary Frances Mack	Boston, Mass., June 13, 1888,
Smith, W. E	Alice Lee Newell	Framingham, Mass., Sept. 15, 1886.
	Everett Newell	Boston, Mass., June 26, 1888.
Snelling	Jane Lambert Kielblock	Boston, Mass., April 23, 1884.
Story	Marie Louise Hunt	New York, N.Y., June 22, 1888.
Swayze	Sarah Louise Barrett	Newton, N.J., October 13, 1887
Swift	Elizabeth Borden Hawes	Fairhaven, Mass., June 9, 1886.
	Jireh, 7th	Fairhaven, Mass., April 7, 1889
	Elizabeth	Fairhaven, Mass., June —, 1890.
Sylvester	Anna Frances Gage	Newtonville, Mass., April 3, 1883.
	Harold Gage	Newtonville, Mass., March 22, 1887.
Taussig	Edith Thomas Guild	Exeter, N.H., June 29, 1888.
	William Guild	Cambridge, Mass., May 3, 1889.
Temple	Mara Octavia Paine	Medford, Mass., December 1, 1887.
	Henrietta Frances	Boston, Mass., February 22, 1889.
Thomas, W. B	Caroline Wadleigh	Boston, Mass., August 20, 1883.

Thorp	Annie Allegra Longfellow	Cambridge, Mass., October 14, 1885.
	Alice Allegra	Cambridge, Mass., January 28, 1888.
	Amelia Chapman	Cambridge, Mass., August 11, 1889.
Trull	Hannah Jane Bailey	Lowell, Mass., October 3, 1884.
Underwood	Jennie Cushing	Boston, Mass., May 21, 1884.
	Alice Cushing	Belmont, Mass., February 23, 1885.
	Margaret Cushing	Belmont, Mass., June 24, 1886.
	Marion Cushing	Belmont, Mass., December 20, 1888.
Van Rensselaer	Louisa Greenough Lane	Cambridge, Mass., November 3, 1880.
Wells, C. L.	Marie Louise Goddard	Nashua, N.H., January 28, 1886.
Whiting	Charlotte Augusta Noyes	Boston, Mass., January 1, 1883.
	Beatrice Fay	Boston, Mass., December 12, 1883
Wilton	Mary Ellen Glidden	Salem, Mass., Jul 3, 1880.
	Richard Clive	Somerville, Mass., April 4, 1881.
	Wilfred Mallett	North Rochester, Mass., Oct. 2, 1882.
	Emma Gladys	Rindge, N.H., October 17, 1884.
	Herbert Wilder	Rindge, N.H., August 16, 1886.
Wolff	Ethel Pumpelly Loder	Newport, R.I., October 20, 1887.
Wood	Annie Louise Blandy	Dorchester, Mass., June 27, 1885
	Myra de Normandie	Roxbury, Mass., May 12, 1886.
	Marjorie	Roxbury, Mass., October 4, 1887.
	Grayson	Arlington, Mass., August 25, 1889
Wright	Katharine Louise Davis	Washington, D.C., May 2, 1888.
	Katharine Louise	New York, N.Y., October 30, 1889.

Adams	Mary Elizabeth Morse [d. Mch. 31, '87]	Boston, Mass., October, 1885.
	A daughter [d. March 10, 1887.]	Boston, Mass., March 10, 1887.
Alley	Mattie Sophia Botume	Stoneham, Mass., July 6, 1882.
Bissell	Lucy Agnes Coffey	Brooklyn, N. Y., October 30, 1883.
	Mary Rose	Buffalo, N. Y., October 31, 1884.
	Harriott Amelia	Buffalo, N. Y., September 3, 1888.
Blanchard	Clara Fessenden Barnes	Boston, Mass., November 30, 1887.
	Fessenda Seaver	Boston, Mass., November 7, 1888.
Carver	M. Louise Prescott	Dorchester, Mass., January 22, 1879.
Driver	Alice Plummer Dole	Boston, Mass., November 12, 1884.
	A son, [d. November 20, 1886.]	November 20, 1886.
Earle	Catherine Hansell French	Philadelphia, Pa., December 12, 1881.
French	Augusta Ann Graham	Philadelphia, Pa., October 30, 1883.
	Clayton, Jr.	Philadelphia, Pa., September 9, 1884.
	Augusta Graham	Rosemont, Pa., June 22, 1886.
	Bessie Graham	Rosemont, Pa., April 12, 1889.
Hutchinson	Acadia Cumins	Dixon, Ill., December 20, 1883.
Kitfield	Mattie Butler Carter	Manchester, Mass., November 29, 1882.
Miles	Lizzie Baxter James	Brookline, Mass., January 16, 1883.
	Herbert James	Brookline, Mass., October 22, 1883.
Miller, G. S.	Hattie Ella Russ	Lincolnville, Me., October 4, 1883.
Morse	Catherine Tumay, [d June 10, 1885.]	Springfield, Ill., June 20, 1879
Page	Kate A. Reed	Para, Brazil, September 6, 1883.

Perkins, C L	Margaret Gandy	New York, N. Y., January 18, 1882.
	John Lawrence	New York, N. Y., December 1. 1886.
Robbins	Sarah Guthrie Jewett	New York, N. Y., April 24, 1889.
Sargent, L.	[d. Aug. 12, 1883.] Cora Nelson Glenn	New York, N. Y., April 11, 1882.
Sawyer	Minnie H. Pierce, [d. Dec. 10, 1883.]	Gardner, Mass., April 24, 1883.
	Myra B. Tebault	Norfolk, Va., May 5, 1885.
	Harold Allen, [d. Feb 15, 1889]	Gardner, Mass., July 28, 1887.
Shea.	Jennie Wolf	St. Clairville, O., March 8, 1877.
	John Cornelius, Jr.	West Wheeling, O., January 1, 1878.
	Christian James Irving	West Wheeling, O., December 4, 1881.
	Margaret Parthenia	Washington, D. C., January 31, 1884.
	Dion	Omaha, Neb., January 6, 1886.
	Edwin	Omaha, Neb., April 11. 1890.
Shillito	Lizzie Gaither	Cincinnati, O., December, 1, 1880.
	Elizabeth Gaither	Cleveland, O., September 21, 1881.
Sibley	Ellen Maria Ayers	Boston, Mass., October 29, 1886.
	Edwin Ayers	Somerville, Mass., November 7, 1887.
	Eleanor Hooper	Somerville, Mass., July 15, 1889
Storm	Isabel Towle Abeel	New York, N. Y., October 30, 1879.
	May Brevoort	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 14, 1881.
	Gretta Adriance	Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 13, 1885.
Watson.	Alice Grain Parkinson	Jamaica Plain, Mass., Oct 12, 1887.
Willard	Ida Lillian Hutchinson	Burlington, Mass, March, 1880.
	Constance Alton	Lexington, Mass., December 14, 1880.
	Hélène Adams	Lexington, Mass., January 23, 1882.
	Edith	Lexington, Mass., June 13 1885.

CHRONOLOGICAL MARRIAGE RECORD.

1877.—Shea.

1879.—J. T. Coolidge, Anthony—2.
Carver, Morse, Storm.

1880.—Kidder, Donaldson, Wilton, Hudson, H. S. LeRoy, Crocker, Van Rensselaer—7.
Willard, Shillito.

1881.—E. Robinson, Keyes, Sheldon—3.
Earle.

1882.—Amen, R. W. Ellis, Evans, Nichols, Kinney, E. C. Perkins, Cobb, Hutchins, Burr, Putnam, Cushing—11.
C. L. Perkins, L. Sargent, Alley, Kitfield.

1883.—Dow, Whiting, Cook, Sylvester, Edmands, C. N. Osgood, Dunn, Houghton, Black, W. B. Thomas, Burlingham, Lawrence, Hyde, W. W. Coolidge—14.
Miles, Sawyer, Page, G. S. Miller, Bissell, French, Hutchinson.

1884.—Harding, Snelling, Underwood, Felton, Porter, Shannon, Trull, Hubbard, Faunce, Conant—11.
Driver.

1885.—Ayers, Huntington, Binney, E. A. Robinson, Cowdin, Wood, Preston, Crosman, Bennett, A. H. Lee, Thorp, M. S. Burrill, Shute, Crawford, Meyer—15.
Adams, Sawyer.

1886.—C. L. Wells, Dalzell, Barlow, Swift, W. E. Smith, Powel, Clapp, Mulligan—8.
Sibley.

1887.—Baylies, Curtis, Daniels, Rindge, G. H. Burrill, Preble, Swayze, Wolff, Temple, Houston—10.
Watson, Blanchard.

1888.—McDonald, Sheafe, Wright, Hanks, Bacon, F. H. Ellis, F. W. Smith, Story, St. John, Richardson, Taussig, Hodgdon, S. H. Hill, Kidder, Aldrich—15.

1889.—Heard, Brooks, Hale, Carey—4.
Robbins.

1890.—Goddard, H. Butler.
Prescott.

UNMARRIED.

Alger, Almy, Andrews, Apthorp, Atherton, Austin, Bates, Blood, A. H. Bowen, J. T. Bowen, Brandeis, C. O. Brewster, F. Brewster, Briggs, A. C. Brown, J. A. Brown, H. K. Brown, Cary, Casas, Case, Chapin, Churchill, Coverly, Cox, Crosman, Delano, Denègre, Gage, Galloupe, Grannis, Harlow, W. B. Hill, Hoadly, Hodges, Holmes, Homer, Hopkins, Hoppin, Howard, Ives, Jackson, Jacobs, Johnson, Kelley, Kingsbury, Lancaster, T. Lee, Leonard, Macfarlane, Mack, McLennan, Madden, Martin, A. P. Mason, C. J. Mason, Mercer, G. W. Miller, J. W. Mitchell, Monroe, Morris, Motley, Newhall, Norton, Nunn, Patten, Poor, Rand, Rose, Russell, H. R. Sargent, Schofield, Simpson, Sprague, H. Stetson, Tappan, Thayer, J. E. Thomas, Thompson, Townsend, Trimble, Tubbs, Twombley, Urquhart, Vaughn, Warren, J. W. Wells—86.

Married—102.

DEATHS.

1878.

Baldwin ..... Somerville, Mass. ..... April 15.

1879.

Titus ..... Rehoboth, Mass. ..... September 26.
Lobsitz ..... Boston, Mass. ..... February 17.
Hewitt ..... Cannon City, Colo. ..... February 27.

1880.

Pew ..... Gloucester, Mass. ..... June 25.
Katzenbach ..... San Francisco, Cal. ..... August.

1881.

Cadwell ..... New York, N. Y. ..... December 14.

1882.

Davis ..... Boston, Mass. ..... February 22.
Dolloff ..... Exeter, N. H. ..... September 20.
Weston ..... London, England ..... April 16.

1883.

Conlan ..... Cambridge, Mass. ..... July 4.
Sargent, L. ..... Buzzard's Bay, Mass. ..... August 12.

1885.

Arnold ..... New York, N. Y. ..... June.

1886.

Evans ..... Boston, Mass. ..... March 28.
Tarbell ..... Boston, Mass. ..... December 6.

1890.

Somerby ..... Boston, Mass. ..... June 19.

OCCUPATIONS.

LAW:—Austin, Ayers, Bacon, Baily, Barlow, Bates, Baylies, Bennett, Blood, Brandeis, C. O. Brewster, F. Brewster, A. C. Brown, H. K. Brown, Burlingham, M. S. Burrill, Casas, Case, Churchill Clapp, Cook, Cox, Crawford, Cushing, Denègre, F. H. Ellis, R. W. Ellis, Hanks, S. H. Hill, Hoadly, Hodges, Holmes, Homer, Hoppin, Hudson, Huntington, Hutchins, Kelley, Keyes, Lawrence, Leonard, Macfarlane, McLennan, Madden, Mercer, Monroe, Mulligan, Patten, E C. Perkins, Poor, Powel, Putnam, Richardson, Rose, Russell, Shute, Story, Swayze, Temple, Thorp, Townsend, Trimble, Trull, Van Rensselaer, Wood—(65)—Adams, Bissell, C. Brigham, Henderson, Hilton, Price, Rogers, Shea, Sibley.

MEDICINE:—Aldrich, Anthony, J. T. Bowen, Briggs, Cobb' Conant, Curtis, Daniels, Delano, Donaldson, Gage, Galloupe, Hodgdon, Johnson, Mack, Martin, A. P. Mason, G. N. Miller, Morris, Newhall, Preble, W. E. Smith, H. Stetson—(23).—Blanchard, Hutchinson, J. S. Mitchell, Sawyer, Weld.

MINISTRY:—Brooks, G. H. Burrill, Hale, W. B. Hill, Houghton, Hyde, Kinney, C. J. Mason, E. A. Robinson, St. John, H. R. Sargent, Snelling, C. L. Wells, Wilton—(14).

BUSINESS:—Alger, Almy, Binney, A. H. Bowen, Burr, Chapin, W. W. Coolidge, Cowdin, Crocker, Edmands, Faunce, Felton, Goddard, Grannis, Harding, Houston, Howard, Hubbard, Ives, Jacobs, Kidder, Kingsbury, Lancaster, A. H. Lee, H. S. Le Roy, McDonald, Meyer, J. W. Mitchell, Motley, Nichols, Norton, Nunn, C. N. Osgood, Perry, Porter, Prescott, Shannon, Sheafe, Sheldon, Simpson, F. W. Smith, Sprague, Swift, Tappan, W. B. Thomas, Thompson, Tubbs, Underwood, Urquhart, Vaughn, Whiting, Wright—(52).—Alley, N. M. Brigham, Cutler, Dodge, Driver, Ela, French, Gilbert, Haley, James, Kitfield, G. S. Miller, C. L. Perkins, Robbins, Schwartz, Storm, Towne, Teschemacher, Ware.

Teaching :—Amen, Andrews, Apthorp, Atherton, Black, J. A. Brown, Crosman, Dalzell, Dow, Dunn, Harlow, Hopkins, Sylvester, Taussig, Thayer, J. E. Thomas, Wolf—(16)—Bryant, E. L. Morse.

Student :—Rand, Warren.

Journalism :—Cary, Cook.

Art :—Carey, J. T. Coolidge, E. Robinson.

Agriculture :—G. Osgood, Whitcomb.

Ranching :—Jackson, Preston, Hayes.

CLASS DIRECTORY.

CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles.....Rindge.

San Francisco.....McDonald, Tubbs.

COLORADO:

Aspen.....Driver.

Denver.....Preston.

CONNECTICUT.

Stamford.....Harding.

Winsted.....Kinney.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA:

Washington.....Dodge.

FLORIDA:

Tarpon Springs.....Whitcomb.

ILLINOIS:

Chicago.....Case, Cobb, Howard, Hubbard, Madden, Rose, Bryant, Hutchinson.

So. Chicago.....Morse.

KENTUCKY:

Louisville.....Brandeis.

LOUISIANA:

New Orleans.....Denègre.

MAINE:

Bangor.....H. Stetson, Cutler, Schwartz.

Bowdoin.....Hyde.

Portland.....H. Butler.

MARYLAND:

Baltimore.....Williams.

MASSACHUSETTS:

Boston.....Andrews, Austin, Ayers, Bacon, Bates, Bennett, Blood, J. T. Bowen, F. Brewster, Briggs, H. K. Brown, Burr, Casas, Churchill, Clapp, Conant, J. T. Coolidge, W. W. Coolidge, Cushing, Delano, Edmands, F. H. Ellis, Hale, Hodges, Homer, Houston, Hudson, Kelley, Keyes, Kidder, Lawrence, Meyer, J. W. Mitchell, Monroe, Morris, Boston, Mass.—Continued. Mulligan, Nichols, Nunn, Patten, Perry Poor, Prescott, E. Robinson, Russell, Schofield, Sheafe, Simpson, F. W. Smith, Somerby, Sprague, J. E. Thomas, W. B. Thomas, Thorp, Underwood, Vaughn, Warren, Whiting, Wood—(58)—Adams, Alley, Blanchard, C. Brigham, Ela, Haley, Hilton, Kitfield, Miles, J. S. Mitchell, Rogers, Sibley, Weld.

Bradford ..... Anthony.
Brookline ..... Edmands.
Cambridge ..... Carey, Hanks, Hutchins, Preble, Rand, Richardson, Taussig, Thorp, Wolf.
Charlestown ..... Daniels, Temple, Prescott.
Concord ..... Hudson, Keyes.
Dedham ..... Hodgdon.
Fitchburg ..... Blood, Crocker, A. P. Mason.
Framingham ..... H. K. Brown, F. H. Ellis, W. E. Smith.
Gardner ..... Sawyer.
Greenfield ..... Brooks.
Haverhill ..... Houston.
Lawrence ..... Porter.
Lexington ..... Nunn.
Lowell ..... Gage, Lancaster, Motley, Trull.
Lynn ..... Galloupe, Newhall.
Malden ..... Ayers, Casas, Coverly.
Manchester ..... Kitfield.
Medford ..... Lawrence.
Natick ..... Bacon, Mulligan.
Needham ..... Dunn.
New Bedford ..... Haskell, Stone.
Newton Center ..... Baily.
Newtonville ..... Sylvester.
Northampton ..... St. John.
Rockport ..... Houghton.
Roxbury ..... Apthorp, Homer, Martin, Blanchard.
Salem ..... C. Brigham.
Somerville ..... Aldrich, Hopkins, Nichols.
Springfield ..... R. W. Ellis.
Walpole ..... Binney.
Waltham ..... Dalzell.
Webster ..... Schofield.

Massachusetts.—Concluded.

West Medford.....Delano.
West Tilsbury.....Wilton.
Woburn.....Dow.
Wollaston.....E. A. Robinson.

MICHIGAN:

Ann Arbor.....Mack.

MINNESOTA:

Faribault.....C. L. Wells.
Minneapolis.....Cook, S. H. Hill, C. N. Osgood.

MISSOURI:

Kansas City.....Shannon.
St. Louis.....Ives.

MONTANA:

Miles City.....Alger.

NEBRASKA:

Omaha.....Shea.
Berlin Falls.....Johnson.
Exeter.....F. A. Brown, Shute.
Kensington.....G. Osgood.

NEW JERSEY:

Newton.....Swayze.

NEW MEXICO:

Gallinas.....Hayes.

NEW YORK:

Albany.....Van Rensselaer.
Buffalo.....Almy, Cary, Bissell.
Brooklyn.....A. H. Bowen.
New Lebanon.....G. H. Burrill.
New York.....Barlow, Baylies, Black, C. O. Brewster, A. C. Brown, Burlingham, G. H. Burrill, M. S. Burrill, Cowdin, Cox, Crawford, Curtis, Goddard, Grannis, Holmes, Hoppin, Huntington, H. S. LeRoy, Macfarlane, G. N. Miller, E.C. Perkins, Sheldon, Story, Townsend, Trimble, Urquhart, Wright—(27). —Henderson, C. L. Perkins, Robbins.
Poughkeepsie.....Amen, W. B. Hill, Storm.
Rochester.....Putnam.
Syracuse.....Harlow.
Utica.....Watson.

OHIO:
Cincinnati ..... Hoadly.
Ironton..... Norton.
PENNSYLVANIA:
Brownsville ..... Jacobs.
Doylestown ..... Mercer.
Haverford College..... Crosman.
Mansfield Valley..... Faunce.
Philadelphia..... Leonard, C. J. Mason, Powel, Snelling, Thompson, French, James, Towne.
Scranton ..... A. H. Lee.
Steelton ..... Felton.
Wilkesbarre..... Price.
RHODE ISLAND:
So. Portsmouth..... Ware.
TENNESSEE:
Memphis..... Sargent.
UTAH:
Salt Lake City..... N. M. Brigham.
WASHINGTON:
Centralia..... Kingsbury.
Seattle..... Chapin.
WEST VIRGINIA:
Wheeling ..... G. S. Miller.
WISCONSIN:
Milwaukee ..... Gilbert, Keene.
WYOMING:
Cheyenne..... Teschemacher.

AUSTRIA:
Berlin ..... Donaldson.
Vienna ..... Briggs.
BRAZIL:
Pernambuco..... Swift.
Para..... Page.
BRITISH COLUMBIA:
Shuswap ..... Tappan.
CANADA:
Montreal..... McLennan.
ENGLAND:
London..... Heard.
FRANCE:
Paris ..... Twombley.

CLASS FUND.

FRANCIS ALMY, SECRETARY, in account with Class of 1879.

Dr. Cr.

1885-86.

To Balance June 15, 1885	$100 73	Commencement, 1885	$57 42
" 1st Installment Class Fund	10 00	Class Report III	247 35
" 3d " " "	38 00	Printing.	22 82
" 4th " " "	68 00	Postage.	17 38
" 5th " " "	60 00	Stationery.	1 55
" Special Subscriptions	20 00	Exchange on Checks	1 45
" Interest	188 00	Assistance on Circulars, etc	90
		Miscellaneous.	1 50
	$484 73		$350 37
		On hand June 26, 1886	134 36
			$484 73

1886-87.

To Balance	$134 36	Commencement, 1886		$62 10
" 1st Installment Class Fund	20 00	250th Anniv. Dinner, 105 plates	$284 40
" 2d " " "	35 00	Menus.	40 00
" 3d " " "	45 00	Song Books	20 00	344 40
" 4th " " "	55 00	Printing.		25 85
" 5th " " "	83 00	Postage.		26 27
" Special Subscriptions	15 00	Stationery.		1 00
" Interest	194 78	Exchange.		30
" Window Fund	25 00	Assistance		5 75
		Miscellaneous.		1 48
	$607 14			$467 15
		On hand June 25, 1887		139 99
				$607 14

1887-88.

To Balance	$139 99	Commencement, 1887	$66 35
" 2d Installment Class Fund	25 00	Printing.	8 09
" 3d " " "	5 00	Postage.	22 00
" 4th " " "	15 00	Assistance on Circulars, etc	3 00
" 5th " " "	55 00	Miscellaneous.	2 26
" Special Subscriptions	27 50		$101 70
" Interest	195 18	On hand June 24, 1888	360 97
	$462 67		$462 67

CLASS FUND—Continued.

1888-89.

To Balance	$360 97	Commencement, 1888	$61 55
" 2d Installment Class Fund	35 00	Printing	6 94
" 3d " " "	55 00	Postage	10 00
" 4th " " "	85 00	Exchange on Checks	15
" 5th " " "	70 00	Assistance on Circulars	1 00
" Special Subscriptions	12 50		$79 64
" Interest	216 56	On hand June 26, 1889	755 39
	$835 03		$835 03

1889-90.

To Balance	$755 39	Commencement, 1889	$76 92
" 2d Installment Class Fund	40 00	Decennial Dinner, 91 plates $278 50
" 3d " " "	40 00	Menus 20 00	298 50
" 4th " " "	55 00	Printing	22 00
" 5th " " "	65 00	Postage	17 25
" Special Subscriptions	5 00	Stationery	5 55
" Interest	183 28	Clerical Assistance	5 50
" Sale of Atchison Bonds	1,903 05	Sale of Bonds and Recording Mortgage	6 52
	$3,046 72	Buffalo Mortgage	2,000 00
		Miscellaneous	85
			$2,433 09
		On hand June 23, 1890	613 63
			$3,046 72

INVESTED FUNDS.

$1,000.00 Leavenworth, Topeka & Southwestern, 1st M. 4 per cent. Bonds. Bought at 70½. Now quoted at 70.

$1,000.00 Leavenworth, Topeka & Southwestern 1st M. 4 per cent. Bonds. Bought at 70¾. Now quoted at 70.

$2,000 00 Buffalo 6 per cent. Mortgage ..... Payable in 1898

AMOUNT DUE AND UNPAID.

(June 23, 1890.)

1st Installment, due in	1879	0	Subscriptions Unpaid			$ ——
2d " "	1880	7	"	"		55 00
3d " "	1881	15	"	"		121 00
4th " "	1882	28	"	"		240 00
5th " "	1883	33	"	"		277 00
						$693 00

COLLEGE FUND.

FRANCIS ALMY, SECRETARY, in account with the Class of 1879.

Dr. Cr.

1885-90.

On hand June 15, 1885	$87 00	July 12, 1886—Paid A. B. Silsbee, Trustee	$420 25
To 1st Installment	7 50	August 7, 1888—Paid A. B. Silsbee, Trustee	433 55
" 2d "	7 50	Postage	12 50
" 3d "	25 00	Exchange on Checks	1 15
" 4th "	40 00	Assistance on Circulars	3 00
" 5th "	61 00		$870 45
" 6th "	208 00	On hand June 23, 1890	340 45
" 7th "	218 00		$1,210 90
" 8th "	208 00
" 9th "	184 00
" 10th "	156 50
" Interest	8 40
	$1,210 90

AMOUNT DUE AND UNPAID.

(June 23, 1890.)

On 1st Installment, due in	1880	7	Subscriptions, amounting to	$33 00
" 2d "	"	1881	9	"	"	40 00
" 3d "	"	1882	12	"	"	50 00
" 4th "	"	1883	15	"	"	62 50
" 5th "	"	1884	15	"	"	62 50
" 6th "	"	1885	15	"	"	62 50
" 7th "	"	1886	15	"	"	62 50
" 8th "	"	1887	16	"	"	67 50
" 9th "	"	1888	20	"	"	91 50
" 10th "	"	1889	24	"	"	119 00
						$651 00

ADDRESSES.

☞Notice of any change in address should be sent at once to the Secretary.

Aldrich, Dr. Albert C., 329 Broadway, Somerville, Mass.
Alger, Horace C., Sheridan, Wyoming Ter.
Almy, Francis, Buffalo, N. Y.
Amen, Harlan P., Riverview Academy, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Andrews, Clement W., 36 Rutland Sq., Boston.
Anthony, Dr. Francis W., Bradford, Mass.
Apthorp, H. O., Milton Academy, Milton, Mass.
Atherton, Edward H., 2 Howland, Roxbury, Mass.
Austin, William R., 21 Pemberton Sq., Boston.
Ayers, George D., 2 Pemberton Sq., Boston.
Bacon, Charles W., Natick, Mass.
Bailey, Henry, Box 24, Newton Centre, Mass.
Barlow, P. T., 35 William, New York, N. Y.
Bates, Waldron, 5 Pemberton Sq., Boston.
Baylies, Edmund L., 20 W. 36th, and 66 Wall, New York, N. Y.
Bennett, Samuel C., 10 Tremont, Boston.
Binney, Amos, Walpole, Mass,
Black, George A., 74 W. 91st, New York, N. Y.
Blood, Charles H., 54 Devonshire, Boston.
Bowen, A. H., 44 Pierrepont, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Bowen, Dr. John T., 14 Marlborough, Boston.
Brandeis, Albert S., Louisville, Ky.
Brewster, Charles O., 261 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Brewster, Frank, 39 Court, Boston.
Briggs, Dr. Fredric M., 15 Charles, Boston.
Brooks, Rev. Arthur A., Greenfield, Mass.
Brown, Arthur C., Mass.
Brown, Howard K., Framingham, Mass.
Brown, John A., Exeter, N. H.

Burlingham, Charles C., 45 William, New York, N. Y.
Burr, I. Tucker, Jr., 35 Congress, Boston.
Burrill, Rev. George H., New Lebanon, Col. Co., N. Y.
Burrill, Middleton S., 21 Broad, New York, N. Y.
Butler, Harry, Portland, Me.
Carey, Arthur A., Cambridge, Mass.
Cary, Walter, 184 Delaware Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.
Casas, William B. De Las, 95 Cedar, Malden, Mass.
Case, William W., 50 Montauk Block, Chicago, Ill.
Chapin, Herman, Seattle, Washington.
Churchill, J. M. B., 82 Devonshire, Boston.
Clapp, Robert P., 40 Water, Boston.
Cobb, Dr. Joseph P., 207 31st, Chicago, Ill.
Conant, Dr. William M., 252 Newbury, Boston.
Cook, George F., Minneapolis, Minn.
Coolidge, J. T., 3d, 114 Beacon, Boston.
Coolidge, William W., Salem, Mass.
Coverly, George T., Jr., Malden, Mass.
Cowdin, John E., 14 W. 21st., New York, N. Y.
Cox, Wilmot T., 32 Nassau, New York, N. Y.
Crawford, Frank L., 229 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Crocker, Alvah, Fitchburg, Mass.
Crosman, Charles S., Haverford College P. O., Pa.
Curtis, Dr. Francis G., Newton Centre, Mass.
Cushing, Livingston, 10 Tremont, Boston.
Dalzell, John W., 15 Appian Way, Cambridge, Mass.
Daniels, Dr. F. H., 126 W. 126th, New York, N. Y.
Delano, Dr. Samuel, West Medford, Mass.
Denègre, Walter W., 35 Carondelet, New Orleans, La.
Donaldson, Dr. Frank, Jr., Behren Strasse 7, Berlin.
Dow, Herbert B., Woburn, Mass.
Dunn, Francis De M., Needham, Mass.
Edmands, M. Grant, Beacon St., Brookline, Mass.
Ellis, Frederick H., Framingham, Mass.
Ellis, Ralph W., Springfield, Mass.
Faunce, George, Mansfield Valley, Allegheny Co., Pa.

Felton, Edgar C., Steelton, Dauphin Co., Pa.
Gage, Dr. J. Arthur, 48 Central, Lowell, Mass.
Galloupe, Dr. Charles W., 1 Park, Lynn, Mass.
Goddard, Warren N., 516 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Grannis, H. W., Care Westinghouse Electric Co., 120 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Hale, Rev. Edward, 281 Westchester Park, Boston.
Hanks, Charles S., 209 Washington, Boston.
Harding, Louis, Stamford, Conn.
Harlow, William B., Syracuse, N. Y.
Heard, Richard, 8 Drapers Gardens, London, E. C.
Hill, Samuel, P. O. Box 1000, Minneapolis, Minn.
Hill, Rev. William Bancroft, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Hoadly, George, Jr., P. O. Box 633, Cincinnati, O.
Hodgdon, Dr. Andrew H., Dedham, Mass.
Hodges, George Clarendon, P. O. Box 1907, Boston.
Holmes, Jabish, Jr., 280 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Homer, Thomas J., 59 Winthrop, Roxbury, Mass.
Hopkins, Duane, 23 Boston, Somerville, Mass.
Hoppin, Samuel H., P. O. Box 3712, New York, N. Y.
Houghton, Rev. Edward L., Rockport, Mass.
Houston, Frank A., 50 Pearl, Boston.
Howard, William D., Market and Adam, Chicago, Ill.
Hubbard, William H., 904 "The Rookery," Chicago, Ill.
Hudson, Woodward, Concord, Mass.
Huntington, Austin, 165 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Hutchins, William E., 6 White, North Cambridge, Mass.
Hyde, Rev. Wm. De W., President Bowdoin Coll., Brunswick, Me.
Ives, David O., St. Louis, Mo.
Jackson, George W., 84 Dudley, Roxbury, Mass., and 31 Milk, Boston.
Jacobs, Martin R., 220 Rialto Building, Chicago, Ill.
Johnson, Dr. Henry W., Berlin Falls, N. H.
Kelley, Webster, 37 Springfield, Boston.
Keyes, Prescott, Concord, Mass.
Kidder, Charles A., P. O. Box 7, Boston.

Kingsbury, Edward P., Centralia, Washington.
Kinney, Rev. Henry N., Winsted, Conn.
Lancaster, Walter M., "Spy" Editorial Rooms, Worcester, Mass.
Lawrence, William B., Medford, Mass.
Lee, Arthur H., P. O. Box 481, Scranton, Pa.
Lee, Thomas, Westport, Essex Co., N. Y.
Leonard, Frederick M., 333 Walnut, Philadelphia, Pa.
LeRoy, Herman S., Union Club, New York, N. Y.
Macfarlane, Wallace, 261 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Mack, Dr. Charles S., Ann Arbor, Mich.
McDonald, Frank V., care Pacific Bank, San Francisco, Cal.
McLennan, Francis, 1724 Notre Dame, Montreal, Canada.
Madden, Edgar, 172 La Salle, Chicago, Ill.
Martin, Dr. Francis C., 27 Dudley, Roxbury, Mass.
Mason, Dr. Atherton P., Fitchburg, Mass.
Mason, Rev. Chas. J., 1630 Walnut, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mercer, Henry C., Doylestown, Bucks Co., Pa.
Meyer, George von L., Fiske Building, 89 State, Boston.
Miller, Dr. George N., Jr., 39 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.
Mitchell, James W., 17 Central, Boston.
Monroe, William I., 73 Walnut Ave., Roxbury, Mass.
Morris, Dr. John G., 69 Broadway, South Boston.
Motley, George S., Lowell, Mass.
Mulligan, Henry C., Natick, Mass.
Newhall, Dr. Herbert W., 46 Broad, Lynn, Mass.
Nichols, John L., 463 Commercial, Boston.
Norton, J. R., Anniston, Ala.
Nunn, C. P., 600 Atlantic Ave., Boston.
Osgood, Charles N., 727 Rookery Building, Chicago, Ill.
Patten, Francis B., 23 Milk, Boston.
Perkins, Edward C., 115 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Perry, Frederick G., 6 Hamilton Pl., Boston.
Poor, Albert, 42 Court, Boston.
Porter, Frank L., Lawrence, Mass.
Powel, H. W. Hare, 712 Walnut, Philadelphia, Pa.
Preble, Dr. Wallace, Cambridge, Mass.

Prescott, Walter C., 36 Harvard, Charlestown, Mass.
Preston, T. Webb, 2439 Ogden, Denver, Colo.
Putnam, Earl B., P. O. Box 12, Rochester, N. Y.
Rand, Benjamin, 12 Plympton, Cambridge, Mass.
Richardson, William M., 57 Equitable Building, Boston.
Rindge, Frederick H., Los Angles, Cal.
Robinson, Edward, Museum of Fine Arts, Boston.
Robinson, Rev. Edward A., Wollaston, Mass.
Rose, Hiram H., 95 Washington, Chicago, Ill.
Russell, Thomas, 50 State, Boston.
St. John, Rev. Charles E., Northampton Mass.
Sargent, Rev. Henry R., Emmanuel Clergy House, Memphis, Tenn.
Schofield, William, 10 Tremont, Boston.
Shannon, Edward W., 523 Delaware, Kansas City, Mo.
Sheafe, William, Jr., 383 Washington, Boston.
Sheldon, George R., P. O. Box 2062, New York, N. Y.
Shute, Henry A., Exeter, N. H.
Simpson, Frank E., 7½ Beacon, Boston.
Smith, Frederic W., 91 Oliver, Boston.
Smith, Dr. Willard Everett, 21 Concord Sq., Boston.
Snelling, Rev. Samuel, 1030 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Sprague, Charles F., 20 Ashburton Pl., Boston.
Stetson, Dr. Hayward, 43 Broadway, Bangor, Me.
Story, Marion, Knickerbocker Club, 55 W. 26th, New York, N. Y.
Swayze, Francis J., Newton, N. J.
Swift, Jireh, Jr., Pernambuco, Brazil.
Sylvester, William H., P. O. Box 45, Newtonville, Mass.
Tappan, Herbert, Brookline, Mass.
Taussig, Prof. Frank W., Cambridge, Mass.
Temple, Frederick H., 234 Bunker Hill, Charlestown, Mass.
Thayer, John A., Oread Academy, Worcester, Mass.
Thomas, James E., English High School, Boston.
Thomas, W. B., 24 Broad, Boston.
Thompson, John J., 2024 Spruce, Philadelphia, Pa.
Thorp, Joseph G., Jr., Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

Townsend, John J., Jr., 131 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y.
Trimble, Walter, 59 E. 25th, New York, N. Y.
Trull, Larkin T., 25 Church, Lowell, Mass.
Tubbs, Alfred S., 613 Front, San Francisco, Cal.
Twombley, William G., 3 Rue Tilsitt, Paris, France.
Underwood, Henry O., Belmont, Mass.
Urquart, David, University Club, New York, N. Y.
Van Rensselaer, William Bayard, 25 North Pearl, Albany, N. Y.
Vaughn, John, 14 Windsor, Boston.
Warren, Henry C., 67 Mt. Vernon, Boston.
Wells, Rev. Chas. L., Faribault, Minn.
Wells, J. Walter, care T. L. Livermore, 40 Water, Boston.
Whiting, Chas. H., P. O. Box 2736, Boston.
Wilton, Rev. Richard T., West Tilsbury, Mass.
Wolff, John Eliot, Story St., Cambridge, Mass.
Wood, Stephen B., 30 Court, Boston.
Wright, James A., Jr., 6 Bowling Green, New York, N. Y.

Adams, Francis W., Hemenway Building, Boston.
Alley, John S., 75 South, Boston.
Bailey, Prof. Benjamin F., Union, South Carolina.
Bissell, Herbert P., Buffalo, N. Y.
Blanchard, Dr. Benjamin S., Davis Ave., Brookline, Mass.
Bonner, John E.
Brigham, Clifford, Salem, Mass.
Brigham, Nat M., Salt Lake City, Utah.
Bryant, Henry W., 2231 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Butler, George M., Northampton, Mass.
Carver, Benjamin F., care Benjamin C. Carver, 30 South, New York, N. Y.
Chandler, Frederick E., 161 Newbury, Boston.
Cushman, William B., Oxford, Mass.
Cutler, George C., Bangor, Me.
Day, Thomas C., Barnstable, Mass.
Dodge, Pickering, Washington, D. C.

Driver, Charles, Aspen, Colo.
Dwinell, James H., care James F. Dwinell, Winchester, Mass.
Earle, George H., Jr., Rooms 2, 3, 4 Ledger Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
Edwards, Pierrepont, 407 North Broad, Elizabeth, N. J.
Ela, Alfred, 13 Ash, Cambridge, Mass.
Everett, Edward, 105 Beacon, Boston.
French, Harry B., 1001 Market, Philadelphia, Pa.
Friedlander, T. Cary, 18 California, San Francisco, Cal.
Gale, John P., care William B. Gale, Marlborough, Mass.
Gardiner, James McDonald, Jr., Hackensack, N. J.
Gilbert, Joseph T., Milwaukee, Wis.
Grant, Patrick, Jr., 4 Post-Office Sq., Boston.
Greene, Herbert E., care W. L. Greene & Co., 7A Beacon, Boston.
Haley, C. Merton, 259 Walnut Ave., Boston Highlands, Mass.
Haskell, Edward P., Jr., New Bedford, Mass.
Hayes, Charles E., 68 Chestnut Sq., Boston.
Henderson, Harold G., 80 Washington Sq., New York, N. Y..
Hilton, G. Arthur, 235 Boylston, Boston.
Hutchinson, Dr. Mahlon, 175 Clark, Chicago, Ill.
James, Clarence G., 1332 Washington Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.
Keene, F. B., 294 Greenbush, Milwaukee, Wis.
Kitfield, George A., Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass.
Ladd, John F., care John S. Ladd, Esq., 2 Frost, Cambridge, Mass.
Lewis, Rabbi Samuel K., Las Vegas, N. M.
Leister, Anton, Brunswick, Ohio.
LeRoy, Archibald, care Edward A. LeRoy, 261 Water, New York, N. Y.
Lincoln, Charles S., 120 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
Littlefield, George A., Malden, Mass.
Miles, J. M., 13 West, Boston.
Miller, George S., Box 95, Benwood, Va.
Mitchell, John S., 136 Westchester Park, South End, Boston.
Morse, Edward L., South Chicago, Ill.
Osgood, George, 2d, Kensington, N. H.
Page, William E., care Henry A. Gould, Para, Brazil.
Perkins, C. Lawrence, Cotton Exchange Building, New York, N. Y.
Price, William C., Wilkesbarre, Luzerne Co., Pa.

Robbins, Julian W., 35 Wall, New York, N. Y.
Rogers, William Stanton, 5 Pemberton Sq., Boston.
Sawyer, Dr. Edward A., Gardner, Mass.
Shea, John C., Omaha, Neb.
Shillito, Stewart, care John Shillito & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Sibley, E. D., 23 Court, Boston.
Solger, Parry K., 1211 Eleventh, Washington, D. C.
Stetson, Robert C., 33 Marlborough, Boston.
Stone, Francis H., New Bedford, Mass.
Storm, George W., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Strong, John P., St. Joseph, Mo.
Taff, John H., 34 School, Boston.
Teschemacher, Arthur M., Box 316, Cheyenne, Wyoming.
Towne, William F., 112 South Fourth, Philadelphia, Pa.
Ware, Francis M., Sandy Point Farm, Portsmouth, R. I.
Watson, William L., Utica, N. Y.
Weld, Dr. Charles G., 81 Mason Building, Boston.
Whitcomb, Merrick, Tarpon Springs, Hillsboro Co., Florida.
Willard, John H., P. O. Box 178, Lexington, Mass.

SIGILLVM ✣ ACADEMIÆ : HARVARDINÆ : IN : NOV : ANG :
CHRISTO ET ECCLESIÆ